Church Notes.

Don't forget the special gospel services in the tent on William-st., being conducted by Messrs. Monypenny and R. Telfer, evangelists from Toronto, each week night (except Saturday) at 8, and on Sunday at 4 and 7.30 p.m. The tent is waterproof, is comfortably seated, and all are kindly invited. No collections.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK.

The biggest salmon ever caught in the Fraser river was caught Monday. The monster weighed 84 and was shipped to New York Wednesday.

Advices received from Hong Kong in reference to the disaster at the Canto powder works gives the number of persons killed at over 50 and badly injured nearly 3,000, over 2,000 families being rendered homeless by the collapsing of their houses.

While two Indians of Digby, N. S., were out in a canoe shooting porpoises, a monster shark attacked their craft and bit a big hole in the bottom of it. When the sharks head appeared through the bottom one of the Indians fired into it and it disappeared. The Indian himself then became faint, fell into the water and also disappeared. The other Indian was rescued.

W. Hartmann of Titusville, Pa., committed suicide recently from a melancholy conviction that he was his own grandfather. Here is the singular letter that he left: "I married a widow who had a grown up daughter, Mr. Telfer visited our house very often, and fell in love with my stepdaughter and married her. So my father became my son-in-law and my stepdaughter my mother, because she was my father's wife. Some time afterward my wife had a son; he was my brother-in-law and my uncle, for he was the brother of my stepmother. My father's wife, I, e., my stepdaughter, had also a son; he was, of course, my brother, and in the meantime my grandchild, for he was the son of my daughter. My wife was my mother's mother, because she was my mother's grandchild at the same time, and as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather, I was my own grandfather.

On Monday a shocking and fatal accident occurred about four miles north of Oshawa, by which Mr. Henry Doolittle met a horrible death. Immediately after breakfast Mr. Doolittle and two of his sons hitched a team of horses to a self-raking reaper to go to the field to cut clover, and as the horses were young the two sons took the precaution of each taking a horse by the bridle, and Mr. Doolittle sat on the seat with the lines in his hands. The horses went kindly at the starting of the reaper, but as soon as the knives were set in motion they made a sudden plunge and kept plunging and jumping with their young men at their heads, and in their efforts to get away they made a circle, coming around near the barn, when the drive wheel ran over the edge of a log and dropping off that onto a large flat stone broke the driving wheel of the reaper. Mr. Doolittle of the seat, when his head came in contact with the broken wheel, a portion of the wheel entered his head behind the ear, making a terrible gash, which alone must have caused instantaneous death; but this was not the only cut or bruise, as his head and face were badly cut in several other places, besides many bruises in different parts of his limbs and body. The deceased was an old resident highly respected, and the awful death he met has deeply impressed the neighborhood. He was about 55 years of age, had a good farm, and was well-to-do. [Oshawa Vindicator.
