Church Notes.

-The subject of Rev. T. Manning's discourse in the Methodist church Sunday morning was taken from Hebraws 7: 25, "Wherefore He is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by Him, seeing He ever liveth to make intercession for them." Many instructive thoughts were thrown out. The salvation that was offered could save from sin. God had created us with the condition of a free agency, and the salvation that could keep us from sin did not preclude the possibility of temptation, but sufficient grace was given to overcome all templation...In the evening Ray. J. Macfarlare, tor of the Queen-st. Methodist church, compled the pulpit, and gave an excellent exposition of Pes. S4: 11, "For the Lord God is a sun and a shield; the Lord will give grace and glory; no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly." Uprightly implies a degree of christian perfection which all do not poschristian perfect state. God, looking sess, and is a perfect state. God, looking into our, hearts can see our intentions and

In the evening Principal Wolverton preached, taking Psalm 17: 15 as his text, "I shall be satisfied when I awake with Thy likenese." In the bibles that have daily, earnest use, the part most thumbed and worn is the Psalms of David, and the reason is that in them is the picture and expression of each and every human heart, so that in reading the Pealms the christian ance of Saturday's market represented finds himself acceping the words not as somewhat a small fall fair. Inside the David's, but his own. God has given but much of it is the effect of expectation and aspiration, very little from the fulness of present joys or possessions. But even to the soul that has given itself unto Christ's keeping there is not complete satisfaction in this world; the full meaning of being satisfied, with all its relief and content, is reserved for the time of the soul's advent in the better land. satisfaction will be "when I awake," as though this earthly existence had been a dream, a nightmare with its fears and terrors, fleeting and unreal as compared with the eternity beyond. There, in the presence of the perfect God, will be com-plete rest and unbounded satisfaction.

Lindsay's Fifteenth Annual Central Fair will have come and gone, leaving pleasant recollections for all and a record of triumphs won by the enterprising farmers of the county.

as Grocers and Provision Merchants we are breaking old records daily in the way of prices, and can confidently assert that no other house in the county offers equal values.

Just now, when nature is about to introduce a change, is a good time for meditation—in the warm summer days people do not bestow much thought upon the stern realities.

In these days of keen competition the merchant who can buy in the largest quantities secures an advantage that is denied his small competitor, and by turning over the goods rapidly he can afford to sell at very close margins.

This has been the secret of our large trade in the past. No other store in the county can offer Groceries the year round at the prices we ask for them, because no other business firm buys as largely.

We particularly invite family trade, and feel sure of being able to satisfy all comers. We pride ourselves upon the quality of our goods, and courteous and prompt service. Try us.
