McClure's Magazine for November opens the promised Napoleon series with fifteen portraits of Napoleon in early manhood, most of them reproductions of 1800, most of them reproductions of 1800, most of them reproductions of 1800.

People Who Succeed. Some men have succeeded in business without advertising. Men have fallen from high buildings and escaped death, but the chances of such ventures are so much against immunity from serious injury to make the amusement popular.

Take the great firms of the world's cities and study their methods. You will find they are liberal, judicious and persistent advertisers. Take the successful men of your own city or town. Are they not those who obtain something good, and then advertise the newspaper to get the ear of the public?

Mr. Good of Carter's Liver Pills fame. Mr. Good, of Carter's Liver Pills fame, began in 1856 with a capital of $8.40. He has become enormously wealthy and credits it to printers' ink.

Not Altogther Sarcasm. We noticed an item in last week's Post which we call first place I do not think he who calls himself "Subscriber" lives in Monmouth at all. I think he lives in Goderham village, and I think he is very good, and I think he is mistaken when he says he is sitting room of the Union house was locked - it was occupied by the public all day, and sometimes contained quite a crowd, the centre of attraction being a new case - which he did sell before night.

Saturday Market. Large supplies of the various produce were brought in. Prices were fair and not much changed from last week. Eggs are raising in price owing to smaller offerings - they sold at from 18c and 19c per doz. Butter was selling at 18c and 19c per lb. Chickens brought from 30c to 35c per lb. Ducks were selling at 45c and 50c a pair; while geese were plentiful at 3c a pair and a Potatoes by the bag sold for 50 cents.

On Sunday evening last the Rev. S. J. Shroy, of the Cambridge-st. Methodist church, preached a special sermon, taking for his subject "The Home as a Center of Religion." He said that the home is the center of religion, and that the home is the center of religion.
