OUR IMPROVEMENTS.
Since assuming control of THE POST we have been engaged in making extensive improvements and alterations in the premises so long occupied by the paper. We feel that the improvements are about completed, and we justly flatter ourselves that we now have a printing office that cannot be equalled for equipment, arrangement and premises outside of Toronto. THE POST has for years enjoyed the reputation of doing the best job work of any printing office in the Midland counties, and with the new type and material we have already added and what we purpose adding we hope to always maintain the lead in this particular, as well as furnishing the most newy country journal in the province. Already we have added many new names to our subscription list and have the promise of many more. We feel proud that our enterprise is being appreciated, and we can promise our subscribers that the paper will be made to maintain the lead. We purpose having our premises open and our press in operation next Thursday evening, and we invite our friends and the public to call and inspect our office.

THE PERJURY CASES.
It is a matter of extreme regret that the Warder rejoices at the escape of some of the men who took the false declarations in connection with the recent North Victoria voter's lists. This rejoicing at miscarriage of justice cannot meet with approval by the law-abiding and moral living people of the county. The Warder does not deny the falsity of the several declarations. Indeed, no one can, but it seeks to palliate and excuse the crime because, forthwith, on the reform side false declarations also were made, and THE POST boldly asserts that if similar criminal goings-on in the ranks of the reform party the offenders should and must be brought to justice. THE POST will never condone perjury or other criminal misconduct because the offender is a reformer and performed this immoral act in the interests of the reform party, and once the law is invoked THE POST would stamp out and condemn any approaches by its party friends (if they, so lost to moral shame, would attempt the like) made to the grand jury in behalf of accused parties. The Warder suggests that though the magistrate, the witnesses, the constable, etc., were friendly to the prosecution, yet the accused have escaped. Assuming this friendship for a moment, the fact declares the strict justice and integrity of the alleged friends, rather than that they would permit themselves to be influenced beyond their sense of duty. The statement, however, signifies too clearly what the Warder would expect its party friends to do under similar circumstances, and at this again must the moral sense of the community be shocked. The teaching appears to be that crime in a political friend must not be punished but must be excused, but the Warder is in error (if friendship has anything to do with it, which we deny) in regarding the magistrate as friendly to the prosecution; reformers generally have a very different opinion on this point.

The conduct of the grand jury must be universally condemned. They were plainly directed by Judge Falconbridge that the intent with which the declarations were taken were not for them to consider; yet they, in the most barefaced manner, disobeyed his instructions. One of the accused, to place a name on the voter's list, boldly declared to his own personal knowledge by declaration, (equivalent to an oath), that the person so named was twenty-one years of age. The mother of the young man, and the young man himself, told the grand jury under oath that he was not twenty-one years of age; yet the grand jury threw out the bill. This is a simple case. But that there was a preconcerted determination on the part of the grand jury to make short work of the perjury cases is indicated by a statement of the foreman, who before one of the cases was submitted made the remark that "they would make short work of them," and they did. But it rests with every member of the grand jury now to reconcile their proceedings with the oath they took. If more was wanted it is to be found in the refusal of the foreman to deliver up the remaining indictments when the crown counsel intimated their intention of withdrawing them. In open court, however, Judge Falconbridge taught the foreman what his duty was, and it is to be hoped that never again shall be exhibited by a grand jury in the county of Victoria such a shameful disregard of sworn duty. If what came through the door of the grand jury room be true, then a motion was moved and seconded, before a witness was examined, to throw out the false declaration cases. This motion, it is said, was put and would have carried but for the responsive shock of conscience it caused to others of the grand jury. The conservative organ and that party may think the escape an event for congratulation and happy hand-shaking, but we warn the public of Victoria that this rejoicing is taken as a condonation of crime. The sight of this sort of thing deadens the moral sense, and in proportion as it is indulged will indifference to crime grow and prevail. A stone's throw from the grand jury room where this violent twisting of sworn duty was being perpetrated were the evangelists, Messrs. Crossley and Hunter, working their work of salvation. Their work here is evidently far from being complete.

RE-ENGAGED.—Mr. R. J. Gaughan, principal of the separate school, has been re-engaged as an increased salary. Mr. Gaughan is completing his second year here and his second as a teacher. At the mid-summer examinations four out of five of his pupils passed; one out of two took third-class certificates. Miss Ida Lynch, in an ungraded school of one hundred names on the register, with only one teacher, we think this is a good showing.

DUNSFORD.
[Correspondence of The Post.]
OBITUARY.—About three weeks ago Mrs. Joseph Taylor (formerly Miss Kate Brown), was suddenly afflicted with biliousness which developed into Bright's disease which terminated her life on the morning of Saturday the 11th inst. On Sunday her remains were followed by a large cortege of sympathizing friends to St. John's church, Dunsford, where the funeral was conducted by Rev. Mr. (Catholics) and she was laid to rest beside her husband in the St. John's cemetery. Her husband, who is still living, is a very old man, but he is still very active in his old age.

TERMS, $1.00 PER YEAR.
PAYABLE IN ADVANCE.

SALE.—Squire Cameron's sale was a great success. His ram lambs went at $30 and downwards. The squire has his best stock yet, and will no doubt replenish with much better stock at a low price. There were going out fairly well. Quite a few talk as if horses could hardly be given away, but when one S— wants to buy a heavy chunk of a horse, fit for working, he will not let even fly; he has to go far down into his pocket to buy it. A two-year-old filly was sold for $84; a fine year-old for $75. It pays to have a prize farm.

MINDEN.
[Correspondence of The Post.]
A PROVERB STAND.—The fish and game commission is evidently determined to put a stop to unlawful hunting of any kind of game. On Saturday last Mr. Gerrie, a clerk in the employ of H. B. & Co., was seen to be out on a hunt. The evidence was of a lengthy character, and the commission, covering the methods adopted by certain men to evade the law and escape the penalty, Mr. Gerrie, Q. C., was sent to the penitentiary, to prosecute, Gerrie was fined $30 and costs, the evidence being, in the opinion of the magistrate, quite sufficient to bring the case within the law. It is to be regretted, however, that a man like Gerrie, who evidently knew more about the law than he wished to know, was not only escaped by his case having been dismissed. The local warden, Mr. Turnbull, evidently is determined to do his duty, and keep a sharp lookout upon all hunters coming into the county, that they do not evade the law.

MARA.
[Correspondence of The Post.]
OBITUARY.—Mr. Oliver Thompson of Athol died on the 6th inst. He had been ill for a long time. Mrs. Thompson was one of the residents of Mara, widely known and respected; her hospitable nature was well known to the friends of the post, and she was ever the friend of the poor, and she was deeply beloved by all. Her sister, Mrs. H. O. O'Brien, of Winnipeg, has been a visitor at Athol since her arrival. There were several friends and relatives from Athol present at the funeral on the 6th inst., amongst which were H. H. Thompson, James Thompson, Mr. J. P. Fair Valley, Mrs. F. Morrison, Fair Valley, and other friends of the family. This season seems fruitful in deaths.

IMPROVING SCIENTIFICALLY.—He expects to be able to use his eyes in a few weeks.

GRAIN BUSINESS.
Mara ought to be well supplied with grain markets and grain buyers. Messrs. G. H. & Co., of Mara, who are represented at the grain market by Mr. J. P. Fair Valley, Mr. F. Morrison, Fair Valley, and other friends of the family. This season seems fruitful in deaths.

SUNDERLAND.
[Correspondence of The Post.]
SNOW.—The snow storm this week certainly came as a surprise to many of the farmers. How will we get in our turnip? is the general topic among the surprised ones.

THANKSGIVING.
—Thanksgiving day passed off quietly. So far as we can learn the day was free from accidents to both rabbits and men.

PERSONAL.
—Mr. Howard Parkin of Lindsay was the guest of Rev. Mr. Dewey. Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert of Toronto are at Mr. U. S. Yerex's. Uncle James returned from Mariposa "alone" once more.

CONCERT.
—The event of the season was the concert given by the choir of the Methodist church, assisted by talent from Lindsay and Toronto. The singing of the anthems and hymns by the choir, assisted by the Walters family of Mara, and Miss Lizette Brethour at the organ; Master Frank Richardson, violin; M. and B. Tucker, cornet; Tipp, trombone; Richardson, bass viol—displayed most able and careful training, and happy selections, which is characteristic of the choir under the leadership of Rev. Mr. Dewey. The harmony, power and blending of voices, the male quartette, consisting of Messrs. Yerex, Valentine, St. John and Dewey, would be hard to beat. Rev. Mr. Dewey's essay on "Thanksgiving," was suggestive and inspiring. Miss Lizette Brethour as an amateur elocutionist compares favorably with professionals. Mr. Dewey's address on "Out on the deep," and Mr. Dewey's "The brave old guard," sustained their past records as soloists. The Walters family of Lindsay—well, their next appearance in Sunderland will mean a full house. To some of us we had heard of "drifting with the tide," we never heard what music meant until we heard Miss Walters' rich soprano voice in the solo, joined by Miss Walters' tenor, Miss Cora's alto, and Mr. Walters' bass. The Walters family demonstrated great compass of voice and wealth of tone in the rendition of "One sweetly solemn thought." Little Lizette Cuthbert of Toronto, who is all by storm in her recitations, club swinging and musical dumb bells. For a child of six years she is a marvel, a prodigy, in her elocutionary powers. Mr. Dewey, Dixon thoroughly sustained his high reputation as a ventriloquist and mimic. In a gentlemanly and refined manner he demonstrated the marvelous powers of the human voice, talking with a supposed man away outside of the building and bringing the man nearer and nearer until he talked with his face to face. His imitations are perfect. Altogether the concert was a grand success.

REMOVED.
—Mr. Campbell, who has been conducting business in McPherson's stand for some time, closed last week, and left on Saturday. During his short stay here he made a number of warm friends.

OBITUARY.
—Mrs. Joyce, relict of the late R. Joyce of Brock, died on the 15th inst. at the advanced age of 81 years, and was buried Wednesday. The deceased has lived in Brock for over thirty years.

BUILDING.
—Among our young workmen here none is pushing to the front more than Mr. D. Ewart, bricklayer, who has erected a number of substantial buildings in the town and also built the Mara Orange lodge and other buildings in Mara township.

PERSONAL.
—Mr. and Mrs. A. McDonald of the Brock house took in Brechin on Sunday.

CHURCH NOTES.
—Rev. Mr. Lee, the new Church of England minister here, coupled the pulpit on Monday and gave an excellent discourse.

MILLENARY.
—Miss E. J. Doyle has removed her millinery rooms to her home, where they will be found as usual prepared to furnish the latest styles.
