BOARD OF EDUCATION A QUORUM OF MEMBERS MET

LAST TUESDAY EVENING. The First Regular Meeting in three of School Discipline.

The members of the board of education as yet barely realize that the long vacation is over, hence it has been impossible to get a full meeting of the board since school resumed. Tuesday evening six members got together, and after [waiting for a seventh until 8.30, were about to adjourn for the third time when luckily Dr. Jeffers made his appearance, allowing business to be taken up. The members present were: Chairman J. R. McNellie, and Messrs. J. Kennedy, R. Kennedy, R. J. McLaughlin, J. Deacon, Dr. Lynch, D. R. Anderson and Dr. Jeffers. The minutes of the last regular and special meetings were read and on motion were confirmed.

junior and primary work. Col. DEACON suggested that the case of the boy Sharpe be referred to the board's solicitor, but Mr. John Kennedy objected on the score that it would be simply throwing away $10 or $15. The principal of the school or one of the trustees should lodge a complaint and have Chief Bell look after the boy.

Col. Deacon briefly outlined the facts of the case. The boy had been accused of copying by his teacher, Miss Fanning, but strenuously denied the charge, and had left the school in anger. His father returned with him, but the teacher had refused to readmit him, and as a result the boy had been deprived of schooling for some four months and was exposed to the risk of incurring idle habits. He (Daacon) had spoken to the parents, and they were fully convinced as to the boy's truthfulness when he declared that he had been wrongfully accused of copying.

On motion Headmaster Broderick was heard. He did not think it would be a good precedent to give a boy power to say, when he got into trouble with the teacher of one room, "Well, I will go to another room." The boy was not under suspension for copying, although there was proof that he had done sc-but because he had left school without permission.

Mr. R. KENNEDY inquired why the boy had not been admitted and punished when brought back by his father.

Chairman McNEILLIE said he regretted very much that Col. Deacon had introduced such a resolution-he did not think one could possibly be framed that was calculated to be more subsersive of the discipline of the schools. Mr. Broderick had stated the facts of the case, and the teacher's authority should be upheldthere must be regulations in the school. Mr. Anderson-"I am willing to have

Mr. R. KENNEDY suggested that th principal, the teacher and the boy's parents appear before the board so that the trouble might be thoroughly sifted. If the boy had been wrongfully accused he would naturally resent it if he had any spirit at all, and a chance should be given him.

Mr. Anderson did not think the case should be made so much cf. The laws of the schoolroom must be observed as well as the laws of the state.

Inspector KNIGHT said the boy was practically suspended. The law read that in such cases the parents should appeal to gated before the board.

Mr. JOHN KENNEDY counselled a strict upholding of the discipline of the schools -it was a very important matter.

The board then adjourned.

New York, Oct. 6.-Mr. Isaac N. Ford cables from London to The Tribune: Sir John Tenniel hits off the chief topic of the week in a cartoon for Punch. The voluntary school system is personified as poor, neglected Smike with a Cardinal a Church vicar and | The western leader will leave to-mora Wesleyan preacher at the door quarrelling over his fate, while Mrs. Nickleby Balfour rattles on to John Bull without saying anything more definite than "If it could be settled in friendly manner and some fair arrangement was come to, I do think it might be very satisfactory and pleasant to all parties." That is a pictorial presentment of what is rapidly becoming a burning question in England. Great momentum has been imparted to the discussion of the question of State aid for voluntary or sectarian schools by the appearance of Cardinal Vaughan's leter in The Times. He has proposed a basis of common action on the part of the Churchmen, Roman Catholics and Wesleyans interested in preserving these schools. He holds that any school offering efficient facilities for elemental education ought to be maintained at the expense of the State. His proposal is not definite, but apparently he favors assistance in the form of a fixed sum for every pupil trained in religious schools. The Archbishop of Canterbury has called a private conference of Churchmen identified with voluntary schools; It will meet next week, and discuss the Scores of letters have appeared in The Times on this question from all sources. One of the most curious facts brought out is by Dr. Aubre, who shows that Mr. Gladstone, twenty-five years ago, forecast the present controversy and favored education entirely secular in public hours, with the largest facilities for religious teaching outside those hours, but was compelled by the non-conformist agitation to alter his policy. The Rev. Jospeh Parker has made an adroit reply to the Cardinal's letter, asserting that the only way out of the difficulty in ratesupported schools is to withdraw religion from the control of the State. If we cannot agree upon a common religion, he asks, how can we agree to levy a common rate in support of any and every kind of religious teaching? The Congregational Union at Brighton has taken a similar view, and recommends the formation of a national committee to resist any further endowment of sectarian schools. London Non-Conformist and other religious bodies have declared their hostility to State aid for voluntary schools, and have demanded the extension of board

This controversy has grown out of the dual system created by Mr. Forster's Education Act. Board schools were organized with ample sources of financial supply in local taxation; voluntary schools were allowed to draw an inadequate degree of support from the State if subjected to the inspection of the local board and operated under the conscience clause. The board chools, with increasing rates, have flourished, while the voluntary schools have cost ten shillings less per pupil and have barely held their own. fact, they have often declined, and sometimes been closed altogether. the Collegiate re-opened on Sapt. 6th with trivial causes; he would rather have his Some local boards have gone out of Mr. Acland, while Minister of Education, enforced the sanitary rules board schools could be opened in their of Church, Wesleyan and Roman Catholic schools strongly opposed the

a new Act of Parliament Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour have apparently warned the leaders of the Ministry to act unless they can agree in advance among themselves on what they want. Probably the Ministry would prefer to have these rivals continue to disagree, for that would justify the Government's inaction. The largest majority in Parliament would be unsafe if this question of paying for the support of sectarian schools outright from the State Treasury or by local rates were brought forward, especially when neither Roman Catholics nor Churchmen are willing to surrender control of them to the district

BUSY TIMES IN BRITAIN. Every Branch of Trade Shows Unwented

Activity-Assurance of Budget Surplus, London, Oct. 6.-Englishmen are never willing to admit that times are good until the revenue returns prove it. They now have the final authority for accepting without reserve all rumors of their prosperity. There are increases in the customs and excise receipts which offer assurance of a large surplus for the next budget. Trade is improving in every direction, especially with America, Australia, Argentina and South Africa. Treasury reports, board of trade returns, railway traffic, stock exchange operations, all tell the same story of restored confidence and unwonted business activity. The ship-building trade on the Clyde and at Newcastle has improved greatly during the last month, with orders from several lines for new steamships and contracts for foreign naval work. The shipments of coal from Scotland and Wales are also increasing largely. The cotton and woollen trades were seldom in better condition, with the demand exceeding the supply, and the price rising. The consumption of cotton is growing steadily with improved trade.

San Francisco, Oct. 2.-Advices from Tokio, dated Sept. 17, received by the steamer City of Pekin, state that another anti-Christian outrage is reported in China. Owing to the tumuit the minister had to discontinue service, after which the mob proceeded to destroy the furniture.

Premier Turner of British Columbia Speaks of the Attempt to Grab Canadian Territory Adjoining Alaska -The New Provincial Loan Floated in London.

Hon. Mr. Turner is of the opinion that steps should be taken at once by the Dominion Government to ascertain the proper boundary between Columbia and Alaska, for if something is not done in the near future this country runs a great risk of losing a heavy block of territory, that was stipulated as being part of British North America at the time of the treaty between Great Britain and Russia in 1825. As it now stands, the British Columbia Premiss declares, the Americans have issued maps in which this territory, which in reality belongs to Canada, is represented as forming a part of the dirtrict of Alaska, and even some of our own maps have taken it for granted that the Ameriacn claim is a valid one. and the disputed territory is placed in Alaska. The Premier adds that there are a great many people now living in British Columbia who could give most valuable information on the boundary question, and there would be very little difficulty in making clear the weakness of the American claim. Hon. Mr. Turner had the good fortune to pass an hour with Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, and the latter is represented as being most desirous that the Canadian Government would make a move in the matter. "Of course," said Mr. Turner, the Colonial Secretary could not treat with me, but he is extremely interested in the case all the same." "What are your impressions of the Unionist leader," asked the correspon-"He is a very able man," replied Hon. Mr. Turner, "and I think he is deter-

The Premier of British Columbia was in England in connection with the £420,000 loan, and although he was sick two months and could not get about, he is very well pleased with the result. The loan in question, which was for 50 years, was taken at 95, the rate of interest being 3 per cent, and although the public subscribed for the greater part of the sum required, parties in British Columbia formented opposition to the deal.

"Upon what grounds did they attemp to defeat the loan ?" "They pretended that British Columbia was already too deeply in debt and that the present ruling power could not be relied upon. In fact, they inginuate ed that we were boodlers. Had this opposition not developed itself the loan could have been placed at 96, instead of 95, but this is a splendid success when we remember that in 1836 our 3 | bribery in the last election will be proper cents sold at 86. Our opponent even went so far as to go on the Stock Exchange and offer British Columbia bonds at a lower rate than they were selling at when I arrived on the other credit of the province," Hon. Mr. Turner gets his money for a little morthen 3 1-4 per cent., which the Premier looks upon as a very low rate for British Columbia, which paid from 4 1-2 to 6 per cont. for five years. The Premier is also delighted at the interest now being awakened in financ'al centres over British Columbia mines. A syndicate has been formed childs' and Baron Hirsch, to develop the mining industries of the coast pro vince. The sum of $500,000 has already

The report as prepared by Chipman and Demartigny is now being discussed. The defence in the Demers murder case produced some further sensational evidence to-day, putting a merchant, who lives near the Demers house, in the witness box, who swore that on the day of the murder a strange man entered his yard. He had blood on his clothes and acted in a very strange manner. The object of the defence is to convey the impression that the woman was murdered by unknown persons.

Without health nothing really matters very much. A hacking cough takes all the beauty out of a landscape or a sunset. The biggest bank account in the world won't pay a man for his health, but a very small amount of money will make him healthy and keep him healthy.
