Dip.-reeve Crandell took strong exception to placing the light granted for the new wharf on Lindsay-st.—on the hill to the west was by long odds the most suitable location, as it would light York and Peelsts., the river channel and the wharf at the same time; in the other position it would not illuminate half the area. A number of councillors aired their opinions and finally a vote was taken, resulting in a victory for those who favored the west site for the light. The report was then adopted minus the clause mentioned. minus the clause mentioned.

REPORT OF THE TOWN PROPERTY COM-

D-p.-reeve Crandell, chairman of the town property committee, read a report recommending that town auctioneers be granted the privilege of selling on the market at half the present fee, or 50 cents; also that the sum of $50 be granted for the cleaning, draining, tileing, etc., of the market house cellar, which was shown to be in a very unhealthy condition.—After a short discussion the report was adopted.

Eight were killed and their bodies cremated, while seven others were seriously burned. TO WELCOME THE LIEUT.-GOVERNOR.

On motion Mr. James Keith, secretary of the agricultural society, was heard. He attended to the approaching visit of Lieut. Gov. G. A. Kirkpatrick to open the Central Fair, and said he had no doubt but that the council would be most anxious to do its share in extending a gtting welcome to the distinguished visitor.

Coun. Touchburn came out fist-footed in his opposition to all such "confisolery." He though the money to be expended in the way proposed would be better spent if added to the prize list... Dep-reeve Crandell took the north ward representative sharply to task for indifference to the success of the society and the town's interests. Whatev r benefitted the society slao heiped the towe; it was such men as Mr. Touchburn who proved stumb ling blocks in every community. -About fourteen months ago a young man named Arthur York, who lived somesian architecture must be sought for in the interiors. This I discovered a little later later later taking the first dosc. Large bottle 50c perial Guard, whose dining-room may be taken as a convenient standard. One end of this apartment was occupied entirely by a brought from the Volga. While eating our soup he pointed out the most desirable fish, and this was immediately caught by a "mujik," and in a few minutes lay smoking on the table. This layour was not possible. porphyry fish pond, the contents having been on the table. This luxury was not peculiar to my particular Slavic Lucullus, as every one who has visited Russia well knows; but I ceived a slight shock as, glancing up from the mosaic floor, my eyes encountered the legendary history of the family, in sculptured bastelief worthy of Thorwaldson, extending the WAKELIN. Cannington. March 8, 1892. - 98-17 relief worthy of Thorwaldsen, extending the entire length of the room, and punctuated by pilasters of malachite twenty leet high, the capitals of gold supporting a ceiling by Makowski, while the ribs inclosing the frescoes and forming a groin were also of the precious metal. The rest of the appointments were as costly and magnificent the head of decorative art rather than architecture. All this splendor seems less pretentious and more natural when one bears in mind the average wealth of a Russian noble, 50,000 acres of cultivated land not being considered particularly opulent; indeed, my genial host, after the requisite amount of hesitation exacted by modesty and good 2nd Day of September, 1892, genial host, after the requisite amount of taste, informed me that he possessed 250,000 acres. And yet private expenditure is as nothing compared to ecclesiastical, as in the old Church of Kazan, where jasper columns and an alter of solid silver weighing seven tons bear witness to Slavic reverence for spiritual things. Nor does outward respect cease there, for no pearan , however humble, passes a church, a sacred image, or an emblem without removing his hat and crossing himself thrice; while Easter Sunday a "mujik" will wait from 7 o'clock until 9 to enter a church, and when within will remain either standing or kneeling (sitting not being allowed) until 7 in the morning, when the service ends, courting further weariness all the time by prostrating himself and per-forming other Swedish movements, considered reverential. So great is the crush on these cocasions, at which the Czar as high pontiff officiates, that one or two people are killed annually. Fortunately, every true be-liever is compelled to take a bath on fets days, or, I fear, their enthusiasm would be more odorous than "savory to the Lord,"
