However, he gave me some medicine to ease the pain I felt in my head, pasticufor a few minutes, and sometimes enabled me get a little sleep, but the awakening was always worse than before. On the last of October I went to bed as usual after taking my medicine as direct ed, and slept the whole night, but the following morning on trying to rise found myself so weak that I could not stand and could scarcely speak. My wife, surprised to see me in such a state, ran to a neighbor's and requested him to go for a doctor and the priest. The doctor arrived almost immediately, could not afford me the slightest relief. The priest then arrived, and seeing the condition I was in, told me my case was critical and to prepare for death. On the following day both the priest and doctor advised my wife to telegraph to my friends, as they considered death approaching, and two days later my two brothers arrived. The doctor then asked if I preferred that he should hold a consultation with another physician, and on my replying in the affirmative, he telegraphed to a doctor living at a distance of about fifteen miles. They both came to see me, asked some questions and retired for consultation. The result of this was that my wife was told that I could not possibly get better. Said the doctor to her, "with the greatest possible care he cannot live bis this week. a year." When my wife told me this l determined to pay the doctors and discontinue their services.
