The writer of that letter is mistaken in his statement that Mr. Denison did not understand the game in reference to the ball which McWilliams muffed... Mr. Denison was not a party to the game.

Do We Get Value For Our Money?

Sir,—Mr. James Storer, in your issue of July 17th, presumes to ask "Can our city fathers make the citizens pay for what they do not get?" It is now the 22nd—four issues of your paper and no reply given; the city fathers are still cogitating on the absence of the town solicitor, and what they have lost and the money they have "waterworks deal."

The Canadian Post. LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JULY 26, 1895. EDITORIAL NOTES.

The social reform administration of New York city is being abused right and left for simply enforcing the laws on the statute book.

Some people are making a great deal of fuss over flag changes and having a regular cat and dog time over what they shall be. What's wrong with the old standard? It has a very respectable appearance and an honorable history.

Mr. Laurier declared in the house that the people of Manitoba must settle their own school question. Sir Mackenzie Bowell first decided that the Dominion government would settle it without giving Manitoba a chance.

Edward Blake cannot be such a failure in old country politics as his enemies try to make out. He represented an Irish seat in the parliament just dissolved, and has been invited to run for a seat in England.

The Montreal Gazette is probably right in saying that the British liberal ministers "are suffering for what they did that was right, as well as for the things laid against them that were wrong."

The Stratford Beacon, in a recent report, uses this suggestive headline: "Big barns going up, despite the N. P." That is very fairly put. The fact that our farmers get along at all, to say nothing of erecting big barns, under the crushing burden laid on them by the tariff is once a compliment to their industry and skill and a tribute to the natural fertility and advantages of the country.

B-1—Gentlemen we are in a difficult position. As the next oldest member of the cabinet, what would you suggest, Sir Adolphe? Sir A.—Nevare run away from the treasure wagon. It is not done by my friend, the Duc of Cambridge. From his eyes anything, and go home for six months. You can trust to go down for something to happen and in the meantime run have six month's salary. Let us hold on. All—Yes, let's Council adjourns.

Mr. Morley's defeat in Newcastle appears to be due partly to enemies made by his refusal to release dynamites, and partly to his opposition to ultra socialist legislative projects. Sir William Harcourt's rebuff was in a good measure attributable to his advocacy of measures to restrict the trade in intoxicants. The liberal ex-ministers are suffering for what they did that was right, as well as for the things laid against them that were wrong.

Holmes, who has been arrested and will be extradited on a charge of murdering two young girls in a cottage in Toronto, is suspected during his career of having committed five life insurance swindles, besides other frauds, and of having murdered seven persons in Toronto, the Pielzel boy in Chicago, two young women of the name of Williams, a medical student, and the child of the last two accomplices in a couple of his swindles.

The Belgian government is understood to have resolved to send an officer to Canada to buy artillery horses. Some years ago a British officer visited this country to report on the suitability of its horses for cavalry purposes; but the result was somewhat disappointing. The trade that has since grown up between Canada and the old country has been in draught and team ways, and as these would be more likely to suit the Belgian cavalry.

So far as Mr. Angers is concerned the strike of ministers is not at an end, and he proposes to continue his opposition to the government to the bitter end. It is understood that he has been holding conferences with the leading dissentient conservatives and others, and that a series of public meetings will be held in Quebec with reference to the school matter. It is his intention also to establish a new paper in Montreal which will be placed under the direction of Mr. Tassie, late of Le Canada. Le Montreal de Louis, Mr. Angers' personal paper, which not long ago gave such a bad character to the French representation in the cabinet, does not seem to entertain a higher opinion of the present French ministers to-day. It says: "We say without hesitation that the singular conduct of Messrs. Charn and Oulmet has caused, for ever, the fate of the Manitoba schools and consummated in a national disaster the dishonor of our race." It is evidently war to the knife.

The supreme court of Pennsylvania has decided that a paricide may legally inherit the property of the father who was murdered for gain. That would seem to be an inducement to crime.

We shouldn't be astonished to hear before detective journalism is through with Holmes, alias Mudgatts, that there was a good case against him as the murderer of John Heap and Caleb Hartley.

The ministers say that they paid for the $900 worth of grief-speaking wreaths sent to Sir John Thompson's funeral and that it was not included in the $1,000 flower bill. It's lucky they said so; otherwise nobody would have suspected it.

Chicago police arrested a female bicyclist the other day because she was "scratching" in an outfit consisting of black tights and a flesh-tinted "sweater." The girl was fined $30. The equality of the sexes before the law is not an article of faith in Chicago, where cyclists of the male persuasion race in breeches, coats and trunks, to the applause of the multitude.

At Sofia on the day of Stambolof's funeral people went about the streets calling the public to curse the dead man's body for the last time. The funeral itself was attended by riot and demonstrations of hatred. Altogether the Bulgarian character cannot be said to have commended itself in connection with the affair. It suggests that the Turks may have been operated into the atrocities that first made the country notorious.

Mr. Blake did not run in Londonbury after all, as proposed, the national candidate for that constituency being Mr. Knox, an English Protestant, who has won it for the home rulers. In the last general election the conservative candidate carried it against Mr. Justin McCarthy. Mr. Blake was re-elected by his old constituency of South Londorf, this time by acclamation, as neither the unionists nor the Parnellites thought it worth while offering any opposition.

Mr. Taylor has repeated in parliament his charge that the Canada Cordage company and the managers of the patron factory at Brantford have entered into an agreement fixing the price at which they will sell binder twine. One of the favorite patron denunciations is leveled at "combines," and this binder twine deal is plainly a combine. It is a long time since Mr. J. Leckie Wilson has had a convention to nominate him in Glenagarry. It is suggested that he call one at an early day, and give his opinion on this piece of business.

The winning of the Queen's prize at Bixley by Private Hayhurst will make the team of 1895 memorable in the history of Canadian rifle shooting. Luck had in a way been running against the Dominion's representatives. Twice a good prize was lost in shooting off a tie, and the Kolapore cup, which has been won by Canada before, this year went to another team. It takes a remarkably good shot to get into the last stage of the Queen's win if the wind is the highest honor of the year a British rifleman can aspire to. That Mr. Hayhurst has achieved it is a credit to himself which the whole world which he belongs will share in. His comrades should see that he gets a royal welcome on his return.

The defeat of Mr. Morley is perhaps the greatest blow the liberal party could receive after that of Sir Wm. Harcourt. Mr. Morley is one of the most sincere ministers of the crown that has ever held office. It was because he could not consent to eight-hour legislation that he forfeited the support of the labor-unionists of Newcastle. He believed that such legislation would be bad for the laborers themselves, and some of the largest labor associations agreed with him in this way of thinking. Those who did not run a candidate against him and though they succeeded in bringing about his defeat and the election of his conservative opponent, Mr. Morley was the great champion among Englishmen of home rule for Ireland, and his defeat will be heralded as the final verdict of England on the project, though of course it was not owing to his opinions on that subject that he failed of election.

Salem vs. Lindsay. (To the Editor of The Post.)

DEAR SIR,—Being an eye-witness of yesterday's fizzle of a ball game, I would like to make a few suggestions to Manager Hamilton and his team. 1st. When he advertises to start a game at 5 o'clock let him come to the ground over half an hour late, as he did yesterday. 2nd. Don't play football, but baseball—the spectators thought they were playing football yesterday, as there was so much kicking. 3rd. When playing baseball, play it quickly—don't try to play dirty ball, as was the case yesterday. Of all the ball games I have seen, I never yet saw a team who thought they could play ball all day long. If the umpire, Mr. Denison, had understood his umpire, he would have called the game at the end of the fifth inning, as the umpire clearly tells him that the umpire must call the game at sundown, and he should read up his rules and keep himself posted; he evidently does not know them yet, and I will give you a case in point: I think it was in the 3rd inning, when Lifford was at bat, they had a man on 2nd and 1st base, and no men out, the batter hit a ball to the infield, which McWilliams muffed and then tried to throw the man out at 3rd. The rules distinctly say when a fly is batted to the infield with men on, the ball is caught or not. This is done in order to do away with a double play. Mr. Denison had called the batter out in this case Lifford would have been short about five runs, as they scored them after this play was made.

Friday Night's Baseball Game.

Sir,—Having noticed a letter in your issue of Saturday evening, signed by "Lover of the Game," in reference to the game of Friday last, I beg leave to reply to that gentleman. In the first place, the game was played with a combination which called themselves Lifford and not Salem, as the writer puts it, (the Salem game comes off on Friday next), I must apologize for being late, but I am sure it is the first time this season that a single member of the Lindsay team has been late, and also the first time a game has not been started promptly on time. In reply to his second suggestion to me, I would say that our boys did play ball from start to finish; that the kicking was done by Lytle, whom the writer no doubt knows as a "terrible kicker," and by the rest of his combination. I would like to ask the gentleman if he ever saw a game of ball played here when the visitors were treated more courteously than they were on Friday? It is true there was a great deal of kicking, but who could help it when playing with a combination of kickers? It would have been more fair on the part of 4,000 boxes of June cheese boarded, and 3,200 boxes of July cheese boarded, and the balance sold at 8c. There were also 3,500 boxes of July cheese boarded, and it brought a bid of 8 1/2c, but was not sold.
