LINDSAY'S OPPORTUNITY. The prosperity of any locality, city or town, depends largely upon the natural advantages possessed by such locality.

Col. Sam Hughes is probably now over 50 years of age. He has spent his lifetime industriously and diligently toiling his own horn. Of late he seems to have gone completely off or that line, and perhaps the climax which he has reached by letters which he has sent to the daily press advertising his anxiety to lead an army to the Transvaal and asking for volunteers.

Let us point out a few of the more important business chances where capital could be safely invested with a certainty of quick and profitable returns.

The Kawartha Lakes. Now, that the Grand Trunk and Lake Ontario & Bay of Quinte Nav. Co. are turning their attention to the beauties of our inland lakes and rivers, with a view of placing large numbers of tourists in this locality, much depends upon the action of the business men of Lindsay as to whether we will get the share of such trade as our natural position entitles us to.

A Furniture Factory. Never in the history of the trade has there been such a demand as there is to-day for kinds of furniture. The European demand is simply unlimited.

an investment would be both sure and profitable. A canoe and Yacht Factory. There is admittedly a grand opening for an enterprise of this kind. Lindsay canoes achieved quite a reputation some years ago, and with the opening up of a large tourist trade there would be a brisk demand for canoes and yachts.

After all, is there any weight in a threat of the Fire Underwriters to raise the insurance rates? In the first place, the fire losses in Lindsay of late years will not warrant any such action, and in the second place, if they presumed to take that stand our citizens would not be helpless—there are many good companies not connected with the combine, such as the Anglo-American, Equity, Waterloo, Mutual, Gore District, Commercial, London Mutual, Berlin Mutual, Millers & Manufacturers, and others we cannot at the moment recall.

East Buffalo Cattle Market. There were only two loads on sale, and with a fair demand, the position of the market was unchanged.

writers have continued to press for an efficient brigade, a paid captain, three men sleeping in the fire hall, a second waterman across the river at Bond-st., and several other minor requests. No attempt has since been made to reorganize the department or carry out any of the above requests.
