WHEN CHARGED BY COUNCIL. LORS WITH EXTRAVAGANCE.

Tuesday Night's Meeting of the Board Very Interesting-A Town Council Deputation Receive a Courteous but Effective "Dressing Down"-Communications, Reports and Other

As a result of several sharp lessons administered during the past few years, members of council who give expression to or prefer charges of extravagance against the school board will no doubt become convinced, if not of their foolhardiness, at least of the wisdom of farnishing such facts and figures as will convince the public that there is something reasonable. board would no doubt sympathize with in their contention. It should be well understood that the board are fully prepared to defend their course in educational matters, hence any weak, ill-judged attack on the score of economy Miserable-Could Not Use Her Hands is likely to be both unsuccessful and somewhat humiliating to the attacking and Found it Difficult to Walkparty. Speed the Wide Tire. A writer in the Indianapolis Journal, in an article on "Broad vs. Narrow Tires," argues strongly for the former, saying, in

. Without one single dissenting voice the students of road economies say that the greatest road destroyer is the narrow tired wagon. It cuts like a knife, and, no matter how carefully the surface is graded and levelled, a rut is bound to follow its use. It finds every soft spot and cuts until a fine reservoir is formed to hold the rains. On the contrary, the wide tire not only keeps gravel but also dirt roads smooth and in good condition. The amount of bearing surface presented to the road prevents any material cutting, but, on the contrary, acts, as a roller, smoothing out governing the shipping of live stock to rough spots and solidifying the smooth Europe, to which reference was made in Saturday's issue: gets in its work of cutting the surface and forming ruts to start the sesson with, while the wide tire is in itself a roadmaker, smoothing and packing the upheaved surface. The wide tire is also easier on the tesm. A much heavier load may be hauled with the same power on wide, than on narrow tires over any road in the state outside the larger cities. The same is true on the farm in the fields.
