

NOTICE

School Teachers and Trustees

We have a Beautiful Medallion Picture of

HER MAJESTY Queen Victoria

SUITABLE FOR SCHOOL ROOM. This beautiful work of art is printed in colors and shows her majesty as she appears at the time of her ascension in 1837 and also as she appears to-day. Size of picture 2 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches.

Price 25c. By mail 5c extra.

PORTER'S Bookstore.

Grand Trunk Railway.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Tourist Season in Full Swing.

Rail-Lake-River-Ocean.

To the Muskoka and Midland District

Grand Trunk Railway System

Tourist Resorts.

The Muskoka Express leaves Toronto (Union Station) 11:30 a.m. daily (except Sunday) for Muskoka, via the Grand Trunk Railway, connecting with Muskoka Navigation Company's steamers. The Flat Headed Pullman (with toilet) leaves Toronto 1:15 a.m. each Friday; arrives Kingston 4:15 a.m. connecting with steamer for Thousand Islands and Rapids of St. Lawrence. Train arrives in Montreal 10:15 a.m. same day. Toronto to Ottawa 6:45 p.m. Monday, arriving Chicago 10 a.m. next day. Tickets and all information from G. H. Robinson, Toronto Office—King Street West, corner Yonge Street; Union Station, Toronto. A. M. PATON, Agent.

G. H. Robinson.

Boots and Shoes

AT COST PRICE.

I have decided to sell my stock of Boots and Shoes consisting of Gentlemen's, Ladies' and Children's Fine Footwear at COST PRICE. I do not intend to keep any more Boots and Shoes as stock in future. The entire stock MUST be cleared out this month.

Now is your Chance for Bargains.

G. H. ROBINSON,

Corner Cambridge and Bond-st.

New Advertisements.

FREE

Don't fail to appreciate a good thing just because you get it free. When you wish to have it done we examine your eye—free.

When you want our advice in case of eye trouble we give it to you—free.

If your sight is falling—if your eyes are sore, itchy, or you may have yourself inconvenienced, suffering or money by coming to us and learning how to remedy the trouble.

It costs you nothing to know.

BRITTON Bros.

Jewellers and Opticians.

G. P. R.

KEEP COOL

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

LARGE FAST STEAMSHIPS

STREEL CLAS

Leave Owen Sound, after arrival of Steamship Express, due to leave Toronto 12:50 a.m., Monday and Thursday—Albion every Monday, Manitoba every Thursday—and from Windsor after arrival of Morning Express due to leave Toronto 7:30 a.m. same day, Alberta every Saturday.

Take a cool trip across the Great Lakes to Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur and Fort William. Connections at Sault Ste. Marie with Duluth South Shore and Atlantic, and Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railways for Duluth, Paul, and all points west, and at Port Arthur and Fort William for all Western Canada and Pacific Coast points.

T. C. MATCHETT, — AGENT

C. P. R. Office, 60 Kent-st.

ONTARIO BANK

LINDSAY BRANCH. Drafts on all parts of United States and Great Britain, bought and sold. Notes discounted. Highest rate of interest on deposits. THOMAS BRODIE, Acting Manager, and J. G. H. Robinson, Cashier.

The Canadian Post.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JULY 30, 1897.

SIR OLIVER MOWAT.

Rumor has it, and rumor has not yet been denied, that Sir Oliver is to be our next Lieut.-Governor. His acceptance of such office would be a loss to the Dominion at large. That he has earned the well-earned repose of semi-retirement every one will concede, and no one will otherwise than heartily endorse his action should he decide to rest himself from the cares of his office for so many years past. Though well advanced in the "seventies" he is yet a man of great mental strength. He yet has a great capacity for work, and the nation enjoys a contented sense of security with Sir Oliver as chief head of the justice department. To Ottawa he transferred that absolute and never-failing judgment which guided all his provincial actions in great constitutional questions, and when he became minister of justice the people felt comforted in the knowledge that the country would have a rest from that vexatious litigation which rightly or wrongly plagued the nation. Though there exists an honest contention over one or two great cases yet to be threshed out, the foolish rush of the past to the door of council could never take place when the responsibility rested with Sir Oliver.

His assuming, therefore, the highest office in his native province will be a loss to the Dominion, but no one will say him nay should he decide to take this well-earned repose at the close of a great life, spent day by day for more than a quarter of a century in the service of the people.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If anybody has heard of a better country to make a living in than Canada, let him speak now.

Are you planning a trip to the Yukon? You have a choice between seven or eight months of mercury-freezing cold, and a balmy moist summer, with sun-glints through mosquito clouds. But the gold? Don't neglect to take a few two-bushel sacks along in which to pack it.

The Macdonald tobacco factory at Montreal has re-started operations with 1,000 hands. Conservative papers heralded the shutting down of the concern all over the Dominion, stating that the industry was to be driven out of the country owing to the new tariff. The same papers are dumb about the reopening of the factory.

It is most satisfactory to learn that the crops in the newly-opened-up country of Western Ontario are better than has ever before been the case, and that new settlers are trooping in. Owing to this fact the Ontario department of agriculture has found it necessary to lay out a new township in the neighborhood of Dryden, Wabigoon. It will be known as Sandford, and orders have been given for the survey to be made.

This seems to be lynching season in the States. Still it is to be wondered at that the mob disregards the law and the orderly procedure of the courts when a Lexington judge dares insult the commonsense of the people by summarily dismissing a man who excused murder by saying that he saw the victim of his crime kiss the murderer's wife? A people which selects such judges deserves the opprobrium that mob outrages bring upon them.

Mr. Foster predicted that there would be a deficit of two million dollars in the Dominion treasury at the end of the financial year 1896-7. The actual figures show that there will be very little difference between the totals on the two sides of the ledger, and that the balance is as likely to be on the right side as it is on the wrong.

Mr. Fielding appears to have become better acquainted with the finance department in the months that he has been there than Mr. Foster is after his years of experience.

The blue-ribbon prophesied by tory papers as a result of the liberal tariff seems to have been side-tracked along the line. Even the wire fence business, over which so many tory tears were shed, refuses to ruin, and the London Free Press talks about a Cleveland firm which is talking about establishing a plant in the Forest City to employ 25 men and do a business of $200,000 a year. More than 1,000 hands are at work in McDonald's tobacco factory, and the Cockshutt Plow Works is increasing its capital from $100,000 to $250,000. No wonder the tory prophets are exasperated.

On Aug. 5th next Mr. John Charlton, M. P. for North Norfolk, will have completed 25 years of continuous service in the Dominion house of commons, and that without a break. He has never lost an election, or had his return protested. Only nine members are now in the house who were members 25 years ago: Sir Richard Cartwright, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Adolphe Caron, Messrs. Paterson, Bain, Landecker, Casey, Cameron, and Scriver—all liberals, except Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Adolphe Caron. Mr. Charlton has served his constituents faithfully, and they will no doubt duly celebrate his jubilee.

Toronto Telegram: Surely it is needless to warn people against being bitten by this Klondike craze when they can be warned either by their own experience or the experience of the victims of the British Columbia mining fever. The hardy miners, whose favorite implement is an advertising space in Toronto newspapers, are evidently going to work the Klondike mining craze for all it is worth. Their chances would not seem to be extremely promising. People who were bitten by the gaudy newspaper advertisement and the ill-considered prospectus have no money left for Klondike schemes; and people who kept their heads and lost their money a year ago are not likely to lose either in Yukon enterprises.

Mr. Hutton, a well-known English writer on economic subjects, says that "People to-day have not an idea of what life was for the poor under the Corn Laws and Protection, when two-thirds of the men of England and five-sixths of the women never had as much food or as much money as they wished for." In the present day food is plentiful and cheap, and there is abundant work of all kinds. During the half century that has passed since the repeal of the Corn Laws the agricultural industry has declined, but the manufactures have increased some 800 per cent. England buys all her food supplies in the cheapest markets, and uses her energies in the making of goods which command the best prices in the markets of the world.

The Montreal Star laments the fate of Sir Henry Parker, who was forty years in public life, was five times prime minister, and who died in poverty. It rejoices that Canadian history does not "contain so dramatic an object lesson on the hollowness of the popularity and unaccountableness of the guarantees for the future that are won by the successful politician." What would it have? Our colonial politicians are as a rule poor. When one is advanced to ministerial position he is in receipt of a comfortable salary in Canada $8,000. He may save out of this, but he is expected to spend it in entertaining or for his party, and in the great majority of cases he goes out poorer than when he went in. There should be larger salaries, for the man fit to take a department in the government of this country is worth more than $8,000 a year. In the absence of that larger salary he has either to die poor or steal. The alternative, however, affords no comfort to the honest man, and it is a question if the public patrimony does not powerfully contribute to the production of the dishonest ones.

TOWN JOTTINGS.

Railway Notes.

G.T.R. trains are now passing over the short route to Lakesfield, via the new bridge over the river at Auburn, near Pelee Island.

The Grand Trunk car works at Beaufort have been closed and notices posted instructing the employees to apply for work elsewhere.

A carload of cheese, comprising the first half of July make of the Mayo township factories, near Bancroft, passed through Lindsay on Friday, having been shipped over the I. B. & O. R. R.

Mr. R. J. Macleannan's Law Work. Lindsay is always delighted at any of its sons distinguishing themselves. On this occasion we notice with pleasure the press comments on a recent law book written and published by Mr. R. J. Macleannan, of the legal firm of Mowat, Langton & Macleannan, and who is the clerk of the sheriff of our county. It is a work on a much needed subject, "Fire Insurance Law." Prior to 1871, apart from the statutes regulating and governing mutual insurance companies, the contract law of insurance was in a deplorably uncertain condition, and even this uncertainty of law has been but slightly benefited on account of the everlasting changes in our statute law, made by the constant ending variety of circumstances demanding legislation as they, from time to time, would arise. In a recent statute law, consolidated and Mr. Macleannan's work, spoken of as most useful and creditable, embraces a historical review of the authorities explaining the law. The construction of statute law, seldom a sure and easy thing, is made less difficult by reference to this consolidation. The numerous decisions pertaining to the various clauses of the statute are given and tersely explained so that the conflicts of often conflicting authorities are insured as made easy of settlement, even to a lay reader. To the practitioner the work promises to be of great value as a case-law so grouped as to render references to reports of comparative ease. The work contains a full and complete list of the application for insurance, the premium and the premium note, and particularly the contract itself, with all the conditions, changes made to the risk, which every lawyer should read, and the legal effect of insurance in other contracts, the insurance agent, the loss, proof and payment, the law of subrogation and mortgages, and of insurance and fire, and the law of the present to the public, in a word, a most useful book, and we warmly congratulate our friend, who no doubt, in his hard work put into his labor, discovered before he had finished the truth of the words of Tacitus, (words not often appreciated by critics), "To the practitioner and you will learn how difficult is the labor."

Canada's Greatest Celebration of the Jubilee. Fully alive to the times the management of the Toronto Exhibition, or as the title runs this year, "Canada's Great Victorian-Era Exposition and Industrial Fair," is to be conducted on a scale, from August 30th to September 11th, that will even transcend any former effort made to promote this, the most popular, most comprehensive and most attractive annual show held on this continent. Already a sufficient number of applications for space and notices of entries have been received to warrant the highest expectations. The management have increased the number of medals to be awarded, and have made many improvements to the buildings and grounds, showing that they are resolved to leave nothing undone that will enhance the pleasure and comfort of both patrons and exhibitors. They have also determined on a special feature that promises to prove the greatest outdoor spectacle in the way of entertainment that Toronto or any other city has ever witnessed, the world's metropolis itself. This spectacle will take the form of a reproduction of the wondrous Diamond Jubilee celebration of London. Agents are now across the water hiring and buying the necessary properties and costumes, which will be an exact replica of the uniforms and costumes worn by the soldiers, the sailors, the sailors and the yeomen of the grand old British procession. Scenes will also be reproduced of the ceremonies at Buckingham Palace, St. James' Palace, and the Tower of London. Many interesting pageants will also be introduced, while at night the effect will be heightened and magnified by brilliant illuminations and fireworks. Not only will spectators have brought home to them the grandeur and bulk of the empire, but they will be irresistibly taken over to Old London. While dwelling on this grand feature the material of the Exhibition must not be forgotten. August 7th. The programmes containing details of the attractions will be issued about the 10th of August.—7th.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

John Campbell's Death. We take the following from the Vancouver (B. C.) Daily World of July 17: John Campbell, the well-known barrister of this city, lately a member of the firm of Wilson & Campbell, and who had been ill in health for a long time back, died at Fort Steele last Saturday, and his remains were interred there on the following Sunday. The news of his demise was unexpected by those who knew of his serious illness for the last week or two. Campbell, who was in his 60th year, was a young family of four children and a well-to-do man. He was a native of Scotland, and his health had been failing for some time. He was a member of the law firm of Wilson & Campbell, and was a well-known figure in the community. His death was a great loss to the profession and to the community.

Sunlight Soap.

Wrapper Competition for every month of the year 1897

$1.625. SUNLIGHT SOAP WRAPPERS.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER BROS., LTD., 23 SCOT ST., TORONTO.

For full particulars see advs. or apply to LEVER B