NORTH VICTORIA.

[From the Toronto Globe, Nov. 21st] North Victoria has become in recent years somewhat celebrated in consequence of the Dominion franchise act. riding has earned for itself a reputation far from enviable, and the responsibility for this rests upon the conservative leaders, and not a little upon the revising officer. The heat that can be said is that in the working of the statute itself the bad features are brought prominently into play, and the developments may yet make its authors ashamed of the act and secure its repeal. In was in this riding that scores of names were sworn on to the list at a former revision by the statutory declaration of various persons, who, when cross-examined in open court, admitted that they knew absolutely mothing of the fac's they had thus declared to. Inasmuch as these declarations were in each case made on the personal knowledge of the declarant, perjury was as common as gossip on a market day. One individual declared to some 40 different qualifications, and, to his personal knowledge, declared each man to be 21 years of age. Of this number seven were proved to be under age. The case of this individual was a sample of what went on all over the constituency. A gross miscr age of justice happened when the gu !ty parties were permitted to escape. Bills were laid before the grand jury of the county, but that body simply ignored them. THE LINDSAY POST in scathing terms exposed the conduct of these gentlemen on the grand jury, some of whom actually suggested throwing out the bills without even examining witnesses, blame in permitting the proceedings to party, and would have the strongest pass without the fullest publicity and interests against us, and although it is exposure. Resort to the courts could said you cannot expect a man to do justice have been had on account of the refusal in his own cause, yet I am satisfied that he of the revising efficer to strike off the would not stultify himself as a lawyer by mames so placed on the list by men who, doing otherwise than stating that these on oath before him subsequenty, adaitted they knew nothing of the facts they had previously sworn to in writing.

ed. In this case schedules containing the function of government, and it will be a names and qualifications of the proposed vary hard thing indeed if in the franchise, vectors are accepted in violation of the the essential of citizenship, something statute. (Sec. 15, sub-sec. 5, electoral approaching justice cannot be obtained, Franchise act.) This statute macts that and if a fair and honest list cannot be the qualification of the person claiming obtained for the electors of North Victo be added to the list shall be stated to the body of d claration"; In view of all this it will be the dut apply on the premises to MRS. ROBT. LANG. 36 tf.

yet, in defiance of this statute, the revising officer for North Victoria has accepted declarations as to a great many proposed voters, the names and qualifications of whom are not stated in the declarations at all, but in schedules or pieces of paper attached thereto. The statute is plain e rough, but to emphasize its plainness he was referred to Hansard, vol. 2, 1860, at page 3,703, where the following is found, which ought to have convinced him that he was ignoring the law : -"Mr. Chapleau -I intend to put in the bill which the government has before the house on part of the hon. gentleman's bill, that is to say, the provision that the qualification shall be stated in the body of the declaration. That is the only part

"Mr. Barron-Do I understand, then, that the hon. minister proposes to do away with the schedule, and insist on the qualification being mentioned in the declarations itself?

"Mr. Chapleau-Yes ." Then at page 3,923 of the same volume, Mr. Chapleau is reported as follows: .

"In the 12th line, after the word, stated,' I wish to add these words, distinct ly in the body of the declaration.' In many cases declarations have been made stating that the following names are duly qualified electors, and the declaration is signed and a schedule of names attached. Sometimes this is done in a loose manner. At the end of such declaration an appendix is added, to which the names are easily attached. But no error could arise if the qualification of each elector whose name it is sought to add was distinctly stated in the body of the declaration."

The cases are so serious as to induce a formal protest to the revising officer by Mr. McLaughlin, acting for the liberal association of North Victoria, portions of which protest are as follows :-

"As an elector for North Victoria, as well as solicitor for the North Victoria Why cannot we have a Victoria cheese | 1 beral association, I have examined the

give just as good grounds of belief as are generally given.

I would raise no technical objections to deprive anyone of a vote, or to make it difficult for any one to become registered, but the liberal party expected to be kept to the law, and in the declaration, put in by them the requiremen's of the law have been fulfilled, both in the letter and THE FRANCHISE COURTS IN spirit, and if the other side are allowed evidence a grave injustice will be done. You are well aware that in the last revision a wholesale system of fraud was practised upon you by a whole host of declaralions being put in, where the parties deslared as 'to their personal knowledge' as to hundreds of names as to which they had no personal knowledge at all,

"The declarations that are filled now show an equally systematic attempt to pack the list with a vast number of names have justice done. It is bad enough to without evidence; and it is even worse adopt hearsay declarations, the uselessthan the last, because the party declaring ness of which is shown by the fact that does not in this case pledge his personal perjury could not be assigned, but it is knowledge at all; they put it in such a intolerable that a positive statutory way as to evade personal responsibily, enactment should be studiously ignored and if these names are added now, and the onus is again thrown upon the liberals to prove their qualification, a very grave injustice will again be done, besides the contempt that is placed upon your court by those who file those declarations, and who evidently expect that they will, for party reasons, be put on contrary to law On behalf of the electors I represent I protest against the admission of these names without further proof. We ask no favors; we are willing to fulfill the law ourselves, and think justice can only be done by requiring from both sides a substantial adherence to the law; and we appeal to you as a judge in this matter, and as a member of the bar of this province, to do justice in the matter. . . If there is any doubt in your mind as to the illegality of these declarations, I would suggest that a sample one, for instance, the one made by Bakerattached to which are over 200 names - be submitted to the minister of justice. Al:hough he is leader of the conservative
