We insist that if goods aren't exactly as represented bring them back and get your money. Years ago we made that standard—The most reliable store in Lindsay—and we're growing to grea ness along that line. Many merchants honestly think they're liberal when they daren't invite any such comparison or apply any such test.

What we prefer above anything else is your good will. Profit is a minor consideration compared with the principle that makes the store generally respected. And the idea applies to those things as well as anything.
