Government Taking Precautions Against Outbreaks

LEADING TRAITORS UNDER ARREST.

Sighting in Africa in Which the Lives of Some British coldiers Were Lost-Mr. Chamberlain and the Colonial Premiers Criticized General Cable News.

London, July 28.-The Times norning prints a despatch from Simla, which says yet another proof is given of the wave of fanaticism which is sweeping along the northwest frontier. marck at Altona at the house of Count The story is curious as showing how quickly tribesmen can be gathered and how readily they respond to the appeal of fanaticism. Since the Chitral campaign ended the Swat Valley has been perfectly peaceful, trade has developed and the Swatis have been contented and have shown no sign of disaffection. On Monday, however, without the least vent a sudden change. The first news that reached Malakand was that a disturbance had occurred at Thana, near Chakgara Bridge. A few hours later news was received that Mullah, a priest, who is well known locally, gathered a force of armed men, taising the cry of "Holy War." In the evening it was reported that he was advancing towards Malakand, and preparations were made to send a column in the morning to disperse the gathering. The tribal levies, who fled as Mullah advanced, reported that Malakand would be attacked at 3 o'clock in the morning. The camp was alert, but the attack was delivered at 10.30 o'clock at night, a very unusual hour. says that the Government is taking all steps necessary to cope with the emergency in the Chitral Although Fort Chakdara, now cut off, occupies an isolated position, it is believed that with

Holland of the 24th Punjab Infantry was among those seriously during Monday night's attack on Camp Malakand. A despatch from Bombay says that Gangadhar Tilak, a native member of the Legislative Council, was arrested last evening on the charge of inciting the natives to disaffection. He was formally arraigned in the Bombay Police Court this morning, after which the bearing was adjourned. Gangadhar Tilak has for a long time agitated indiscriminately against the British rule. Of late he has been more than usually virulent. He is a man of talent, a thorough fanatic, opposed to European ideas and innovations, and Simla, July 30 .- A despatch from Camp Malakand reports another night attack by the tribesmen last night (Thursday). The natives fought desperately for several hours, but were repulsed at all points by the British. Bonfires had been lighted around the camp and in the glare the tribesmen were easy targets for the British riflemen. Many fell and in the light of the flames the natives could be seen removing their dead. It is reported that the Mullah was badly wounded and that several of his principal chiefs were disabled. The British lost one killed and 17 wounded, among the latter being Lieut. Costello, who was wounded the second time. He had received a slight wound during the day attack on Wednesday. The forces of the Mullah have been augmented by a strong gathering of the natives on the hills to the right of the British position. The theory is that the Boserwals have risen. The situation is now somewhat relieved by the arrival of Licetrocuted - Awful Speciacle in New York.

New York, Aug. 2 .- F ank McDonnell of Toronto, who is known as "the champion illuminated bicycle performer of the world," was killed at Ridgewood Park last night. In the presence of 5000 people he essayed to ride a bicycle across an electric wire strung seventy-five feet above the ground. when he fell and died almost instantly. Americans of Hessian birth are holding a Volksfest at Ridgewood Park. Wissel, pro prietor of the park, and the Brooklyn City Railroad engaged "Professor Arion" as a special attraction. He agreed to repeat the performance he has long been giving in the West for every night in the week.

The most striking feature of this performance was to ride the bicycle across an electric wire. At Ridgewood there is a wire of galvanized iron, an inch in diameter and a hundred feet long, strung at the height of seventy-five feet between two platforms. The current that passes through the wire was derived from the trolley lines outside of the park, and was 500

When it was announced at 10 o'clock last night that Professor Arion was about to appear the thousands of people at the Park deserted the shooting galleries, the bowling alleys and the dancing floor and assembled under the wire. As usual at a Volksfest, very many women and children were in the crowd. McDonnell ascended to the platform at one end of the wire. Then he whetted the appetite of the spectators for the most dangerous feat by performing others not so risky. He made a bed of rubber on the wire and lay on it, filcely balancing himself. He was dressed in blue tights and wore rubber shoes. Then he waiked from one end to the other of the wire and back again, dancing on it while were watching him.

"He's off!" they cried, just as the crowds yell at the race track. McDonnell, on his bike, moved about 10 feet along the wire. Then he lost his right pedal. He swayed and made a desperate effort to regain the pedal. The crowd saw his danger and uttered a horrified cry. Many of the women bent their heads, covered their eyes and ran away from the sight. McDonnell stiffened up in his saddle, leaned backward, threw up his arms and fell. He never moved or uttered a sound after telephone, informing him that a man who was suspected of having smallpox had boarded the steamer Passport of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company, bound for Toronto. Instantly the Doctor realized the necessity for prompt action. Not a minute was to be lost. He was at the Island when the fifteen minutes he was in the city and had commenced making arrangements to stop the steamer before she reached the harbor, and, if necessary, inspect every living soul on board. Assistance was needed at once to complete all arrangements. Professor Shuttleworth was summoned, and in a very short time every official of the Health Departfector Hawthorne and an assistant were spatched to the Isolation Hospital to make all necessary arrangements for patient should one be found on the steamer. The next thing to be done Dr. Sheard was determined to take most extreme measures if it was found necessary to do so, but he wisely decided to attain his purpose with the least possible trouble or display of authority. With some difficulty he located Joseph F. Dolan, agent for the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company, of whose ficials every assistance. To secure a tug on which to go out and meet the Passport was the next necessity. Dr. Sheard and Prof. Shuttleworth walked up and down the waterfront for two hours before they secured the kind of boat they wanted. It was Sunday morning and every boat was tied up. At about 4 o'clock, just as the dawn was breaking, the officials spied a tug towing a schooner into the harbor. It proved to be the W. F. McRae, Captain Jackman, with the schooner Keewatin. As soon as she left her tow Dr. Sheard secured her, and accompanied by Hague, he proceeded to the eastern a big battle near the site of Canudos. channel, there to await the coming of

It was just 6.45 when the old sideeastern entrance. There lay the little tug with her party of officials. The signal was given to stop and in a few mo-ments Dr. Sheard had stepped on board and informed the captain of his mission. The sailing master was greatly surprised when informed that he had a smallpox suspect on board. Only one passenger, he said, had got on at Belleville. Dr. Sheard demanded to be shown that passenger, but an inspection showed that he was not the man who was wanted. A general inspection of the passengers and crew was in progress that a man was sleeping in the boiler deck forward covered with an old grey coat. Dr. Sheard went forward, and walking up to the sleeping man, removed the overcoat that covered his head. The fellow started up, and looking at Dr. Sheard, he asked: "Are you a doctor?"

"Yes, I am," replied Dr. Sheard, "and I want you to come along out of here at Smallpox marks covered the unfortunate man's head, and a terrible fever was burning him up. the life boat. Few citizens saw it, and those who did were unaware of the reasons for that early morning pull up the sluggish waters of the Don. Whitney was a very sick man, but he managed to sit up until the hospital was reached. Here perfect management and arrangements were again in evidence. Everything was in readiness to receive the patient. Dr. Shoultis, two nurses, a male attendant and a cook were there, and in two or three mintues the smallpox patient was resting comfortably in bed, totally isolated from all but his physician and the nurses, the smallpox hospital being entirely distinct from the main building. He had never set foot in the city except to walk up the hill from the boat to the hospital. The man's clothes were burned and the lifeboat was sunk. When notified that the patient was safely in the hospital, Dr. Sheard and Prof. Shuttleworth made arrangements to thoroughly disinfect the whole steamer and her contents and to vaccinate the passengers and crew. The officers of the steamer exhibited a creditable willingness to assist Dr. Sheard in all his efforts. The anchor was dropped in the eastern part of the bay about half a mile out from Ward's, and there she will stay until further orders. During the morning a cargo of disinfectants was sent out, consisting principally of sul-phur, carbolic acid and bichloride of mercury. A large quantity of vaccine was also sent out, and Prof. Shuttleworth spent a good part of the day vaccinating the passengers. He used the vaccine on hand, and more will be sent out to-day. Steam Disinfector Hawthorne assisted the Professor in the work of disinfecting the steamer and her contents. The part of the steamer that Whitney kept himself in was thoroughly cleaned and disin-fected, and the whole steamer will be overhauled before she is allowed to leave

On board the Passport are 29 passengers, one deck passenger and a crew of 49, making 79 in all Among the passengers are a number of American tourists and several Torontonians. One or two of them induced the officers of the bog not to give the press their names, rearing that their relatives would be too much shocked and excited it their unenviable position were made known. Their detention in quarantine is, of ing the best of their misfortune, and fied by warm shampoos with CUTICUBA SOAP, spent the day as comfortably and happily as possible. They had divine service morning and evening, conducted by Rev. Mr. Worrell, who is among the unlucky passengers. In the afternoon Dr. Sheard again visited the steamer, and in response to many anxious enand in response to many analysis of quiries he informed the isolated company that they would have to stay on board until Wednesday morning, when they would probably be taken off and transferred to tents on the sand bar, where they would have to remain for ten days. They accepted the Medical Health Officer's verdict very philosophically, one joker remarking: "That's

The present intention is to complete the disinfection of the steamer by Wednesday and allow her to leave port, while the passengers will be detained for nine or ten days longer. The man who caused all this trouble is R. H. Whitney. He is about 30 years of age, short, stout and not very prepossessing. As far as can be learned he landed in Montreal on the 27th ult., and got as far as Belleville, when his cash ran out.

WHITNEY AT BELLEVILLE, He Was There All Day Saturday and the Rash Had Appeared. Belleville, Aug. 2 .- A young man named R. H. Whitney arrived in the city on Friday morning. Yesterday morning he appeared ill, and when in a telegraph office waiting for a reply to a message to his people in Toronto the chief operator noticed a slight rash on his face. Later in the day he was examined by Dr. Tracy, Medical Health Officer, who considered the case suspicious and placed him under surveillance whilst endeavoring to get a suitable place for his detention. In the meantime he received money by telegraph, and almost immediately disappeared. On Dr. Tracy learning that he had boarded the Passport for Toronto he telephoned Dr. Sheard that the case was a suspicious one and to watch the Passport. Whitney said he came to Montreal from Glasgow by steamer Amarynthia, arriving July 27, being there two days, and when he arrived here was apparently well.

THAT SMALLPOX CASE

Which Caused Such a Stir in Toronto on Sunday Night No New Developments as Yet.

Toronto, Aug. 3 .- The smallpox scare of Sunday has almost petered out. The developments of yesterday were alreception of a smallpox most nil. Some physicians asserted that Whitney had not smallpox at all, but Medical Health Officer Sheard affirms the steamer landing her passengers or most positively that the man is sugering from that disease. The patient remains in about the same condition, and the citizens in general are not by any means panic-stricken. The steamer Passport still lies at anchor in the bay, and the unfortunate passengers are making themselves as comfortable as possible.. There was a great deal of talk about the case fleet the Passport is one of the oldest vesterday among the citizens, and the and most popular steamers. Mr. Dolan prompt action of the Health authorities was informed of the circumstances, and was endorsed. Close investigation shows to his credit it must be said that he that Whitney contracted the disease inreadily consented to give the health of-Glasgow, and not in Montreal.

Three Thousand Government Troops slaughtered by the Fanatics - Ground Strewn With the Dead.

New York, July 29 .- A despatch to The Herald from Rio Janeiro, Brazil, says that authentic information has reached that city to the effect that more John Jackman and Ambulance Driver than 3000 soldiers have been killed in Payments. The fanatics, numbering more than 10,000 men, all well armed, attacked the Government troops. Whole brigades wheeler turned her nose towards the of the soldiers were swept down and destroyed and trampled under foot as the victorious fanatics with wild shouts of triumph passed over them. The full extent of the loss of life cannot be told. There is no reasonable doubt, however, that the loss in killed on both sides is more than three thousand.

For miles the ground around Canudos is strewn with the dead and dying, the Government troops being compelled to leave their dead on the field and flee to save themselves from complete destruction by the avalanche of the fana-

When the report of the awful battle reached Rio Janeiro it was considered by the President and Ministry, and i was decided to send the Minister of War to the scene next week with 4000 men, who are now gathering. They will carry with them a store of ammunicion, and will endeavor to dislodge the fanaties from the positions they now hold. Fighting has been in progress at Canudos for several weeks. In the meantime, while the fanatics fought apparently with little heart, they have been gathering their forces from all directions. The result was the final attack on the Government troops, which led to

The arguments submitted by the Dominion counsel have apparently sufficed to disprove their case. At 10.30 on Saturday night Dr. Sheard received a message from Belleville by

If the arrangement of the wire attached to him had been safe and certain, the electric circuit would have been completed the moment he mounted his wheel. Carefully he got astride of the bike, and, balancing himself, put his feet on the pedals. The electric bulbs were illumined and wheel and man burst into a variegated blaze. As he moved the pedals a tremendous shout went up from a thousand persons who he struck the ground. Dr. C. J. Hettesheimer, of No. 313 Wyckoff-avenue, Brooklyn, was in the park. He ran to McDonnell, raised his head and supported him. The daring rider scarcely breathed, and died almost instantly. The only injury of which the doctor was certain was that McDonnell's left arm was broken. He suspected that three of his ribs were fractured. So he and most of those who saw the accident had the idea that McDonnell, in striving to regain his pedal, had disarranged the wire attached to him, and that the current had passed through his body, electrocuting him in midair. A post-mortem examination
