HOW HAWKINS WAS REGULATED.

Notwithstanding all protests and abuse cattle were impounded and people fined...

Ever since Mr. Hawkins had begun his crusade against the live stock nuisance...

The old man was not easily terrified. When he found the first notice...

"What makes you think so?" asked his wife. "Well, it's easier going in the road after dark than climbing fences across country..."

"All right," she answered. "But what on earth he wants melted taller is beyond me..."

"All right," she answered. "But what on earth he wants melted taller is beyond me..."

"All right," she answered. "But what on earth he wants melted taller is beyond me..."

In the shed were two big rolls of barbed wire, to be used in the autumn for new fences...

"Mandy," said he, sticking his head into the kitchen, "I guess you'll have to let me have that factory cotton you bought to-day..."

"Yes," she answered, "bout half a keg. It's standing in the corner of the shed, behind the soap-barrel..."

"Well, I never," exclaimed the good woman, looking after him through the vines that trailed over the kitchen window...

"Can't I help you in any way?" asked his wife, as he returned to the kitchen. "I dunno but what you kin; but first get me the biggest needle you got..."

While his wife was doing this, Silas cut a grain bag half in two, and filled the lower half nearly two-thirds full of beans...

"Don't you want a thimble?" asked his wife. "Lord, no; I never could use a thimble. When me ole thumb-nail won't do the business, I jest use the chair-bottom, or table, or anything that's handy..."

"I guess I've mistook sunthin', for I'm prickin' the stuff out of my thumbs, and sin't doin' nothin', either. You let me do that and you finish this. Sew it tighter 'n' blazes, so there won't be no givin' way..."

"Here's your what-yo-may call it," said his wife, handing over the bean-sack. "Oh, yes; that buster: I mustn't forget that. They's a powerful lot of salvation in one of them things. They don't look like it, but they is..."

It was a beautiful, still night. A few high cloud-masses floated in the clear, dark-blue spaces, silvered and softened by a moon not yet in full circle...

Shortly after midnight old man Hawkins drank a glass of buttermilk, and taking "buster" and the shotgun, started out-doors, telling his wife to lock up everything and put out the light...

The door closed. She heard him walk past the window, and then everything was quiet. She put out the light, and her host's station in the parlor bedroom with the big musket...

The result of unpleasant expectation was not enough to overcome the combined influences of the hour and the stillness of the night. Her head nodded. Suddenly she recovered herself with a start...

It was a man, and the grotesque disguise of white that he wore about his head told plainly enough what he was and on what business he had come...

One went along up the road, and the rest entered the yard. They were all armed with whips. Three walked slowly around to the back of the house, taking the accustomed path...

What their next move would have been cannot be known, for at that instant the whole posse was startled by the loud bang of a gun close behind them...

"That ain't goin' to kill nobody, but I guess it'll warm 'em up some," said he, grimly. Both on 'em scatters like fun, and what they won't hit he's to be mighty far off or else back on 'em...

"Den ye," he shouted, "tain't only cows and horses I'm 'posed to havin' at large, but calves and hogs as well. Whee, whee..."

Under the unusual strain the top board of the fence gave way, and the regulators tumbled helter-skelter upon the loose coils of barbed wire...

ALTHOUGH THAT KILLED A MAN!

HE thought that he could trifle with disease. He was run down in health, felt tired and worn out, complained of dizziness, biliousness, backache and headaches...

is the only standard remedy in the world for kidney and all complaints. It is the only remedy which physicians universally prescribe...

WHAT DOES IT ALL MEAN?

Hullfax Naval Circles are talking of important changes in regard to the British North American Squadron.

Hullfax, N. S., Oct. 24.—A report is current in inside naval circles here that Great Britain has decided on a measure, so far as the defence of British North America is concerned...

The recent additions to the British ships in American waters are all greatly strengthened the squadron, and it is quite certain that by next summer Great Britain will have on this side of the ocean the most powerful fleet she has ever despatched across the Atlantic...

One of the Death-Dealers of H. M. S. Talbot Lost in the Harbor at Hullfax.

Hullfax, N.S., Oct. 26.—The day before the departure of the cruiser Talbot for Bermuda last week, one of her fine Maxim guns was lost overboard in a strange manner, and now lies at the bottom of the harbor...

A steam launch had taken one of the Maxims to sea for practice. On her return, while the gun was being hoisted, she was struck by a wave, and the gun was hurled into the water...

San Francisco, Oct. 25.—Reports from Formosa, received by the Chinese papers, state that the island is being laid waste by the Japanese. A private letter from Formosa to the China Mail, published at Hong Kong, says: "All the villages in the big town of Taw Kao, are entirely destroyed..."

A TERRIFIC STORM.

St. John Harbor Crowded With Vessels Which Had to Put in for Shelter—Some Rough Experiences.

St. John, N.B., Oct. 25.—This city experienced the worst wind and rain storm for years on Saturday. Starting before daylight Thursday morning, it continued until early this morning with great severity...

"Love has a long way to go to reach the heart of the modern man. When he looks for a wife, he expects a good deal. Probably he expects more than he deserves. He wants good looks, good sense, good nature, good health. They usually go together. It is an observing man who is a woman who is physically weak and nervous and incapable, is likely to be ill-matured too. The sweetest temper is ruined by continual sickness..."

A woman whose nerves are constantly racked and dragged by debilitating drains, and inflamed by the excitement of a companion or happy wife, and she is totally unfitted to be a mother. These troubles prevail almost universally among women largely because of carelessness and neglect. There is no real need of them. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive specific for the weaknesses and diseases of the feminine organism. It cures them radically and completely. It heals, strengthens and purifies. It is the only scientific remedy devised for this special purpose by an educated, skilled physician. It is the only medicine that makes motherhood easy and absolutely safe.
