A MONSTER MASKALONGE

The Largest Fish Ever Taken in These Waters Captured near Sturgeon

Pshaw! What's the use of prating about the glories of Muskoka. Who ever heard of a big fish being caught in that wild, rocky region by one of the thousands of tourists who are said to frequent the summer resorts of that district. Things are vastly different hereabouts; the beautiful waters of Victoria county abound with bass and masgalonge of large size and gamey proclivities, and when an American tourist once makes his way hither he repeats his visit annually until compelled to desist by old age But we are forgetting our story. Successful Only When the Diamond Dyes Are Used.

In thousands of happy and thrifty homes in the Dominion and in the colony of Newfoundland the work of rug and mat making is becoming very pepular. Homemade rugs and mats are more highly esteemed just now than imported goods. This is not surprising when we remember the fact that the home articles are the best wearing and prettiest. The Diamond Dyes have given a great impetus to the work of making homemade rugs and mats. In former times the troublesome part of the work was the dyeing. With the old-fashioned and poorly-prepared dyes the dyeing operation was long, and unsatisfactory. The introduction of the Diamond Dyes with their special colors for wool, and for cotton and mixed goods, has been a boon to womankind. Old and faded rags and yarn for mats and rugs can Low be dyed any beautiful and brilliant shade with the Diamond Dyes-shades that are perfectly fast to sun and soap. If you wish to be at all times successful in dying for rug and mat making, we here utter a warning note against the use of adulterated package and soapgrease ayes that only produce muddy and streaky colors that cannot possibly stand an ordinary washing. The Late John Twohey. After a useful life of 87 years John Twohey, one of the first settlers of the township of Ops, calmly passed away on Sunday evening, August 28th ult., amidst the comforts of this life, surrounded by his family and friends, resigned to the will of God, and full of faith, and hope, and love.

On taking sick he regarded messenger of death, and so it proved, for the family physician could do no more than relieve his distress. He bore his sufferings with patience and christian fortitude, sent for his confessor, and carefully prepared for death, retill he breathed his last. The funeral, which took place on Wed-

Leaving the family homestead, lot 27, con. 4, at 8 o'clock, the long cortege slowly wended its way to St. Mary's church, Lindsay, where the bells tolled its approach about 9 o'clock. The remains were received into the church by the pastor, Right Rev. Mgr. Laurent, in the usual manner, and a solemn requiem high mass was celebrated by the venerable Mgr. Farrelly, of Belleville, assisted by Rev. F. Spratt, of .Wolfe Island, as deacon, and Rev. F. Duffus, of Perth, as sub-deacon. Within the sanctuary were also Very Rev. Dean Casey, of Peterboro; Rev. The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Kennedy, Dennis Fitzpatrick, Timothy Collins, Wm. Meagher, Alex. Petrie and Patrick Hartnett. It may be here added that the celebrant, Mgr. Farrelly, had been parish priest of Lindsay for many years, and was the patron and spiritual adviser of Rev. Father Twohey, Spratt and Duffus, then studying for the priesthood. Brief Sketch of a Busy Life.

As the Twohey families, now residing in Ops, are largely and respectably connected, the following sketch may Lot be without interest:

The late John Twohey, the subject of this sketch, was the second son of Dennis Twohey, a native of the county of Cork, Ireland, who with his wife and family emigrated to Canada in the year 1827, John being then 16 years old. The other members of the family were Patrick, Daniel, Mary, Dennis, James, Julia and Catherine; of those only Dennis and James survive. After a tedious passage the family reached Brockville, then a mere hamlet, where they resided for a year before proceeding further west to Little York, (now Toronto), where some public works were in progress. After remaining there abouts two years Mr. Twohey and his sons were advised to take up land, and on learning that a new township, named Ops, had recently been surveyed and opened for settlement, they struck out in a north-easterly direction, following the roads and trails then available, and after a perilous journey via Port Perry they landed on the banks of the Scugog at Purdy's Milis, (now Lindsay). The mills had just been built and were a great boon to the scattered settlers who up to that time had to carry their grists to Peterboro and back again, following "the blaze" through the woods. Besides the mills there were only a few log huts in the village, the one occupied by Mr. Culbert, the postmaster, being the best. The Twoheys settled on lots 18 and 19, con. 4, west of the village, in 1830, end in the following year John select-ed lot 27, con. 4, as his choice, and immediately began to chop and clear. In a few years afterwards he was married to Ellen Murphy, daughter of John Murphy, and step-sister of Edward and James Murphy. From this happy the million dollar scheme of Dr. Potts. died since. Two of the family entered religious orders, namely, the third son, Patrick, for several years parish priest of Westport, in Kingston diocese, and Hannah, whose name in religion is Sister Eucharia, now the Rev. Mother in the Leretto Convent, Hamilton. With regard to social qualities John Twohey had few equals. He was a practical christian, ever ready to respond to the call of duty, always retaining the respect and good-will of his neighbors, irrespective of creed. He a natural joker. The order of the day was then proceeded with, and the burning topic of the plause as the burly form of Dr. Potts form. "The action of this Conference," said Dr. Potts, in opening, "is one that is likely to be historic. Never before has Methodism been confronted with the responsibility involved in the acceptance of the resolution now submitted. The action of to-day will affect the Methodism of the twentieth century and the efficiency of our church in a vast number of directions." Dr. Potts continued in a similar strain at considerable length, his voice increasing in resonance and volume as Virtues of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal he proceeded. Several things were necessary if the scheme were to be a success. Sentiment for one thing was necessary "We are sons of noble sires. The time is come for us to follow in their footsteps." (Great applause.) Another necessary care to be taken was that the scheme should strict business principles. And, thirdly, from start to finish it should pose as a great religious movement. Dr. Potts next dealt with the practical aspect of the question. He admitted that it was a great undertaking, so great that it staggered the faith of some. But it was impossible pointing out that individual effort was sure to follow if they rejected it, and that great and general irritation would thus inevitably follow. Dr. Potts declared his belief that the great bulk of the work might be finished by June next. Dr. Inch now appeared as the seconder | larger appreciation of its capabilities than of the motion of Dr. Potts. Mr. Rogerson of Newfoundland also expressed his emphatic approval of the movement. It would be an honor for every Methodist to be identified with it. Newfoundland would co-operate heartily. Mr. Gibson of Ingersoll treated the raising of the money in a merry vein. He endorsed Dr. Potts' remarks on the sentimental view of the case with an illustration of a young man on his way to propose. "Observe the polish of his boots," said Mr. Gibson. "Without sentiment you might look in vain for it. It would not be there. Dr. Courtice of the Christian Guardian warned them that over-confidence and contagious enthusiasm was the great danger that beset them. If there were unanswerable arguments against the scheme let them be enunciated. The Methodists, he thought, were neither too few nor too poor. Their chief weakness lay in the fact that they were a congregational rather than a connexional body. They lacked great leaders. Dr. Courtice also discussed the various uses to which it had been proposed to put the money when once raised. He concluded with an earnest exhortation to the church to look forward

Rev. John Lanceley followed. He thought they ought to raise two millions stead of one. He thought the fund ought to be devoted to the paying off of church debts. It was a new issue. The discussion here showed a tendency to ramble off on to general subjects, but it was brought home forcibly by Dr. Sutherland. "I don't care a brass continental," said the irate Doctor, "what the world owes to Methodism, but what I am concerned with is the duty that Methodism owes to the God of her salvation. We may talk like this till the end of the week and be no better off. I have looked on in positive misery while the enthusiasm of this meeting has been allowed to evaporate. We ought to do this thing; we can do it; so in the name of commonsense let's get at it."

Dr. Sutherland suggested a committee of nearly one hundred names to take the matter in hand and report back to the conference. A general desire, however, to hear from some of the laymen present being expressed, Messrs. Cox, Nixon, Bond, Brown and Gurney spoke briefly in favor of the proposal. Finally a committee of 20 was appointed as follows: Ministers-Messrs. Potts, Sutherland, Ryckman, Rigsby, Williams, Joliffe, Bond, Brethour, Gates, Bettes. Laymen-Messrs. Cox. Sevell, MacLarep. Bishop, Aiken, Torrance, Beer, Ferguson, Dement.

After some minor business, the conference adjourned until 2 p.m. to-day.

MR. BLAIR'S RETURN.

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—Being upon a holiday trip with his family Mr. Blair avoided official engagements in Great Britain, but notwithstanding this he met a number of representative public men, all of whom evidenced a keen interest in everything Canadian. In conversation yesterday the Minister of Railways said that nothing impressed him more while away than the appreciation of the colonies, and Canada in particular, in the estimation of the British people. When he was in England six years ago public interest appeared to be divided between South Africa and Australia and comparatively little attention was paid to Canada. Upon revisiting the mother country this year he found this condition reversed.
