SUPPLY AND DEMAND

We wish to impress upon you the fact that prices must be higher. The situation is unprecedented in the history of the trade. Instances are reported where buyers have offered an advance to secure goods, and the offers have been declined because of the products of the mill being sold ahead from four to eight months. The idea of mills being compelled to refuse orders is something entirely new. This is where Supply and Demand get in their work and we must bow to their authority. We wish to impress upon you the fact that our stock is large and well assorted and bought at the old prices, so we are in a position to give you bargains.

GENERAL WHITE'S DESPATCH, THE CONTINGENT'S GOOD-BYE.

British Commanding Officer Says That He Alone Was to Blame-Captured Force Made a Good Fight Before Capitulating -News Causes Gloom in England.

London, Nov. 1 .- The following is the text of General White's despatch to the War Office : "Ladysmith, Oct. 30. - (10.35 flank of the troops. In these operations to-day the Royal Irish Fusithe Gloucestershire Regiment were losing heavily, had to capitulate. The casualties have not yet been

Lord Minto on the Bad News, Montreal, Nov. 1 .- Lord aii. to, the Governor-General of Canada, in a speech delivered here last night before the Caledonian Society, took occasion to refer to the situation in the Transvaal. Lord Minto, who is an old English army officer, denied that the recent news showed a disaster. It might be a reverse, but it would stimulate the English for the end they had in view. Lord Minto also praised Gen. White, who, he said, had won the Victoria Cross over and over again, and who was a credit to the Gordon Highlanders, which had turned out so many splendid officers.

More Troops Ordered The commander-in-chief, Field Marshall Lord Wolseley, has issued an order for the mobilizatian by Nov. 6 of the reserves of the Suffolk, Essex and Derbyshire regiments, who will be added to the South African forces.

Is It for Europe ? The preparations to call out the second army corps, as cabled to the Associated Press yesterday morning, taken in conjunction with the extraordinary naval activity here, has again aroused the belief in service circles that the Government has good reason to anticipate European hostility. A representative of the Associated Press has investigated the matter, and still finds no reason to justify this latest reiteration at rumors of Russian, French or German intervention. It was learned on good authority that the motive consists, to quote an official, "in wanting to show the other follows what we can do," and is on a line with calling out the militia as a purely precautionary measure, dictated by the necessity of bringing up the home military force to its normal strength, or, rather, to a strength proportionate with the necessities of a nation engaged in a foreign war. Still, it doubtful whether the second corps will be actually called out. That development depends on two circumstances: First, the attitude of Europe, as evinced after this first serious British reverse; second, upon the judgment of General Buller, who, finding the conditions not so favorable as expected, may demand more troops. It does not follow that the entire army corps, even if called out, will be sent to General Buller. It is more probable that it will be kept home to supply the places of units sent out in consonance with General Buller's wishes. Upon the present organization the home forces are sup-Our "little men's" Perfect shoes will prove posed to be capable of raising at short notice three army corps. Should the War Office decide upon raising a second corps, it will necessitate the calling out of more reserves.

> CURTAIN HIDES THE SCENE. Britain in the Dark Regarding the Position at Ladysmith., London, Nov. 1 .- An ominous curtain has again descended upon affairs in Natal, No despatches except the official telegrams of General Sir George Stewart White have thus far been permitted to mention the disaster, and no telegram from Ladysmith has been received in London since the advices from the British commander. This gives rise to a belief that communication has already been cat, in which event some British losses are received.

time must elapse before details regarding If the War Office officials have received information on this point they have refrained from publishing it. General White's estimate that the British losses were about 90 is evidently quite separate from the probable losses in killed and wounded among the captured battalions. On this point there is the greatest suspense among the relatives of the prisoners. It is supposed that the stampeding of the mules meant the carrying away of the reserves of ammualions, and that the troops captured capitalated after firing the rounds which each man carried.

Might Have Been Worse, The Morning Post, pcinting out how near the British were to a "still greater disaster," says: "In capturing the column the Beers also had the Devonshire Regiment. daring world have made a bad business much worse, and, seeing that a force strong enough to scoop a couple of infantry battailous could have put itself practically between Sir George White and his camp, we may be very thankful that things to-day are not more serious than they are. The le son has been a severe one. It is humilisoldiers at their own game, but the sooner a proper respect is had for Boer strategy

"Capitulation" a Word of Shame. The Morning Post calls attention to Sir George White's use of the word "capitalation," remarking that it suspects the word was used carelessly. It says : "We prefer to assume that the column fought until it was cut to pleces and all the ammunition Troops in the field cannot capitulate with erous one, and deserves the hearty was gone. Capitulation is a word of shame, out disgrace, and disaster is not necessarily | thanks of every Canadian. dishoner."

Father Point, Que., Nov. 1 .- The troopship Sardinian passed outward at 8.30 a.m. yesterday. The vessel was boarded here and all were found to be in happy trim, moving about the decks in a lively step, laughing and joking. Not a mournful countenance was met. All seemed impressed with the duty they owed to the brave old flag, for the honor Canada. They were delighted with the magnificent send-off they got at Quebec. Capt. A Second Contingent, It is seriously suggested here in military circles, that the Canadian Government, in view of the recent disaster in South Africa, and the number of Canadian volunteers anxious for service abroad, should offer a contingent of Canadian troops. If this is not done, it is said that the dozen or two officers who want to go should be sent.

THE PREMIER'S TOUR

Enthusiastic Reception Everywhere-State Aid to Railways Di cussed. The meetings held by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues in Western Ontario partook of the character of a triumphal procession, for everywhere they were received with enthusiastic and exuberant demonstrations of confidence and approval. Leading questions of the day were very fully and frankly discussed by the Ministers, matters that have occupied the attention of the house and of the country, upon some of which there have doubtless been differences of opinion in the liberal ranks, as there corded, and confidence in the strength and integrity of the administration more firmly established than ever. Take for example the question of railway subsidies, to the granting of which the patron wing of the party has not always given the most unqualified approval. Speaking at Kincardine in a stronghold of patrons, thought and activity, the Premier always must be in a body of men who do their own thinking, These matters have been thoroughly explained and the policy of the government thereon frankly submitted to the scrutiny of the elector, with the result that popular endorsation has been ac-spoke as follows : "I have read the platform of the patrons and I have found that they were opposed to railway subsidies. Gentlemen, I say here and now, what I think on the point. Our friends, the patrons,-the advanced liberals, as they proclaim themselves-

Were Altogether Wrong. They were in the wrong when they condemned railway subsidies absolutely. Let them condemn the abuse of the late government of the policy of granting railway subsidies to railways that do not need them. To that extent I agree with them. But there are occasions where it is the duty of a government in this country to give railway aid. Sometimes I have seen the argument advanced in patron literature that in the United States they give no aid at all to railways; that all the railways there were constructed by private energy and private capital. This is true, and when the time comes, as it will some day, that we shall have reached the the position now held by the United States, we will do the same. But remember this, we have a territory just as large as the United States, but we have only six millions of people, to-day while they have seventy-seven millions. Well, a population of 77,-000,000 can do more than a population of 6,000,000. When we have as large a population as the United States with all the wealth which 77,000,000 can accumulate, it will be possible for private capital, private energy, to do what we cannot do at the present time. Remember, too, that while we have a population of only 6,000,000, and as large a territory as that of the United States, that population is scattered over the country. There are remote districts where colonization is going on, where young and vigorous men are moving in, to carve their way out of the forest and out of the prairie These men must be assisted in order to get a railway. An Apt Illustration. "Let me put a question to you," continued the Premier. "Here in the county of Bruce you have two or three railways at least, every one of which has been subsidized by government aid, every one of which has received public money in order to bring it up to the standard in which it is at the present time. If these railways had not been assisted as they have been, you would not have any railways at all, and instead of being able to take your produce to market as you are now doing, you would have to do what you did forty years ago, cart it to market a distance of 30, 40 or perhaps 60 miles. I am aware you are more favored than other parts of the country, and have reached a certain standard of population, but recollect that there are to-day many districts in Quebec, Nov. 1 .- The following mi- Ontario, in Quebec, in the Maritime litary orders were issued last even- provinces, and in Manitoba, and the North-West Territories, which are not in as favorable a position as you are to-day, which are young and hapless communities, and which have to cart their produce to market, as you had to do forty years ago. They ask us to come and give them assistance so that they may be able to bring themselves to the same standard of civilization and disciplined embarkation of our that you have bere in this county of comrades and representatives of the Bruce. Peculiar Accident on Saturday Evening. Mr. Jas. McGinnis, east ward, met with a strange mishap on Saturday evening. He had been out in the country in the afternoon, and secured a ride back as far as Cambridgest., from which point he elected to walk to his home in the east ward. On his way he says that 'he stepped on a bad plank, which broke, and one end flew up, striking him on the thigh, The section of plank must have held a nail, as some sharp object penetrated an artery, and he lost a lot of blood. Dr. Shier was called in next morning and found the old man in a bad way, but he is now on the mend.

VERY SUDDEN DEATH

A Downeyville Farmer Succumbed to Heart Disease This Morning.

The people of Downeyville were thrown into a state of excitement last Monday by the news that Mr. Theo. Ryan, who resided a short distance north of the village had died very suddenly about 7 o'clock.

Many discredited the report, as Mr. Ryan had been seen at church on Sunday in his usual good health, but enquiry demonstrated the truth of the sad news. The deceased, who was about 70 years of age, had driven the cows to the pasture field about 6.30, and when near the house on his return he was seen to fall. When his wife reached the spot he was dead, Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause.
