-One of the most brutal outrages that has occurred in Ingersoll for years was per petrated one day last week on a young lady herself. The brute in human form is known as "Tim Carroll," who has been boarding with the mother of the young lady upon whom the assault was made. A few days ago, while the girl's mother was Whiten left Gloucester seven weeks ago away from home, Carroll assaulted her, and then kept her locked in the house. As soon as she received her liberty she swore out a warrant for his arrest, but up to the present he has eluded the police, although not for long, as the authorities have been notified all over. The young lady is still in a precarious condition. -Glanders is so prevalent in London that the authorities have issued special: instructions to the inspectors. They recommend the complete isolation of horses that are suspected of being infected with the disease, and the slaughter of every animal that is known to be suffering with it. Every horse in the city is being strictly watched. The public drinking troughs have been closed to prevent the contagion spreading by this means. A prominent veterinary surgeon has written a letter to the Times protesting against this action in the hottest season of the year. He declares that the closing of the troughs is a calamity which will have far worse results upon the animals than any that would result from leaving them open. The disease has been prevalent for some little time past, and the decision to close the troughs was put into effect a week ago. -Herr von Hessler, an equerry to the Prince Regent of Bavarin, was fatelly mangled Friday in Munich by two great ma-tiffs belonging to a builder named Maier. The equerry was walking along the Blutenburger Strasse and encountered the two dogs, which sniffed at him in suspicious way. Hessier tapped one of them with a short riding whip he had in his hand, whereupon the animals lesped upon him and began tearing him in the most feroclous manner. People ran to assist the equerry, who was disabled by the wounds inflicted and the loss of blood, but struggled bravely to shake off the savage brutes. Before the dogs were compelled to give up the attack they had torn Hessler so terribly that he died after being rescued. The equerry's friends at once caused the arrest of Maier on a charge of manslaughter. -A London cable says:-The shock earthquake Wednesday night caused consternation in Pembrokeshire, the extreme south-western county of Wales. Many families have been living for days on cactus plants. Many children have died of fever. The relief committee issues four pounds of corn to each person a week, barely enough to keep them alive. Clothing is badly needed. In some cases whole families are nearly dead, and when cold northers come the suffering will be great. -Our sheep trade with Great Britian has been a failure this season. Shippers have made heavy losses, and are now dropping out of the market altogether, so that the season is practically over. The shippments to date are 14,773 sheep sgainst

No serious damage was done to the machine.

-The board of trustees of the village of Carthage have authorized the purchase of a novel fire alarm for use on the village hall. It consists simply of a common steel tire five feet in diameter, such as are used on the drive wheels of iccomotives. It will make a noise like that of a huge triangle and can be heard distinctly a distance of two miles. Unlike the sound of church bells and steam whistles, it will be readily distinguishable from other signals when it is desirable to call out the department The steel tire alarm is in use in many localities, and its utility was illustrated and explained in a recent issue of the Scientific American.

-The Winnipeg Free Press says: Farmers in many districts of the province are now busy with the wheat harvest. The hot weather of the past few days has hastened the ripening of the wheat beyond expectstion and by next week harvesting will be general. A gentleman from Carberry last | to secure work no doubt had something to night (Thursday) brought into the Free do with him committing the rash act. -The Globs last Saturday reports an incident that occurred Saturday to the queen while she was driving near O. born house, Isle of Wight. As the royal carriage was proceeding along the road a man making violent gestures advanced toward it. The carriage was stopped and the man approached the queen. He told her that he was a foreign count, and that he and many others had sworn that if the queen did not resign they would kill her. Her Majesty listened in silence to the wild harangue, never once betraying any nervousness. She and her attendants at once saw that the man was mentally unbalanced, and, though she did not know never uttering a word. One of her attendants dismounted, and quietly taiking to the man removed him from her majesty's presence. He was handed over to a constable and lodged in jail. There is no doubt that he is insane.

and went to Western Bank, and after ob taing bait went to Portland, Me., and landed it. She there baited, and two weeks ago went to Lehave bank. Tuesday morning four of the crew left the vessel in dories to set trawls. The dory occupied by the first two had a compass but no sail, while the latter had a said but no compaes. A thick fog prevailed and when the work was done they could neither find the vessel nor each other. At three o'clock in the afternoon the fog lifted a few minutes and the two dories sighted each other long enough to get together, but the fog again settled densely, and the men decided to row for land. They pulled all night and the next day. On the second night, as they were becoming exhausted, they abandoned one dory and retained the one with the sail. With brief rests they stuck to their oars until eleven o'clock Thursday morning, when the steamer Lunenberg picked them up, fifteen miles off Sambro, and took them to Lunenberg, then back to Halifax. Their hands were in a terrible condition from rowing and their feet swollen from wearing rubber boots. They rowed about 250 miles, and during all that time had but one biscuit and little water. -The St. Louis and San Francisco rail road passenger train which left Whichita, Kansas, Saturday night, was held up and the Wells, Fargo express car robbed by four masked men near Augusta about midnight, and before nine o'clock Saturday morning the outlaws were captured with a part of their booty. As the train slowed up at the Santa Fe crossing, about a mile east of Augusts, two masked men mounted the locomotive from either side and covering the engineer and fireman with guns ordered them to stop the train. The train came to a stand still and two members of DR. L. A. SMITH & Co., the rabbers' gang who were hiding started to uncouple the express car. As soon as this was done the engineer was compelled to pull out with the cars mile distant from the train, and while two of the highwaymen watched the locomotive crew the others went to the express car door and demanded admittance, and by way of emphasizing their demands commenced to shoot through the sides of the car in which in.
