Close on its heels came car No. 82 at such terrific speed that the motorman, in his London, Ont., July 10 .- An acute excited condition, lost control of the stage of the Street Railway strike here was reached Saturday afternoon. At noon Saturday it was rumored around the city window. No. 84, the last car to put in that the non-union employes of the company were dissatisfied with their wages, and would run their cars into the barns at 2 o'clock. In consequence of this report, a crowd of from 500 to 1,000 people gathered at the corner of Dundas and Lyle streats to watch developments. A squad of police was on hand, and these, coupled together and P. C. Harry Humaided by the company's special detectives, kept the crowd in motion, and there was no disturbance of any sort. At 2.30 the cars started to run into the barns, and it was evident to the crowd of onlookers that the "scabe" had gone on strike. Each car, as it rounded the corner and made for the barns, was loudly cheered. But a few minutes later, when it was discovered that there had been a misunderstanding, and the cars started to run out again, the cheers were turned to groans and hisses, but no attempt was made to obstruct the cars, until Conductor Fitzsimmons, as his car rounded the corner on Dundas, drew a revolver and levelled it at the jeering mob. This action so incensed the mob that before he had time to make any use of the weapon he was lying a writhing heap upon the road, his head a mass of blood, the result of a dozen or so well-aimed

Fired Into the Meb.

The trouble might have ended here had not the company's "specials" and the non-union employes foolishly tried to intimidate the mob with pistols, one of the men going so far as to fire three shots, which fortunately were harmless, into the crowd. This action so infuriated the sympathizers that the police were powerless and the company's men were so roughly handled that one of them, Fred. Crystall, was thought for some time to be dead. Fourteen cars which made their appearance in this section of the city were more or less wrecked. At about 3.30 Mayor Wilson and Chief of Police Williams arrived at the corner

At the age of 6 he was an orpan, and came to Hamilton, where his naternal uncle, the late Edward Jackson then the leading citizen of Hamilton andits most liberal philanthropist, took ere of him and reared him as his own on. His boyhood and school days werespent in the Ambitious City, after which he entered the publishing house of Famer, Bruce & Co., New York. After reiding in New York for six years he rearned to Hamilton, married his cousin, Miss Jackson, and entered into partnershp with Murray, Henderson & Edward Jackson, in a large foundry busines in London, Ont. On the death of is wife, however, which occurred a fey months later, he retired from this venture and returned to Hamilton and engagel extensively and successfully in the wool traffic, and so well known did he become as a weel sucromant that he cannot the sobriquet of the "Wool King of Canada." In 1861 Mr. Sanford entered into business with Alexander Mo-Innes in the wholesale manufacture of clothing, with a capital of only $20,000. This partnership existed for ten years, when Mr. Mclines withdrew. Mr. Sanford continued as the head of the W. E. Sanford Manufacturing Company. Mr. Sanford was greatly interested in industries having for their aim the development of Canala's resources. He was one of the projectors and vice-president of the Manitobs & Northwestern Railway Company. He was a past-president of the Hamilton Board of Trade. For years he was vice-president of the Hamilton Provident Bank. He owned 60,000 acres of arable land near Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, on which he had established a cattle ranch. Apart from business ventures, Mr. Sanford was widely known throughout Canada in political. philanthropic, social and church circles. For the Conservative party. In 1887 he was House yesterday. Detective Foster gave years he had been a staunch supporter made a Senstor. He was a near associate of the late Sir John Thompson. In 1894 he was in London, and was negotiating a trade treaty with Cecil Rhodes of Cape Colony, when Sir John Thompson was stricken dead at Windsor Castle. He accompanied the remains home to Canada on H.M.S. Blenheim, and this, together with his attentions to the body of the deceased statesman at Windsor Castle, brought him into much prominence. He gave largely to philanthropic objects, and education ever found in him a sturdy friend. He was president of the Hamilton Ladies' College, when Dr. Burns was principal. He was on the board of regents of Victoria University. He was the Methodist body in Canada. In social a powder magazine in Magatoland. life Senator Sanford was affable in manner, courteous and gentlemanly, and was always the reigning spirit of the company in which he was found. He was a member of the Hamilton Club, the Albany Club and the Rideau Club. In religion he was an active member of the Methodist Church. In all his charities and benefactions-and they were legion -he was heartily aided by Mrs. Sanford, to whom he was married in 1866, and who is the youngest daughter of the late Thomas Vaux of the House of Commons. Mrs. Sanford and her two daughters, one recently married to Capt. Tudor, an English officer, whose appointment to Halifax was but a day ago received, are in Europe. The deceased had but one

The Senate Adjourns. Ottawa, July 11. -In the Senate yesterday afternoon Sir Mackenzie Bowell said it was his sad duty to draw the attention of the Senate to a telegram which had been received by a member of the House of Commons containing the news of Senator Sanford's death. Information of this kind is of a very sad character. "Those who have known the Benator as he had would regret the sudden ending of his life. held in the highest esteem, a man or great patience, of broad views and wide sympathy, and would certainly be greatly missed in the community. His business was continually growing. He was a thorough master of it and managed it with constant skill. He thoroughly agreed with Sir Mackenzie Bowell that the Senate should adjourn out of respect to the late Senator.

And the Senate then adjourned. The News at Hamilton. Hamilton, July 11 .- Feelings of great regret are being expressed on all sides here at the sudden death by drowning of Senator Sanford. The Senator had more personal friends, perhaps, than any man in Hamilton. His death means a big loss to Hamilton. Over 1,000 persons are employed, directly or indirectly, by his firm. The big factory was closed down soon after the news was received. Flags are half-mast on all the public buildings. At a meeting of St. George's Society last evening a resolution of deep regret was passed, although the deceased was not a member of the society. The City Council also passed a resolution of condolence to the Senator's wife and family.

Messrs. Joseph Green and George Sweet of the Sanford Manufacturing Company, left yesterday afternoon for Windermere, to arrange for the bringing of the remains to this city. General Regret at Winnipeg.
