LINDSAY, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1894

THE NEW OPPOSITION

LEADER.

Mr. Marter has been elected by the opposition as their leader in the place of Mr. Meredith, who on the same day was sworn in as chief justice of the court of common pleas. Mr. Meredith thus bids farewell to public life and we join, in all that has been said regarding his fitness for the high and honorable position which he has assumed. No one thinks otherwise than the opposition is now weaker than ever, but from a tory standpoint perhaps the change is thought to be for the better. Mr. Marter may be more pliable. His political conscience may be more elastic, and it is thought by some that his policy will be, "the end justifies the means." This policy resulted in the "big push Wilkinson" attempt to bribe parliament, which so signally failed, and in the failure of which Mr. Meredith, when it was discovered, gave his aid. There are tories who think, "beat the grits any way," is a principle which condones the worst kind of political wrong-doing, and it is this idea which encourages some of the opposition to think that the new leadership is better than the old. Mr. Marter entered parliament in 1888 as member for Muskoka, and held that constituency until the recent elections, when he successfully contested North Toronto against Mr. Joseph Tait. He is a man much past middle life, and as the Empire says, though not an orator, still is an earnest and impressive speaker. What we believe he lacks is that parliamentary skill and experience in the practice and procedure of the house which will place him at a marked disadvantage with such men as compose the government, and will make the contrast still greater between him and the late leader.

ENGLISH AND CANADIAN FARMERS.

If there be one class more than another, decidedly aroused against protection and the N. P., that class is the farming community. This is a fact now so evident that the tory press, while not admitting it, no longer deny it. The liberal party must be gratified to find that at last the tide is turning-that public opinion becomes daily more fixed towards a change, and regards the screechings and entreaties of the tory press with as little respect as Mr. Curran did Mr. Hughes, when the latter called upon him, during his recent visit to Lindsay, Public opinion has set, and as it moves on in its majesty and its might, to check it now is like attempting to stop a hurricane with a house of

We do not say that the liberal party of itself has wrought this remarkable change in public sentiment, but we can most justly claim that the views now entertained by the patrons, the McCarthyites, and the independants are the same identical views, at least upon the trade question, advocated, advanced and battled for by the liberal party, in season and out of season, for many years past. We admit that Mr. McCarthy has induced many a conservative to pause and think. We can imagine trade question. Their press deserves the the astonished listener saying to himself fate meeted out to those who are lacking "why this song of McCarthy's is the old, in earnestness. The N. P. bubble has old song of the liberal party, there must burst, and Mr. Foster can no longer put firmer, with sales of be something init." Likewise, the patrons "a rind on a grindstone and sell it as are now telling the tale of tariff injustice, cheese." told many times and ofc, by the liberal speakers. The result is by different methods the great desideratum-commercial freedom-is at last to be attained. Then Canada will bound into a condition of prosperty, the like of which she never knew before "A government," said Mr. McCarthy at Walkerton, "could not make a people rich by act of parliament but it could make them poor " This is what the market, and it will only cost le postage to

it. So every argument, every means foul and fair is now and will be employed to arrest the positively certain progress of events. The Trent Valley Canal, doled out as a huge bribe, now as before, will be but a chip in porridge to retard the impending defeat which the government seeks to escape by means of public bribes of that kiud. farmers have, 9 out of 10, turned the by picturing the English farmer as dragged forthcoming election for the house of to ruin by the free trade tariff of Great Britain. It does not occur to the Empire that to discover now, after half a century Jessie Keith, the fourteen year old girl, in of free trade beneficence, that the British - 700,435 tariff is to blame for the farmer's condition is rather a sort of posthumous dis-"Year after year the Canada Life keeps covery. Nor does it appear to appreciate there is a suspicion growing that he is on the even tenor of its way, enlarging the that the material conditions of the two Ripper." The evidence against the accused circle of its patrons, dispensing its inestimable benefits and rearing its great structure cheese. Canada produces more than it corner stones on which the Canada Life has consumes. England produces less than it consumes. This is just wherein the difference lies, and well the Empire knows it. Farmers in England, no doubt, would been the largest in the history of the like protection, for then the masses would company. During September nearly three

Thus it will be seen that in England every man of note is mindful of the masses, the used by the Warder, with its usual viruvery opposite to many men in Canada who lence, to make an indecent attack on the are more mindful of the classes. Very nice for Spratt & Killen, but not so nice for Spratt & Killen, but not so nice for Spratt & Warder's everlasting the man who eats pease.

So, protection Spratt & Killen just strike the difference is said, to look after the township of Verubetween the English and Canadian farmer. | lam, but he either forgot it, neglected We sent out of the country last year to of agricultural products; that is, after satisfying ourselves, we had $16,000,000 on between a certain doctor and three or worth to send to England. In the name thus help the farmer, when he exports not over unless he wishes it. We don't mind

But the Empire in its extremity misstates the facts regarding the English farmer. The British tariff is not the cause of agricultural depression in the old land The English farmers don't say it is. The English press does'nt say it is. Mr. Courtney, M. P., speaking on the 2nd inst., said that the state of depression of which the farmers complained, was due to the depression of gold. The Times attributes the losses to the effects of drought, which increased the area devoted to hay, and induced a marked diminution in cattle and sheep. The fact that the area under wheat has increased | $21 per head; 11 cattle, 1 060 lbs average, $32 each by 28,000 acres in England alone does not suggest that the British farmer is frightened. The Times sums up the result as follows :- "Speaking generally, we may say that, if we can no longer hope for a really good year, we may reasonably expect that it will turn out a good deal better than many others which our farmers and their landlords have somehow managed to battle through together." Everything indicates beyond question that the tory press see the trend of public opinion. It is too late now to harp back and go in for free trade, as once the tory party were prepared to do. In 1878 the tory party were ready to flop either way, according as Mr. Mackenzie was for or against free trade. The proof of this comes from the lips of Mr. McCarthy,

"No doubt in the world the conservative policy, we would have been free traders. I am he was swept out of power and had only a corporals guard to support him when the house
