CANADA AND THE ENGLISH MARKET.

Prof. J. W. Robertson, Canadian commissioner of agriculture, who is at present in England enquiring into the better methods of placing Canadian products on the markets of the old country, was recantly interviewed by the editor of the Manchester Guardian and we make the following extract from the report publishin that paper:

"For instance, in 1891 we had no cooperative creamery in the country. Everybody was doing his best to work up his making butter all the year. Since 1891, then, our winter butter making has been | the most tax to pay. constantly progressive. In that year we established two co-operative creameries in Ontario, and we have gone on to the increase I have told you of in the six succeeding years. You already know what we can do in cheese. Of your total imports of foreign cheese, Canada sends you 60 per cent. In 1889 we sent to Great Britain 88,534,887 lbe. cf cheese, and it was so good that by 1894 cur exports to you had reached 127,915 648 lbs., an increase cf nearly 50 per cent in quantity. In value the lacrosse was similar. What we have doi e as regards cheese we can do as regards butter. Our exports are indeed growing. For instance, in 1894 we exported to you 2,338,344 les. of butter. But in in two years we quadrupled our export, that is scarcely anything compared with your whole foreign supply. You took 340,250,064 lbs. of butter from other countries last year, and of that quantity Denmark seat over 137,000,000 ibs. and France over 52 000,000 lbs. SINGLE TAX TALK.

A Wrong Idea. It is very difficult to rid some people's minds of the idea that men should be taxed according to their wealth. They urge, as an objection to the single tax, that rich people who do not own or use land would escape taxation. Why shouldn's they? Is it a crime to possess wealth, that men should be punished for it? But such critics are unnecessarily alarmed, for they would have to hunt a I ng time to find any rich man who did not own a large amount of land values. A large part of the value of railroad stocks and bonds consists of land values and would be taxed with other values, while own butter on his own plan or style. > Wrinkles in Letter Writing. Good form of writing notes and letters has been changed considerably. You must no longer have a margin at either side of your page, nor divide what you have to say into paragraphs, but write it continuously. You mustn'e write on each side of the sheet, one after the other, just as they come. Use the front page first and then turn it over and fill up the back. If you still have something to say, attack the other side of the front page, writing crosswise from top to bottom and so on down, filling both the inside pages. This is, according to an eminent authority, considered to be "the nicest way among the nicest people." That settles it. Neither must you date your letter at the upper right hand corner any more. Put it at the lower left hand corner at the bottom of the letter. Write it all out. The economy of time and space implied by the use of figures is offensive to good society. In an informal note, however, you will be permitted to express the year in figure, but the day of the month never.

A Reporter's Searching Investigation into a Case at Orangeville - The Claims Made on Behalf of This Medicine Fully Borne Out-The Greatest Healing Medicine of the Age. From the Orangeville Sun.

In a cosy little house on Margaret street, in this town, lives Mr. John Garrity, his wife and family. They are indeed a happy family, although a few years ago a sadder household would be hard to find Their happiness was not occasioned by the sudden obtaining of a fortune, but by something much more precious-the restoration to health of a wife and mother when everyone whispered that she must die. Our reporter taining itself by assessing its stockholders | heard of Mrs. Garrity's iliness and cure, and for the benefit of our readers investigated the case ; what he learned is well worth repeating. A few years ago Mr. Garrity kept a well-known hotel at Uheltenham and was known far and wide for his kindness and hospitality; his wife, too, was noted for her amiability. However, she was stricken with a peculiar sickness, her health failed rapidly and from one hundred and forty-seven pounds her weight reduced to ninety-five pounds. Fainting spells became frequent, and a continual pain in the back of her head almost drove her frantic. Physicians were in attendance, but the doctors all said there was no hope.
