The Discount Sale A Giant Success.

Everybody Pleased, Sales Doubled.

The people recognize a good thing, and the story is told by our counter checks. The old principle of "doing as we advertise" has again triumphed, and our announcement of last week meets with a ready and generous response from the buyers of this and neighboring counties. We are encouraged to put forth even greater efforts to make this the greatest of our successes. When any of our bargain "leaders" disappear we create new ones, and the excitement and boom is kept humming. Come along at any and all times, you will never be too late here—we will guarantee to find you a bargain—care not in what line you seek it. It's volume we want, not profit. Our immense stock must be turned over at all seasons with the hope of selling them next season, and we have adopted the proper—the only plan. Let the people have the goods when they want them at tempting prices, and they go. Keep a watch out for our special quotations—they are particularly interest you—and you may rely upon the fact that they are genuine. Read this week's paper carefully through every column, every line—it contains information everywhere regarding our sale and prices which you would be sorry to miss.

—Dr. Purlov has resigned the head mastership of the Port Hope high school, and Mr. T. A. Kirkconnel, of Kingston, has been appointed in his place at $1,100 a year.

—Foolish persons who are in the habit of pointing empty guns at other should remember that the law authorizes a fine of from $10 to $100 for this sort of foolishness.

—Dr. Clark has removed the fence from the front of his residence on Cambridge-st., and has had the grounds sodded, which adds very much to the appearance of the property.

—Mr. C. H. Sproule and party, of Canington, passed through town in the evening last on their way to Giamorgan, where they join another party, and will engage in a deer-hunting expedition.

—A mother is desirous of having her child, a boy of about two years old, adopted by some respectable family. For full particulars apply to Mrs. David Browne, District visitor in the south ward, or to Rev. C. H. Marsh.

—Col. Deacon, county police magistrate, held court in Boboysgon Tuesday last. It seems that two of the village boys had a "tiff" and indulged in Billingsgate language of the vilest description. The magistrate very properly fined both parties, and it is not likely they will again wash their dirty linen in public.

—Mr. G. H. Hopkins has been compelled to put in a drain from his residence on William-st. along Melbourne to Lindsay-st., in order to drain his cellar. The expense of such a drain would be sufficient to build a sewer capable of supplying the needs of the whole street, and if put in would enhance the value of property benefited thereby.

While residing in Ops, Mr. John Henderson, now of 633 Fort-st., east Detroit, loaned out some reading books to his friends, two of those books, namely, "Scottish Poems," printed in 1707, and "Guide to Edinburgh," he is specially anxious to recover. Any person having same or knowing of their whereabouts can leave word at this office.—33.

—The Dr. Simpson-Granham hunting party, operating on Concession, Long, Round, Black Duck, Tamarac and Wolf Lakes, Harvey, have enjoyed an exceptionally run of luck since taking the woods over two weeks ago. Up to Wednesday evening sixteen fine deer had fallen to their unerring rifles, and they hope to reach the limit allowed by law by tomorrow, Saturday.

—Messrs. R. D. Thorton, Herb. Gregory, Fred Smyth, and several others passed through town on Monday evening last. In making the trip from Fenelon Falls to Lindsay on the Nouna Roy at a late hour, the engine broke down in the river and the crew was forced by high winds far out of the channel into the weeds. Those on board passed a most uncomfortable night, and were taken off, dejected and hungry, by the Etarion next morning at 9:30.

—Mr. Beverly H. Ross, of the Niagara Falls Electric Railway, who is spending a brief holiday in town with his sister, Mrs. J. C. Harston, mourns the loss of a gold watch and a large sum of money as the result of the operations of a bold burglar on Tuesday night last. Mr. Ross had attended the Mrs. Mountford lecture in the Academy of Music, and returned to Mr. Harston's residence about 11:30, retiring soon after. Some little time later he was awakened by a peculiar noise, and he arose and procured his revolver, which he placed close at hand. He then lay quiet, he again retired and soon fell into a sound sleep from which he was once more aroused by a feeling that his watch was slipping from underneath his pillow. Jumping quickly out he humped against a man in the darkness, and at the same time seized his revolver from out of the pocket which he was using to hold it. The powerful grip of his assailant, who finally wrenched it from his grasp. Mr. Ross then called loudly for aid, when the burglar, with a muttered oath, gave him a violent shove backward over a piece of furniture and then leaped through the open window. Mr. Ross hastily picked up the revolver and fired a couple of shots after the retreating form, but without effect. Just then Mr. Harston appeared upon the scene, lamp in hand. Upon investigation it was discovered that the thief had got away with the gold watch, minus the chain, and Mr. Ross' pocket books, which were afterwards found in the yard filled of a considerable sum of money. The furniture in the room was knocked topsy-turvy, and Mr. Ross somewhat bruised and considerably flustered by the "struggle through which he had passed. No clue has as yet been obtained likely to lead to the apprehension of the bold midnight marauder.

Oysters at Terry's. A. B. Terry keeps constantly on hand very choice standard and select oysters.—31-1/2.

Academy of Music. "The third act of the play is a dramatization of Mrs. Francis Hodgson Burnett's story of "Editha's Burglar," which was in vogue about the same time with "Little Lord Fauntleroy," and has for its centre of interest a precocious and quaint little girl, as the other has a precocious and quaint little boy. The play is full of dramatic situations, with enough humorous by-play to relieve the tension, and it grows in interest from start to finish, although it is simple in its plot and in its business. In the near future the patrons of the Academy of Music will have the pleasure of witnessing a performance of this superb comedy-drama, "The Burglar."

Y. M. C. A. Notes. —Young men's bible class Monday at 8:45 p. m. —Literary and debating society Friday at 7:45 p. m. —Get your seats reserved for the Swedish Concert Co. at once. —Boys' meeting Thursday at 7:15. All boys under fifteen are invited to attend.

Mr. C. C. Conroy will give a lecture on Nov. 12th entitled "Sociology and Good Citizenship." Mr. Courtice is the newly-appointed editor of the Christian Guardian, and is a lecturer of extraordinary ability.

A lecture is to be delivered in the Presbyterian church by Rev. A. C. Courty on the 11th inst. For this meeting the Endeavor societies of the town give up their regular meetings so that all may have the opportunity of hearing Mr. Courtice, who is a Christian Endeavor champion. The subject of the lecture is "Sociology and Good Citizenship."

Local Brevities. —40c. Dress Good for 25c. at KENN & Co's. —Wonderful does not express it! That's what the people say about the Swedish Concert Co. Academy of Music, Nov. 25th.—34-1.

—There are not words enough in the English vocabulary to express the qualities of the "garment" of the Swedish Concert Co. Academy of Music, Nov. 25th.—34-1.

—No matter how great the bargain you buy, you will have returned to you in cash as well as the per cent. of the amount of your purchase by M. W. KENNEDY & Co.—34-2.

—On Tuesday evening Mrs. Mountford, the Oriental lecturer, gave one of her most interesting lectures in the Y. M. C. A. hall, entitled "The homes and haunts of Jesus," to a very large audience. The lecture was so interesting and so instructive that it has been given in Lindsay for many a day. Mrs. Mountford is a highly cultivated and educated lady, and having been brought up in Palestine is thoroughly acquainted with her subject. Her explanations of many incidents chronicled in the scriptures to the ordinary reader appear as quite improbable, are such as to convince the most skeptical of the truth of the record. The manners and customs of the country were so minutely described, and so vividly brought before the mind of the hearer by the aid of a number of ladies and gentlemen attired in the different "garments" of the Bible, that the audience was more forcibly and convincingly... On Tuesday evening she lectured on "Bedouins of the Desert." From some of the audience was not a large as on the previous evening, but the lecture was in every respect equal to the first one. Her unrivalled representation of the life of the wandering tribes of the desert was most interesting and was made realistic by the aid of her attendants, who were dressed in the costumes of those tribes. Her explanation of the character she wished to describe. Mrs. Mountford created a decided impression in Lindsay, and there can be no doubt, should she be invited to speak in other places, she will be greeted with overflowing houses. The young men of the Cambridge-st. church deserve the thanks of the people of Lindsay for securing such an excellent treat.

Progressive Life Insurance—Splendid showing of the Sun Life Assurance Company.

We clip the following satisfactory report of the Sun Life Company from the "Trade Review and Banking Journal": "During 1893, owing to the contraction of values and the lessened earning capacity of the people, some insurance companies have been compelled to make large concessions in order to retain their business. The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada was able to report a twelve months' business in most respects more satisfactory than any the company had yet had, a consummation due to the enlightened consideration of the officers, the large number of declined applications—amounting to 92,000—and covering $747,253.03—testifying to the care exercised in the selection of risks. Another great advantage gained by the company over competitors arises from a precise which the directors of the Sun Life Assurance Company have of placing "float" or contingent "debts" on those lives that are believed to be scarcely up to the average. The number of applications, however, which the company has accepted totals up to 2,213, representing $8,721,002.50, being $800,000 in advance of those in 1892, and much beyond those secured by any other life insurance company in the Dominion in any year.

The following summary of the annual report shows the notable strong financial position of the Sun Life Assurance Company, and the substantial and gratifying gains that have been made in all that helps to build up a strong assurance business:

Table with 2 columns: Description and Amount. Rows include: New life policies issued, Increase over 1892, Increase over 1891, Increase over 1890, Increase over 1889, Increase over 1888, Increase over 1887, Increase over 1886, Increase over 1885, Increase over 1884, Increase over 1883, Increase over 1882, Increase over 1881, Increase over 1880, Cash income for year ending December 31, 1893, Life assurance in force January 1, 1894, Total assets, Total liabilities, Total surplus.

This leading Canadian life insurance company has an income for every working day of the year of something more than $1,000,000 from premiums, interest and rents, after deducting all expenses, and the company is able to pay out for every $100,000 of more explicit, an income for the year of $1,240,000. About 85 per cent. of the investments are in municipal bonds and first mortgages on real estate, valued at over six millions, and the amount of real estate held as a result of foreclosure is only about 2 per cent. of the present value.

The president of this conservative yet very progressive company is Mr. R. Macaulay, and the vice-president is the Hon. A. W. Odell. At those officers, besides being able to congratulate themselves and their brother directors and others concerned on the general prosperity of the company, they are able to express a congratulatory note upon the legal decision in England which sets on one side the objections of the Sun Life Assurance Company's use of England to the Canadian Company's use of its own corporate title in the British Isles, a decision of no little importance, since the latter company is established in London.
