A New York special from Cripple Creek, Col., says: In one of the mines of the Pueblo Consolidated Gold Mining Company an abundant lead of mineral has been opened at a depth of less than ten feet, the ore bearing gold in such abundance that conservative tests gave returns of $2,500 to the ton of crude ore.

The Canadian line steamer Scythia arrived at Queenstown from Boston, from which port she sailed on July 23rd, Wednesday week.

She reports that when she was about half way across the Atlantic she ran into a dense fog, which lasted for three hours.

Her engines were slowed down and she was kept blowing every minute. Extra lookouts were stationed forward and on the bridge, and incessant vigilance was observed by the officers on the deck and the watches they commanded.

The steamer was compelled by the fog to proceed slowly for over a thousand miles.

About 9 o'clock last Thursday night a pleasure party, while going to a dance at the lower end of Lake George, met with a terrible casualty.

The steam yacht Rachel, which is owned by W. Sherman, proprietor of the Perle Point house, Lake George, was conveying 29 people up the lake.

The little vessel was turned toward the One Hundred Island house and was gliding toward the landing, when the passengers were thrown forward by a sudden shock.

In the dark the vessel had run upon a sunken pier, and before anyone arrived from the shore it sank with all on board.

It was only a few minutes after the shock when the yacht careened to one side and went down in eighteen feet of water.

The shrieking, struggling passengers battled for life in the darkness. Nine lives were lost.

H. W. White, a well-known inventor of Yonkers, N. Y., was married six years ago to Mrs. G. Wheeler, widow of an old Yonkers man.

After a year of married life Mr. White went east, and shortly thereafter Mr. White secured a divorce from her.

Mr. White went to the World's fair with an exhibit. In June he was ill, and Mrs. White, formerly Mrs. Wheeler, heard of his indisposition.

She went from her home in Ohio to Chicago, and nursed her former husband back to health.

They became lovers again, and two weeks ago were married the second time.

Mrs. Wheeler is Mr. White's third fourth wife, and has been three times a bride.

Mr. White is past 70 years old, and his bride has been 50 winters.

The Victoria, lying seventy fathoms deep under the blue Mediterranean, off the coast of Tripoli, the hidden tomb of many gallant British sailors, may soon be brought to the outer world with all its ghastly freight.

An Italian inventor has taken it upon himself to return the bodies of the dead, and the carcasses of their sepulchre home to the bereaved families and the Admiralty of England.

Sign. Balsanello has invented a new diving apparatus, known as the "Balla Nautica" or deep sea ball.

It is an enormous metallic sphere, which, by a complicated system of pulleys, can be sunk to almost any given depth.

By an ingenious mechanism it can be raised to the surface in a very short time. The chains and grapples necessary to bring the Victoria to the surface could thus easily be put in place, and so the one difficulty attending the undertaking would be conquered.

The king of Italy is said to have witnessed the workings of a model of the invention, and to have expressed a hope that the attempt would succeed.

A writer in Longman's Magazine has been measuring and weighing the sea. According to his calculations the number of gallons in the whole sea is 373 trillions (million million, million), which, if it could be poured away at the rate of 1,000 gallons a second, would take nearly 12,000 million years to get rid of.

If we could sell it even at a low price as one shilling for 10,000 gallons, the bill would come to 1,800 billion pounds.

Supposing the sea to be formed into a round column reaching to the sun, the diameter of the column would be 33 million miles of its total length of 93 million, and the Atlantic 18 million. It is a column of ice, and the entire heat of the sun could be concentrated upon it, it would be all melted in one second, and converted into steam in eight seconds.

Which illustrates the heat of the sun better than the sun itself. The weight of the sea is 1 trillion and 655,000 billion (1,655,000,000,000,000) tons, and if a contractor took the job to move it at even so moderate a price as 1,000 tons for a penny, he would require to be paid the amount of its total cost ten thousand times over in reward for his labors.

The Dominion line steamship Sara is reported to have been passed on the 7th inst, about five hundred miles east of Newfoundland with her machinery disabled.

The British cruiser Forth rammed the British steamer Kirby, Captain Brown, off Starb Point, in a fog on Saturday night. The undamaged compartments kept her afloat.

A water-pump on Saturday committed terrible ravages in Syria. The town of Gueslins was nearly ruined, and hundreds narrowly escaped with their lives.

Nineteen villages were inundated, and the whole country was devastated. Many ewes and lambs perished, and the crops were ruined. At least nine persons were drowned.

At the raising of a barn for Councillor Boswell, of Keppel, on Friday last, a heavy pile-pole slipped from the hands of the men and fell on Richard Xco, knocking him senseless and inflicting several serious wounds on his head, face and shoulders.

The doctor dressed the wounds, putting in thirteen stitches in the scalp.

At noon Monday a daring thief stole a bag containing $3,000 in gold, which was lying at the window of the receiving teller of the First National bank, St. Paul, Minn.

The bag had been sent over to the clearing house by the Merchants' National, and was lying just inside the receiving teller's window.

An unknown man stepped up to the window, seized the bag, made off with it, and escaped before pursuit could be organized.

There is no trace of the robber. A coaching accident occurred last Friday near Ilfracombe, a fashionable seaside resort in Devon, Eng.

Several coaches run between Ilfracombe and the towns and villages in the neighborhood. On Friday a coach filled with people was proceeding along a road bordered on one side by a high precipice.

It had reached a point where the sheer wall of the precipice was 100 feet high when, through mismanagement of the driver, it said, the coach went over the edge, carrying passengers to the bottom.

The escape of the people from instant death was almost miraculous. Not one was killed outright.

Eight received serious injuries, however, and it is feared that four of them will die.

One of the saddest railway accidents known in or near Hamilton took place Friday afternoon, resulting in the death of Mrs. Andrew Himmen, wife of a truck laborer, and their youngest child, Frank, fifteen months old.

The children had been playing and started to go home four o'clock, with Frank ahead of the rest.

Just as the little fellow came up to the track Mrs. McInyre, who lives a short distance to the north of the railway, heard the whistle of the express coming from Niagara Falls, and cried out, "O, the child!"

Her cry attracted Mrs. Himmen's attention, and she dashed out to save her child, Frank, as he reached the track, was standing on the planking on the north side of the track.

Heedless of the fast approaching train and, seeing only her youngest born in danger, she reached across the rails to save him from death.

But the ponderous engine struck them both at the same time. The child was caught by the side of the engine and pitched into the road, and the poor mother, struck by the cowcatcher, was dragged along the track about 30 feet and thrown into the ditch.

The body of the mother was found to be terribly mangled, the front of the body being torn open. Himmen was working on the track near the spot where the train was stopped, and, suspecting something was wrong, walked along the line to discover the terrible fatality that had robbed him of wife and child.

His grief was most pitiful to witness. He is a German. Mr. Himmen was about 39 years of age.

MIDLAND DISTRICT NOTES.

At Huntsville Monday an eight-year-old daughter of John Matthews lost her life in the river.

George Tannison, a farmer near Belleville, went shooting in the bush. He had not been long away from his house when the report of a gun was heard.

He did not make his appearance in the evening and a search resulting in his being found, apparently having been about to cross a stream on a log, shot through a vital part of the body and quite dead.

Without doubt the shooting was quite accidental.

The Midland Free Press vouchers for the following: William and David Pratt, of the firm of Pratt Bros., farmers, had an encounter with a puff adder last week.

Benjamin said: "They were waiting for a breeze for the sailing and David went to sleep under the tree. He awoke to see a puff adder drop from the tree, and he made a lightning calculation that the reptile inclined to fall on his head.

Before the calculation was proved he was on his feet and making the air whistle in his ears as he leaped ten feet every second. His brother heard his yells and he rushed to him with an axe and cut the snake into two parts.

The snake showed every inclination to fight.

Mr. Hewton, of the Kingston Halsey Company, has a machine that will turn out 100 pairs of men's knitted hose in one day, the usual work of forty days.

The machine was invented by a Florida man last winter. Mr. Hewton saw the machine working and was not slow to discover the bonus to be in it.

He made a bargain with the inventor for the Canadian right. A few days ago the knitting mill company was offered $25,000 for an interest. The company refused, and further, refused to sell any other firm in Canada the machine.

Mr. Hewton says the Kingston mill can turn out enough hose to furnish the whole of Canada and at such a reduced rate as to swamp the other dealers.

Last week John Preston, of the North Shore, trod upon a rattlesnake concealed in a bank of moss, when the reptile sprung his rattle and, rearing his head, prepared to strike his fangs into the boy's anatomy, but the lad was too quick for the serpent and took leg bail in so short a time that he is still alive, a monument of extraordinary agility.

John Preston, sr., stoned the monster to death. His snake was five feet in length, and as thick as a man's wrist. The bite of a rattlesnake is a mere puncture, such as a darning needle might make, and the result almost certain death when no immediate remedy is at hand.

Sucking the poison out of the wound and a copious administration of whiskey are the usual remedies employed. (Ontario Times.)

A despatch from Racebridge Monday night says: A sad drowning accident occurred on the Marquette river, Brown's rapids about 6 o'clock this morning, when Mr. Frank Pirlette, a promising young man, of Toronto Junction, lost his life.

A party of young men from that place were camped at the junction of the Moon and Marquette rivers, and this morning three of them, W. Powell, Frank Pirlette and J. Raymond attempted to run the rapids in a canoe. In doing so they were upset.

Powell and Raymond managed to reach the shore after great exertions. Pirlette had clung on to the canoe and had floated to within about 20 feet from the opposite side when he left the canoe and swam for shore. He had only taken a few strokes when he suddenly sank and did not resurface. His friends immediately proceeded to search for the body, assisted by some Indians, but up to the present time they have been unsuccessful.

Search will be diligently continued. Pirlette was a law student in the office of Mr. C. C. Goleg, solicitor for Toronto Junction.

Peterboro and Victoria Cheese Board. The regular meeting of the Peterboro and Victoria cheese board was held in the council chamber, Peterboro, on Tuesday afternoon, 8th inst.

Liverpool, white, was quoted at 46 and colored at 47. The buyers present were: Messrs. Cluxton, Wrighton, Cook, Fitzgerald and Flavell.

The meeting was of the shortest on record—two buyers clearing off the whole board. Mr. Cook at 9 1/2, took nearly the whole board, or to much of it at any rate that there were not many factories left for the other buyers present to select.

Mr. Cook captured 4,300 boxes at the first go-off.

The following factories boarded the following number of boxes—in all 4,965 boxes.

Table listing factories and their respective box counts. Includes entries like Keene, Shearer, North, etc.

Good Crops and Big Sales. Toronto, August 14th.—Frank Brown, a prominent druggist of Shelburne, Ont., was in the city of Montreal on Friday.

He is a wealthy man, and his business is in the vicinity of his home.

"The crops are first-class," he said, so the farmers are busy in the field and merchants consequently find things a little dull.

But there is one article on the market just now that sells more readily than any other in our hands.

That one is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The best of it is, everyone who has taken the pills has been benefited by them.

Nearly every man, woman and child in and around Shelburne has used them, so I know what I am talking about.

Don't you think my cows fit better than they used to?—Yes, your druggist told me yesterday she was taking lessons in geometry.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsville, Ind., says: "I had been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness, weakness of the stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion, until my health was gone."

"I had been doing constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South America's Nervine, which came more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life."

"I will advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy, a few bottles of it have cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." A trial bottle will convince you. Warranted by G. Gregory.

When I was ten years old," he says, "I was with my father on board a man-of-war. I had some qualities that I thought made a man of me, I could swear like an old salt, I could drink as stiff a glass of arag as if I had doubled Jape Horn, and I could smoke like a locomotive. I was great at cards and fond of gambling in every shape.

At the close of dinner, one day, my father turned everybody out of the cabin, locked the door, and said to me: "David, what do you mean to be?"

"I mean to follow the sea."

"Follow the sea! Yes, to be a poor, miserable, drunken sailor before the mast; he kicked and cuffed about the world, and died in some fever hospital in a foreign land. N. David, no boy ever trod the quarterdeck with such principles as you have and such habits as you exhibit. You'll have to change your whole course of life if you ever become a man."

"My father left me and went on deck. I was stammered by the rebuke and overwhelmed by mortification."

"A poor, miserable, drunken sailor before the mast! He kicked and cuffed about the world and died in some fever hospital! That is to be my fate, thought I. I'll change my life and change it at once. I will never go to sea again. I will never drink another drop of intoxicating liquor; I will never gamble. I have kept these three vows ever since. Shortly after I made them I became a Christian. That act was the turning point in my destiny."—Selected.

A Sure Remedy for Neuralgia. Neuralgia is one of the most common and distressing complaints which afflict the human race. It is not confined to any particular season, for whilst most general in the winter season, yet many suffer its excruciating agony in the heat of summer.

In late years this form of disease has become better known and consequently the means of relief have become greatly multiplied. We can mention no remedy equal to or more certain than Peleone's Nervine. Its power over pain is something wonderful, and we advise a trial for neuralgia or any other painful complaint.
