Sad Drowning Fatality. Wednesday evening at six o'clock a young lad named Patrick Moran, fifteen years of age, employed in The Post office for the past nine months and residing with Mr. Owen Corrigan of the south ward, perished with his office companion in the markets of woods. Two hours later they were shocked to hear the sad intelligence that he had lost his life trying to rescue another youth from drowning. It appears that after supper he and another named James Hughes, eldest son of Mr. Joseph Hughes of Lindsay-st., repaired to Hignobotham's landing to enjoy a bath, and after they had taken a short walk on an old punt that was floating about close to shore. It looked very badly, but they were not alarmed until it was quite a distance, when it filled suddenly, precipitating them into the water. Moran was a good swimmer, and would not sink until he was nearly exhausted, and was rescued by a young man named Henry witnessed the accident from the shore and the almost dead Moran, who was lying on his back, was rushed down, and directed by the boy bubbles rising to the surface. Moran was quite, when he was brought to the shore, and was taken to the hospital. A few minutes later Hughes uttered cries of distress, and fearing no doubt that he would be the next to sink, he was rescued by the same young man named Henry. Moran was also in the water, and with this sad cry he was rescued by the same young man named Henry. Moran was also in the water, and with this sad cry he was rescued by the same young man named Henry.

Obituary-The Late Joseph Curtis of Ops. The announcement last Friday of the death of Mr. Joseph Curtis, one of the most respected and widely-known farmers of Ops, came as a shock to the community. He had been ill for only a short time with Bright's disease, but his illness did not appear serious. Though death came with terrible suddenness, he was fully prepared for it. The deceased was born in the township of Hope sixty-two years ago. His parents and grand-parents on both sides were Irish loyalists, who left the state of Vermont and took up land in the beautiful section in Durham county, now known as Port Hope. The deceased was the first settler of the township. Mr. Curtis came into Ops township in 1874 and purchased the first 20-acre farm, lot 12 in 3rd con., a short distance south-west of Lindsay, and not far from the river. Here he carried on farming successfully. He was one of the most and most intelligent farmers of the township, and was well-versed in general literature and current affairs. He was a general man, a good neighbor, a fond parent, and a devoted husband. He was highly respected by the community. Everybody liked him; and everybody was deeply affected by the news of his sudden death. He was a man of natural ability, and he was a man of natural ability, and he was a man of natural ability.

An exchange remarks that farmers, it is said, can be enticed into purchasing almost anything by plausible, smooth-tongued agents, but it does seem strange to see in eastern papers an item in which "barren pigs are wanted against a thistle exterminator for three dollars and fifty cents, as it is useless."

The arbitrators appointed by the county council at its last session to hear the appeal of E. Tully and others against the action of the Fenelon Falls school board, have met on the 4th inst. at 9 in the 7th con. from school section No. 1, and attaching them to section No. 2, and the board on the 17th April and on the 21st.

Between the d- and sparrows and the boot-lickers at Ottawa the country is being robbed! This was the exclamation of Judge Deane, who was hurried by in the sweltering heat of a day of business, that the man with the scythe, comfortably ensconced under the shade of a wayside tree, was possessed of a grievance against the street superintendent of O'Neill, and he decided that the street trimmer, who obliged to supply scythes and hunt weeds to cut, were to be re-deemed from the time-honored wage of $1.50 per day to $1, and in some instances to $1.00. Finally was decided a considerable length of time, and a deputation to wait upon the council and ask that the old rate be restored. Finally, perhaps, the members saw the "help" of their arguments and arranged a way out of the difficulty. During the busy day the boot-licker on the east side of Lindsay-st. was missed by the weed-cutting and it proved to be a very many new varieties of weeds as the drain has small for some years past.

He is some ten months old, and only awaits maturity to demonstrate his worth.

Mr. J. J. Daly shipped his "side-wheeler," Minnie Belle, 2:34, to Toronto last Monday for development. He said he had a fine prospect for a new trainer.
