Liberal Dealing.

There is a principle in winning business. No secret. It is by honest, liberal dealing and manners.

There is a good deal of liberality in trade, but fitful, sometimes excessive, sometimes reluctant, not controlled by a well-held principle. Manners are shallow and honesty lapses into "the average practice."

Common store dealing drives customers away. That's why it pays so well to be really honest and open.

This business is doing better all the while, and 'satisfaction echoes through the aisles like the notes of a song."

and and and and and all the transportations of the second

Looking lowards Fall.

More price work to-day. Just such prices as give a bargain tone to the entire store.

Prices tell in a business like this. Not that we undervalue influence, friendship, courtesy, but these are not the governing principles. The small store holds its trade by knowing its customers personally. The large store makes itself larger by being known for what it is-if the stocks are good and the prices right,

The arrival of Fall goods necessitates a speedy clearance of all the belongings of summer. This week will rid us of many if you appreciate good bargains and take quick advantage of them.

The Market Improving.

guaranteed.-d4w1.

Market business on Saturday morning was considerably better than it has been for several weeks. Our citizens were out in large numbers, all anxious to procure fresh butter and eggs. The supply of chickens and eggs was much better, and prices realized for them were good. The genial clerk, Mr. Callaghan, is doing his ulmost to make the market a success, and says that it is the only place in town where fresh produce can be secured. Following were the prices paid: Butter, 15c and 16c lb.; chickens, 50c and 55c per pair; ducks, 70c per pair; cucumbers, 10c per doz.; eggs, 11c and 12c per doz.; apples, per bag, 60c; apples, per gallon, 10c.

Received a Ducking.

Messrs. S. Champion and S. Irwin jr., paddled up the river as far as Cross Creeks on Tuesday afternoon to enjoy a few hours' fishing, and they had more sport than they anticipated. They caught a number of bass and a nice lunge and had started on the homeward trip when an agonizing cry gave both the impression that some one was drowning. Turning quickly in their seats to note the cause, both inclined to the same side of the canoe, and the craft overturned. The occupants gained shore in safety, but lost their fish, and were compelled to spend the night at a farm house.

Visitors From Port Hope.

The Port Hope Firemen's excursion they will spend a short time visiting to Bobcaygeon and Sturgeon Point passed through town at 9.30 Wednesday. There were between three and four hundred people on board, Mayor Quirlan headed the party, and Mr. L. Missen, who for over 24 years has honorably filled the office of chief of the brigade, assisted by his able staff, looked after the comfort of the excursionists. Capt. Bob. Henning, a genial navigator of Lake Ontario, was also along, and judging from the close watch he kept on the crew of the Crandella, he will secure many useful hints as to the proper handling of the "Maria Annette" before the days' trip is over.
