who disappeared on April 1, 1886, has been arrested at Los Angeles, Cal. He had insured his life for $20,000 before he disappeared. His clothing, found on the bank of the Niagara river, seemed to point to suicide. Three months later a dead body was found below the falls exactly answering Crandell's description. His wife and relatives positively identified the body as that of Crandell and part of the insurance was paid. The insurance company being still suspicious the matter was taken into court in March, 1887.

-A little girl, daughter of Mrs. A. Hall of Cornwall, Ont., had a narrow escape from probably fatal injuries. She was going along the street when a vicious cow likely to succeed than were the negotiacatching her on its horns threw her on to years. He continues: "After the concluthe grass plot in front of St. John's church. The infuriated brute followed the child there and had commenced to gore her when Mr. C. H. -A Buffalo despatch says: Mr. W. A. Thompson, a Canadian farmer of Chepstowe, Ont., arrived in Buffalo this morning from New York. He was a victim of the gang of swindlers known as green goods men. It was the same old atory. He went down to New York on the understanding that he could buy $7,000 counterfelt money for $500. He was met by one of the swindlers at Poughkeepsie, taken to New York, planked down his $500, saw the bogus $7,000 counted out and apparently put in a box which he was cautioned not to open till he reached Buffalo. On arriving here he opened the box, and found it to contain some paper anda piece of brick. man—out his $500 and his expenses to New and home rule, the Chronicle has espoused

York. -Lord Salisbury, the prime minister, had a narrow escape from serious injury or death Friday morning. He was proceeding through St. James street, London, when the spirited team of horses attached to his carriage took fright at something in the street and bolted. The coachman made frantic efforts to stop the runaways, but the horses dashed along with frightful speed until the carriage came in collision with a pedestrian refuge in the middle of the roadway. The equipage was instantly overturned. A crowd quickly assembled, and Lord Salisbury was assisted out of the carriage through a window. severely shaken up, but was quite cool, In response to anxious inquiries from the bystanders, he said he was not hurt in any way. The coachman was thrown from the box and sustained severe injuries. Lord Salisbury appeared to be more concerned about him than about himself. After giving directions as to his proper attendance a cab was called and Lord Salisbury proceeded to his destination. The carriage was wrecked. -Edmund Yates in the World, his own paper, says of Lord Salisbury's protection speech: "One is justified by long experience in looking for something startling when Lord Salisbury addresses a public audience, for he seems incapable of resisting the temptation to blurt out all that is in him when he finds himself face to face with a popular gathering. In his Hastings harangue the premier has surpassed himself and has sprung upon his bewildered surporters a subject which they would have much preferred to leave in the obscurity to which it has been consigned for the last half-dezen years or so. What was the cause of the outburst no one can make out. It seems hardly credible that the premier was got at by the United Empire Trade Leaguers, and yet it is more than hinted that this was the case. The only alternative was to suppose that Lord Salisbury, overcome by the desire to catch votes, allowed himself to plunge into a discourse of which he can hardly be said to have worked out the details. Of the effect of his indiscretion at Westminster it is useless to try to make any secret. The majority of the conservatives and all the liberal-unionists, not excepting the chancellor of the exchequer, are perplexed and, to put it mildly, perturbed."

-A London cable says: -A cabinet council was held to-day for the special purpose of determining the date for the dissolution of parliament. It was attended by all the ministers except Mr. Stanhope. -A St. Petersburg cable says: The im-perial economic society states that a pro-tracted drought has caused serious damage to grass in every province. Farmers are complaining of a lack of pasturage. Grain and other crops are also suffering from the and other crops are also suffering from the dry weather. Hears are entertained that the drought will cause the failure of the spring sowings. The society recommends the storage of grain and fodder.

- Fred. Peatt, a young man aged about twenty years of age, recently in the employ of Mesars. McCormack & Irwin, doing a insuber business in the Parry Sound district, was drowned in the Magnetawan river last Saturday. The young man had been clarking with Mr. Irwin on the Still river till the drive was over, and last Saturday morning Mr. Irwin got a trusty man to take him by cance to the Magnetawan drive of the firm. Monday Mr. Irwin received a telegram from Mr. White of Byng Inlet stating that on the voyage the cance Inlet stating that on the voyage the cance was upset and the young man Peatt drowned. The body had not been found at the date of the telegram. Mr. Irwin is anxious to learn the whereabouts of the unfortunate lad's parents so that he may write them. He thinks they reside somewhere south of Rice lake. Any person having this knowledge will kindly communicate with Mr. W. Irwin of Peterboro. -Tests are now in progress at the School of Practical Science, Toronto, that may demonstrate the availability of peat as substitute for Pennsylvania coal. Years ago peat was tried at the Toronto bolt works by request of the C. P. R. The fuel gave every satisfaction, but the expense of its preparation made it more expensive the machines. It is claimed that under the new system peat can be marketed for $3.50 in the first stages of its development. The peat of to-day will be the coal deposits of several thousand years from now. Ontario has practically an inexhaustible supply of the best peat. There is scarcely a county in the province that has not the raw material in abundance, and up towards James's Bay there are millions of acres awaiting development. The Ontario government is sparing no effort to develop all the possibilities that lurk in the idea. -Earl Grey has written a long letter to the London Times protesting against Lord Salisbury's Hastings speech. He asks whether negotiations with foreign powers now on the basis of reciprocity are more sion of the peace of 1815, when we had considerable concessions to offer, we were unable to grant favors to one nation without offending another, and the practice of making varying tariffs to various countries would throw the whole system of revenue an enormous growth in our trade. Our wealth has increased and our trade has flourished in a manner unexampled in any former period of our history. Attempts to negotiate treaties with foreign nations, commenced by the treaty with France in 1860, have never had good results. We should have the courage to either openly abjure the doctrines of free trade and try what we can achieve by a retaliatory policy, or else adopt a manly course by returning to the policy of free trade in its entirety, as acted upon from 1846 to 1860, namely, duties for revenue purposes only.

-A London cable says: As the result of a letter written by Mr. Michael Davitt on the connection between the labor cause the Gladstonian policy. Mr. Davitt in his letter points out that behind the political aspect of the home rule question lies a material bread and butter side -a question affecting the interests and well being of the working population of Ireland. "The depopulation of Ireland under landlord government," he says, "has benefitted no home rulers or the ruled. The theory that it would be of advantage to the industrial community is falsified by the fact that pauperism has doubled and that millions of Irishmen have been driven cut by landlord rule. For the most part they are employed in workshops in America, and the day morning last at about five o'clock, Mr. products of their labor are shutting out British manufactures from the American markets. Others have come to England and have competed with British workmen, reducing the wage rate. Under a sympathetic government all these immigrants would have remained in Ireland and would have produced food stuffs for England, taking English manufactures in exchange. On the other hand the landlords are practically excluded from parliamentary representation, and their property is saddled with £160,000,000 in mortgages and other burdens. Clearly landlord government is no triumph for them." Mr. Davitt | time of his untimely death. Much symstates in detail the demands of the Irish party. He says: We are radical enough to tives, believe that the rule of land monopoly is the underlying cause of impoverished Irish labor. It has taxed the farmer's industry and prevented him from paying better wages. It has driven field workers into the labor market in towns, and in the form of ground rents in town and city it pursues the interests of industry and gathers where it has not sown. We demand home rule to ensure that protection of Irish industry which Lord Salisbury as a landlord seeks to obtain for British trade by taxing foreign products. The protection trade requires is from the ground rent and industry, crushing its productive power and enabling the foreigner to compete with spocess. Vested landlord interests are the and Mr. Balfour to justify the contingent of rebellion in Ulster in their appeal to the feelings of religious hatred in the hope of confusing the real issues by the prejudice and excitement of sectarian passion.

Commenting on the above the Chronicle says: "We see nothing to hinder the cooperation of unionists with the Gladstonions in the second and successful effort to bestow upon Ireland the priceless blessing

The total loss is $5,000. A smouldering fire is supposed to have caused the blaze. The village of Hastings was visited by destructive fire last Sunday evening which destroyed the sawmill owned by Mesere. Fowlds Bros. and operated by Mr. W. J. Fowlds. It was about half past seven o'clock when the villagers were at the evening church services, that the fire was distinguish the blaze, the mill, with all its machinery, was destroyed, together with about $100 worth of lumber. The origin of the fire is not known, but as there had been no fire about the premises it is supposed to have been caused by a cigar stub or match dropped by some smoker. There was an insurance of $3,000, which is much below the loss.
