[Correspondence of THE POST.] JACK OF ALL TRADES .- A certain Christian 'Scientist," who lives across the river here, being master of all trades, artist, jeweller, etc., who makes his living chiefly In the country, returned on Saturday last for "supplies," with horse and wagon. On Monday there was an attempt made by his wife to prevent him from taking some of the household effects, when he commenced to abuse his wife. She called on a party who was engaged to plough the garden, for assistance, when the scientist began the battle with a hand-saw, which struck terror into the would-be peacemaker, who, whilst retreating, got hold of a garden rake, which he used freely on the scientist. Thinking beyond a doubt that he was past all manner of healing, he made a bee-line for Dr. Thompson's surgery, who dressed the wounds, and now the doctor is even with the man whom he could not baffle in Sanday school not long since. Law is threatened, but the victor in this affray is the favorite, especially with the neighboring women.
