His left leg was cut off at the hip, and his right arm torn away. Mrs. Porter sustained serious, but not fatal, injuries.

-Count Gourko, one of the most distinguished generals of the Russo-Turkish war, died Tuesday. He was of Lithuanaian origion, and was born in 1828. He was educated in the Imperial Court of Pages. In 1846 he was created ensign of the regiment of hussars of the imperial body guard. In 1857 he was already captain, and commanded a squadron in the same regiment, and was made in 1860 adjutant to the emperor. In 1851 he received his colonel's commission. In 1866 he was appointed commander of the Fourth Hussar regiment of Marinpol. In 1867 the emperor named him majorgeneral and ordered him to be of his suite. Decays were used and five young women were terribly beaten, one becoming insensible. Two of the victims escaped from their captors, their clothes being torn off in the struggle. The whitecaps were composed of prominent people, Eleven of them were recognised and arrested. Some of them are in jail.

-The African Steamship Co.'s steamer Winnebah, which has just arrived from West Africa at Liverpool, had a most unusual experience when steaming between the latitudes of Cape Verde and St. Louis, Sanegal. For sixty miles the vessel steamed through locusts, which were so thickly packed together on the top of the water that they completely covered the surface for miles around; indeed, they appeared to be lying on the sea as far as the eye could reach. The locusts had no doubt been blown from the Morocco coast into the sea. They resembled gigantic grass-hoppers, and one which was secured was five inches in length. Of course, all of the locusts had been drowned.

All these were found dead in the hut or house of Brown, while he and the other woman's husband, who is thought to be an accomplice, were away looking, as they said, for firewood. The officers of the Deep Sea Mission ship 'Albert' held an inquest, and one of their doctors made a post-mortem examination and discovered that the deaths were due to hemlock poisoning. Information was sent to the government of the affair, and the chief of police, Col. Fawcett, and a posse of constables started for the scene to investigate. They are hale and hearty, the old gentleman at 94 years of age and the lady at 91, and neither of them uses spectacles. The old lady is a bright and shining example to the women of these degenerate days, for she lights the fire herself every morn ing, is proud of it, and thinks no one can do it as well as she can do it.

-Captain Anderson, of the Norwegian ship Emblem, at Buenos Ayres, from Chicoutimi, writes from the Argentine capital, under date of September 20, that he saw on July 21, in latitude 36 N., lougi tude 33 W., one of the boats of the White Star line steamer Naronic, which was lost at sea, was picked up. He adds that the boat was bottom up and contained nothing whatever. It was thickly covered with barnacles. There was a large hole in the bottom. The lashings of the boat appeared to have been cut in a hurry and with such force that the rail beneath where the lashings had been fastened was severed. The patent unhooking apparatus had not been used.
