In The Time of Sickness

A Story of the Niger Delta.

One afternoon of the dry season, when forest and swamp lay sweltering beneath the fierce rays of the African sun, a cottonwood canoe slid down a yellow river winding through the watery forests of the Niger delta.

When the canoe had passed the first bend, the white man's face was pale as a sheet. He had been ill for some time, and now he was worse than ever.

Therefore, being a man of resource, he had puzzled over designs and complicated pieces of link motion himself, and now, blackened with soot of kerosene and redolent of rancid oil, he bent over the clanking machinery.
