THE CAMPAIGN.

The work of the campaign has been commenced and reform committee rooms have been opened in McDonell's [block, next the Ontario Bank.

The first meeting of the campaign was held on Tuesday evening at the rooms, net duty of $13 50 in favor of the home manufacturer. He did not explain why a and was well attended. A large amoun of preliminary work was done. A meeting will be held on Saturday $100 implement.

EAST VICTORIA.

The Toronto Evening News character Izes the action of the East Victoria convention at Fenelon Falls, last Friday, as a "clever piece of tactics." The from one convulsion into another. inuendo in this language is not deserved, because it was no fault of the reformers who assembled that a party candidate is not in the field. Mr. Thurston, the pat- | had the fun of experimenting on the 10ron candidate, is, no doubt, a highly respectable man, and will make, if elected, a very worth representative, but a supporter of Mr. Mowat would have been preferred and would have been got without any consideration of Mr. Thurston, had such an one accepted the nomination. Mr. Thurston's antecedents are liberal, yet, notwithstanding this fact, the convention very positively refused to recognize him as the party candidate, leaving the members of the association the people from direct taxation. Because uninfluenced by any action of the convention.

Mr. Meredith has opened the campaign, but from the beginning to the end and lastly, because it would be a public of his London speech made no reference to the patron platform, unless, as it has with ingratitude and defeat. Mr. Meredith cannot appreciate that it is not only the privilege, but the right of any body of men, and especially the right of a minority, to resent intolerant language; and the privilege or right is scarcely the less, even if it be so, as Mr. Meredith alleges, that the language was provoked. His criticism of the financial position of the province was weak, wishy-washy and misleading. His claim is that liabilities to accrue have not been placed as liabili-If the real facts stopped there, Mr. Meredith would be right, but he was unfair and disingenuous in not stating the whole facts, namely, that the liabilitles to which he referred were omitted as such, because assets of the province to be hereafter held were correspondingly omitted as assets, inasmuch as the one would balance the other.

In his attack on the crown lands department Mr. Meredith unwittingly was dealing his Ottawa friends a severe blow. Because, he said, in 1872 timber limits that then sold for $5,000, were afterwards in 1892 sold for $500,000, the department at Toronto was greatly to be censured. Mr. Meredith knows very little about the economic variations in the value of timber limits. The price obtained in 1872 was the highest that could be got, and that at a sale by public auction after widespread advertising, But the funny part of this is that one of the limits so sold for $5,000 in 1872 was afterwards sold by the conservatives at Ottawa (whom in the same speech Mr. Death of Lincoln; the third, "Killing Deer."
