You have shown that you are Canadians first and English or French, Catholic or Protestant afterwards. Of all the results which this election has brought about the greatest, in my mind is that the people of Quebec have shown themselves worthy of the noble leader which their province has given to the Dominion." It was, therefore, declared to break up the meeting Mr. Laurier and the other members left cod-liver oil, with the platform, and the band played "God Save the Queen."

AT ST. LAWRENCE HALL Mr. Laurier, accompanied by Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Tarte and Mr. Dandurand, entered a carriage and drove to the St. Lawrence Hall, followed by several thousand people. St. James-street was completely blocked and street car traffic was suspended for the evening. The crowd again insisted upon hearing Mr. Laurier. The Liberal leader appeared at one of the windows of the St. Lawrence Hall and addressed a few words amidst the wildest enthusiasm. He then introduced Sir Richard Cartwright, who was received with almost equal warmth, Sir Richard Cartwright congratulated the people on their loyalty and fidelity to the principles of truth and freedom. He admitted that not even in their most enthusiastic moments did the Liberal leaders expect such a magnificent majority from the Province of Quebec, but in giving it to Mr. Laurier the electors had done a thing which would be recorded in the history of Canada for generations to come.

Here is One That Caught the Canadians Employed in Buffalo. Buffalo, N.Y., June 24.-The following letter, furnished by W. H. Moyer, is pronounced by Inspector DeBarry to be an outrageous forgery. Many and there is not a little indignation ex pressed: "Buffalo, June 20, 1896: My Dear Sir, -I have received a list of names of parties who work in this state and are about going to Canada to vote in the coming Dominion elections; your name appears on this list. "Now.I would advise you to remain where you are, as steps will be taken to prohibit your returning to New York State, should you go to Canada and cast your vote at this election. Yours very sincerely, J. DeBarry." The letter was written on thin English linen paper, with a heraldry emblem of royalty woven in that could be seen when held up to the light. The exhibit in the possession of the inspector is of mimograph work, and the signature and general tone pronounce it to be of Canadian concoction.

THEY LOST THE CATHOLIC VOTE.

The Hamilton Machine Catered to it Without the Desired Effect,

Hamilton, June 24.-(Special.)-Politics was about the only thing discussed in this city all day, everybody looking buoyant or sad, according to their political leanings, but general surprise was felt at the overthrow of the Government, and the election of two Reformers in this city. For eighteen years Hamilton has been represented by Conservatives, and had the machine placed two men in the field pledged against the coercion of Manitoba, they would have been elected, but the machine catered for the Catholic vote. The Conservatives felt confident of victory on this account, figuring on getting 90 per cent. of the Catholic vote, but, strange to say, it appears they did not get 20 per cent. of that vote. The Orange vote went pretty solidly for Wood and Macpherson, although there were many plumpers for Mr. Boville, Mr. Barker getting Catholic plumpers, which evened things up. A telegram from A. T. Wood announces that he will sail for home on July 1.

The British Press Comments on Laurier's Accession to Power.

London, June 24 .- The Morning Post, commenting on the result of yesterday's elections in Canada, will say tomorrow: Judging from Mr. Laurier's recent speech, the unity of the Empire and the future of Canada are safe

The Daily News will ascribe the victory to the triumph of Liberal principles generally, and a revolt-against sacerdotalism. The result, The News says, ought to teach a lesson to political clerics the world over. The Chronicle will say: "The Canadians have shaken *themselves free from the grip of protectionists and clerical parties. The failure of so doughty a champion as Sir Charles Tupper is a measure of the strength of the reaction." The Chronicle predicts that Hon. Wilfrid Laurier could abolish protection, limiting the tariff to the actual needs of the revenue, and that thereby great impulse will be given to Anglo-Canadian trade. The Times will say: The Church in Canada, as in other lands, has lately been losing something of its old power over the laity. The Times will express regret that it has been the fate of Sir Charles Tupper to assume the Conservative leadership at a time when the party was marching to its first overthrow in eighteen years, but says it is a conspicuous token of the solidarity of the races comprising the populations of the Dominion. The paper in the course of its comments will pay a high tribute to Mr. Laurier's loyalty to Great Britain. London, June 24.-The Canadian Gazette, which will be issued to-morrow, will contain an article upon yesterday's election in the Dominion of Canada, paying high tribute to the unexampled activity of Sir Charles Tupper. Mr. Wilfrid Laurier's views upon the tariff question, the article adds, were seemingly developed as the fight proceeded. Continuing, the writer says: "We shall soon see how he will put into practice the sentiments expressed in the speech he delivered at the beginning of June, demanding a revenue tariff and a system of preferential trade with England, and how his pro-United States of America policy will be affected thereby."

Home Rufe in Canada. London, June 24.-The St. James' Gazette, in an article commenting upon the result of the elections held in the Dominion of Canada yesterday, says that the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier will now be able to show whether or not he is a statesman. The rock upon which the Con actives came to grief, The Gazett. Ays, was state rights. The real moral of the result is that, even if Canada has home rule, the system does not work smoothly.

FEARS THAT NONE WILL BE SAVED

Desperate Efforts Being Made to Rescu the Unfortunates - Pittsion People Thought it Was an Earthquake-Women and Children in Awful Suspense at the Shaft's

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 28.-At o'clock this morning the city of Pittston, nine miles from here, was thrown into the wildest excitement by three distinct and separate shocks, accompanied by rumblings resembling an earthquake disturbance. They were so strong as to awaken the people throughout East and West Pittston. Immediately after fear took possession of the entire population, which was added to by the blowing of the whistle of the twin shaft at Pittston Junction, accompanied by repeated fire alarms. Hundreds of people rushed in mad haste to the Twin Shaft, operated by the Newton Coal Company, from which the alarm came, where they learned that the shock was due to an extensive cave-in, accompanied by an explosion which had occurred in the sixth or lower vein of the shaft. Rumors soon gained currency that no fewer than 100 men and boys were entombed in the pit. The fearful and distressing news spread with lightning rapidity, and by 8 o'clock this morning the head of the shaft was thronged Canadians have received such letters, by thousands of men, women and

The hours following the alarm were full of harrowing scenes. The anxious suspense of the workmen, the grief of the friends and the tender sympathy for the afflicted ones manifested by the spectators were painful to witness. Efforts were made to quiet the friends of the men in the mine by tendering the little encouragement possible, but unavailingly were those efforts put forth as the mothers, fathers, daughters, sons, brothers and sisters reasonably feared the worst, and upon the first information received their fears were found to be well grounded.

The first to come to the surface from the shaft after the explosion was John Gill, who was at the bottom engaged in labor. The force of the concussion threw him with terrific force to the wall, and with intense fear, more dead than alive, he crept to the foot and with great difficulty signalled to the engineer at the surface to hoist the carriage. When he was brought up his story added to the doubt as to the safety of any of the men and boys below. From him was secured the first information of the number of men in the shaft. It is thought that not less than 100 workmen have suffered a most horrible death. John Riker, a runner boy; Jacob Adam and Frank H. Sheridan, company men, were next brought to the surface, and confirmed Gill's story. It appears that several days ago the officials discovered that the rock between the fifth and sixth veing had commenced "working," and, to prevent an accident, all day Saturday and Saturday night the full complement of day-men and such others as could be pressed into service were at work pillaring and propping the sixth vein, so as to ensure the safety of the workmen who were to go to work on Monday. Saturday night the regular night force was working at a point about 3000 feet from the shaft at the foot of No. 3 plane at a point under what known as the Flats, a little east of the Coxton Railway yards. The force was under the supervision of Superintendent Langan and his assistant, Michael Lynot. Orders were given about midnight that as many men as possible should be sent down to assist in this dangerous work. In accordance with this order, between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning about 30 additional workmen left their homes and journeyed to what now seems their grave.

The new force of men enlisted in the work were placed at a point beyond that of the night hands, and the terrible news brought to the surface by the four men who likely will be the only ones to live to tell the tale of the disaster was that all of these 100 or crushed to immediate death or im- men. prisoned to perish a death most horrifying. Upon learning this discouraging news the excitement became more demonstrative. It was found that all the mine foremen, superintendents and bosses who had gone to supervise the work were with those who were imprisoned. This gave the work of relief no systematic head, but the rescuers, providing themselves with safety lamps, hurried into the mine carriage and were lowered 1000 feet or more on the mission of relief. They were John Doyle, John Daily, Charles McDonald and James Tenyon. After a half hour of suspense they returned with expressions of discouragement, and the story that the cave-in had become more extensive, that the search party faced inevitable danger, and that no news had been secured of the unfortunate men. With no delay, however, they again went down to the foot of the shaft with other men, and again made heroic efforts to get what information they could, but again baffled and discouraged they repeated their story of defeated effort.

For a third time, at 2 p.m. to-day, with renewed vigor and still more men, they went beneath the surface into the pit, and tried by the countergangway to reach, by a circuitous route, the unfortunate prisoners. After a journey of nearly a thousand feet, they met obstructions innumerable, the force of the concussion having created disastrous Lavoc, brattice work, pillars, air conduit doors, cars and top rock having been piled promiscuously so as to interfere with all efforts that could be made by any human being. Then, to add to the trouble, a congregation of gas had occurred so as to endanger any efforts to reach anywhere near the imprisoned miners. Not subdued by these obstacles, they again ineffectively tried their last resource to relieve and recover the men. General Manager John B. Law, who has been ill for several days, made his appearance to give instructions, Special messengers called to the shaft all of the company workmen. It having been learned that the mine was still caving, thereby making it practically impossible to continue the labor without propping up the way as the resof props were sent to the bottom, and under charge of Foreman Eagan of the Phoenix mine, Messrs, Maloney of the Raven shaft and McMillan of the Barnum shaft much progress was made danger was prevented, and at least 50 men were pusning their way to the 100t of No. 3 plane, the scene of the extensive cave-in. To the encouragement of those who feared the explosion had ended the life and went to the foot of the shaft, tion. He determined that no rescue could then be made, and his report only confirmed the stories of his predecessors in the work of rescue.

To the encouragement of all it was found that the fan-house had suffered no injury. This fact gave hope to those no injury. This fact gave hope to those reguson.

At this conference reports were made by experienced foremen who had made the rescuing trips, and the work done was fully endorsed and commended. The fear was expressed that possibly the Susquehanna River near by the cave was running into the mine. At the meleting the possible number imprisoned was mentioned. three children; Joseph Zuringo, married, five children. The accident is similar to the Avondale disaster, which occurred on Sept. 11, 1896, when 109 miners and laborers lost their lives. The rescuing party have cleared nearly 900 feet of the debris away, and are propping as they go along. The report sent out that the body of Superintendent Langan had been found is not true. At this hour there are no signs of finding the men. It may take until morning before they can be reached. At 11 o'clock to-night a force of 60 men from neighboring collieries went into the shaft to aid the rescuing party until they are relieved to-morrow morning. The men are expersionoed miners. The work of the rescuing parties is being pushed forward with all the rapidity possible, and very little is being made known to the outside world by those in charge.

At midnight, after looking over the situation carefully, the rescuing party decided that the best thing to do was to drive a gangway through the coal from the Clear Spring Colliery adjoining into the Twin Shaft, when it is expected it will be possible to locate the entombed men. The work was at once begun and is being pushed with all the speed possible Four shifts of men, each comprising five experienced miners and laborers, are employed in this task, which is expected to consume at least three or four days. In the meantime the work will be pushed by the rescuers in the fatal shaft also. It is now the opinion of the most able miners that it will take several days to find the entombed

At 12.30 a.m. a gang of men belonging to the rescuing party who went in at 6 o'clock came to the surface and reported that they were making headway, though it was slow work. The roof continues to settle and danger is imminent. They are within 800 feet of the cave-in. Gas appears to be accumulating, which makes the labor difficult and delays the work to a great extent. No hopes are now enmore men had been caught and either | tertained for the safety of any of the

WHEAT WILL YIELD HEAVILY,

Corn will be an Average-Oats, Eye and Barley Good-Cotton Also Good.

Washington, June 26.-There is hope for the farmers. The year 1896 promises to bring them rather better returns for their labor than last year and better than the year before. The wheat crop of the country is sure to be the largest since 1892, and larger than the average of the last 16 years.

This year's wheat crop is unofficially estimated by the Department of Agriculture at 475,000,000 bushels. This has been exceeded only six times since 1880. The wheat outlook is particularly good in the Western States, taking them as a whole.

The condition of spring wheat indi-cates a prospective yield that closely approximates a full or normal crop, the average for the country being 99.5 per cent. The average for the year 1895 was 97.8. As yet the Department of Agriculture has no official returns on the corn crop, but unofficial advices indicate a normal crop, probably equal to last year's large yield of 2,151,000,000 bushels. Prices are stiffening up a trifle, and the outlook for a greater total value than last year is counted good. The outlook for oats, rye and barley

In the Southern States there is a renewal of confidence in the future on account of the fine outlook for cotton, The acreage this year is reported at an increase of 16 per cent, over last year, and the average condition of the crop is excellent. The present condition of the cotton crop, taken as a whole, is unusually favorable for this season of

of the Empire, sitting at Leipsic, has rejected the appeal of Baron Von Hammerstein formerly leader of the Conservatives in the Reichstag, and editor-in-chief of The Kreuz Zeitung, from the sentence imposed upon him by the Berlin Court upon his conviction of forgery on April 22 last. The sentence of the court was that he be imprisoned for three years at hard labor, that he forfeit his civil rights for five years, and that he pay a fine of 1200 marks. This sentence was regarded by both his friends and enemies alike as being one of extreme severity, it having been expected that, inasmuch as Hammerstein humbly confessed his errors and avoided making disclosures which would have involved many of his former associates, who are still in high places, he would escape the ignominy of convict labor, and receive a sentence of simple imprisonment, and the case was promptly appealed with the result as announced to-day. As nothing further can be done in Hammerstein's behalf, that once influential editor and powerful political leader will have to don convict's garb and begin his term of penal servitude at once.
