—The youngest traveller that ever crossed the ocean alone is probably Hudrigh Gillet, who landed at Ellis island Friday last from the Sanle. He is four years old and is going to his father, who is a foreman in a factory in this city. The child was taken to Germany several months ago by his mother, who remains there.

—"The Breakers," the elegant summer residence of Cornelius Vanderbilt at Newport, was destroyed by fire Friday last. The fire also destroyed all the valuable contents, including furniture, wearing apparel and rare articles of every description. The fire was discovered by Mr. Vanderbilt himself about 4:30 p.m. The loss is estimated at $300,000.

—An examination of the whaleback steamer sunk in the Soo canal showed that a piece of steel plating, fifteen inches wide and thirty-six inches long, had been broken out of the bottom and was in the water compartment. In the opinion of the experts the steamer struck a charge of dynamite which had not exploded in blasting operations.

—The largest vessel yet built on the Tyne, in England, and said to be the largest cargo vessel in the world, was successfully launched last month. The vessel, which is built of steel, is 465 ft. long, 63 ft. breadth and 30 ft. depth, has a gross register of 6,400 tons, dead weight capacity of 9,350 tons on 25 ft. draught, and gross displacement of 13,600 tons. —Geo. E. Evans, a colored latter-carrier of Newark, N.J., ate 210 oysters in forty-five minutes last, having wagered $10 to $100 inside of an hour. The oysters were of ordinary size. To make sure of winning Evans called for ten more oysters and swallowed them with an apparent relish. When he had pocketed his winnings he walked to a restaurant and ordered a porterhouse steak, which he ate with as much relish as if he had merely taken the oysters for an appetizer.

—An extraordinary infant was recently born near Crab Orchard, Va. The child was well developed, had a full set of teeth, and long flowing hair of a sombre hue. It seemed to be possessed of all the mental faculties of maturity. In a clear voice it said, "Time here is short." It then closed its eyes and died. This, together with the corpse, which is supposed no carry death and destruction in its wake, has created considerable consternation in that community.

—A great sensation was caused in St. Petersburg Friday last by the mutiny of the Novotcherkask regiment, which has been garrisoned here for some time. The men of the regiment have long been complaining of the ill-treatment to which they have been subjected by their officers. Being no longer able to endure such treatment they deserted in a body this morning and started for their homes. As soon as the fact of the mutiny became known another regiment was sent in pursuit, and the mutineers were overtaken about twelve miles out and brought back to the city. It is expected that drastic punishment will be meted out to them, as the Russian military law is extremely severe in cases of mutiny.

—The oldest woman in Canada is probably Mrs. Elizabeth McNair of Clydes' Corners, seven miles from Huntingdon, who has reached the age of 110 years. She was born in Argyleshire, Scotland, and came to Canada in 1822. Her husband died in 1879 at the age of 107 years. The old lady's senses are fairly good, but her memory is failing.

—J. Edgar Crouse of Syracuse, N.Y., millionaire grocer, is dead. He was fifty-nine years of age. Mr. Crouse built in Syracuse the most magnificent stable in the world, costing one million dollars. He was a trustee of Syracuse university and a large benefactor of that institution. He leave a fortune variously estimated at from ten to twenty million dollars.

—A woman named Kern, living at Mulhausen, driven to desperation by the misconduct of a dissipated husband, put her four youngest children in a wheelbarrow and followed by the fifth proceeded to the cemetery. After offering a prayer she drew a knife and cut the throats of the four youngest children and then killed herself. The fifth child was saved by the sexton of the cemetery.

—George Southerda, a prosperous farmer of Jasper county, Indiana, joined a religious sect which believes that the exercise of sufficient faith will enable the believer to perform miracles. Southerda picked up a rattlesnake under the supposition that his abiding and persistent faith would protect him from any possible injury. The venomous reptile bit him in the arm, and after suffering frightful agony he died raving like a maniac.

—Wm. Gehl, a son of Conrad Gehl, the proprietor of Gehl's brewery at Port Arthur, while walking through the building where the vats are, tripped and fell headlong into one of these receptacles, which contained beer in a boiling state. He disappeared beneath the surface of the superheated liquid and on reappearing was dragged out, blinded and horribly burned. He died in a couple of hours after intense suffering.

—Afsuel Mulk, the reigning sovereign of Chitral, India, and his younger brother have been murdered by Sher Afsuel Khan, a brother of the late ruler of Chitral. He gathered a small following and returned to the country, and after murdering the Mehtar and his brother secured the throne. Chitral, or is sometimes called Little Cashmere, consists of the Koomer valley, on the southern slope of the Hindoo Koosh mountains form the Pamirs plateau, the scene of the Russian Col. Yanoff's recent exploits.

—Mrs. Cleveland, wife of President Cleveland, had a most miraculous escape from being dashed down an embankment while out riding at Lakewood, N.J., on Thursday afternoon last. The horses attached to the carriage in which sat Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. F. P. Freeman, jun., and the Misses. Freeman, became frightened and dashed away at a break-neck speed. Mr. Freeman, who held the reins, guided the animals over the narrow road and by the deep chasm, and finally succeeded in pulling them up without injuring any of the inmates.

—Wm. Powar and another ruffian named Conrad Russell went to Houstonville, Ky., Friday afternoon last, where they became very threatening. They were coming down the street shouting, when Marshal Walt Taylor stepped out with his rifle in his hands. He ordered them to surrender, when Powers pulled a gun and would have shot him down had he not quickly fired on Powers. Ejecting the empty shell from his rifle he then covered Russell. The latter threw up his hands and surrendered, and was lodged in gaol. Powers fell mortally wounded.

—The municipal authorities of Falkenstein, in Vergtland, finding a difficulty in collecting the taxes, resorted to the novel measure of posting in every tavern of the town a list of the names of the citizens who were in default for taxes, and notified the proprietors of the taverns that the serving of any refreshments to any of the delinquents would result in a fine of 110 marks or one week's imprisonment for the tavern keeper. The tavern-keepers are busy making themselves acquainted with the appearance of those gentlemen on the list, and refuse refreshments to all who are unknown.

—The wife of Mr. Thomas Hall, a respected farmer residing in Eramosa, committed suicide Monday morning by drowning herself in the cistern while slightly deranged. Mr. Hall awoke about six o'clock and missing his wife at once suspected that she had committed suicide. Upon looking into the cistern his worst fears were realized, for there was the dead body of his wife floating in the water, robed only in her nightdress. The sadness of this deplorable event is augmented by the fact that she leaves seven children deprived of a mother's care, the eldest being sixteen years of age.

—A despatch from Astrakhan on the River Volga states that on Tuesday last a naphtha barge caught fire there. The flames spread with startling rapidity and before any attempt could be made to save them twenty-six other barges, some loaded with naphtha and others empty, were a mass of flames. Two steamers also caught fire and were destroyed. All the barges were burned to the water's edge. The bargemen and the hands on the steamers barely escaped with their lives. The explosions that followed the communication of the flames to the naphtha sounded like discharges of cannon. The fire presented a magnificent spectacle.

—Rev. P. M. Flannigan of Chicago has received a letter from Bishop Angouard, vicar apostolic of Oubanghi, on the Upper Congo. Cannibalism there is of every day occurrence. The letter says: "A Frenchman, De Poumayrac, has just been killed and eaten in Upper Oubanghi with ten black soldiers and thirty three carriers. A Belgian expedition has just been destroyed on the Upper Congo by the Arabs, who put eight Europeans to death. The chief of the expedition was forced to look at his arm being taken off, which was then roasted and eaten in his presence. The same was then done with the other arm, and he was finally killed in the slowest manner possible.

—The Lebel machine gun, which the French expeditionary corps used against the Dahomeyan army on the 19th of September, near Alladi, has truly shown itself to be a wonderful death-dealing weapon, and conclusively proves that small forces, assisted by such arms, do not need to fear even the rushes of thousands. As the despatches state, some four thousand of the enemy were within thirty yards of the French forces when the gun began its work of wholesale destruction, and in a very few minutes the yelling but well disciplined force was turned into human hash. The bullets inflicted wounds like those made by explosive bullets. For those who have not actually seen it it is difficult to form any idea of their rending action on the human body. These effects of the Lebel weapon are a revelation for every one. Even the largest trees afforded no shelter for the enemy, for they were pierced right through.

THE CALIFORNIAN
Illustrated MAGAZINE,

Published in San Francisco, California, has a circulation all over the world; its growth during one year is positively phenomenal in the annals of Magazine Literature, surpassing every other magazine in the world in the same space of time. The reasons are obvious.

It has strong financial backing.

Its contents are replete with typical descriptions of California and Pacific Coast subjects—scenery, climate, fruit and flowers.

Its range of topics is Cosmopolitan, embracing sketches of European and Oriental scenes and characteristics.

It discusses without basis or partisan zeal, the living questions of the day.

It owns and controls its entire plant, including type, the largest presses on the coast, a complete half-tone and photo-engraving outfit, and employs its own artists.

Its aim is to develop the natural, commercial, social and literary capacities of Western and interior America; to present only what is pure in tone, instructive in matter and interesting in form.

The price of this magazine is $3 00 a year, postage prepaid. The subscription list is increasing over twelve hundred a month, and it has a larger circulation on the Pacific Coast than any Magazine in the world.

We present to every annual subscriber a beautiful picture, 16x20½ inches, of one of the Old California Missions, or a view from the far-famed Yosemite Valley. NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.—Having bought the county right to manufacture and sell the CHESLEY CLOTHES REEL in the County of Victoria, I am now prepared to book orders for this, the best clothes reel that is made. The Chesley Reel was patented Oct. 21, 1891. It is the only common sense elevating reel—no platform to build to put on the clothes, a simple lever lifts the clothes up out of all danger of beams or other things that would come in contact with them on any other reel or line. I am determined to sell it at a price that will allow every lady having clothes to dry to have a Chesley Reel. Farm produce taken in payment, or monthly payments. The following township rights for sale: Emily, Verulam, Somerville, Bexley, Carden, Eldon. These townships will be sold reasonably and I will take good reels in payment. Here is a little fortune for good, honest, pushing men. I want good honest men as agents to sell for me at good pay. Apply to J. PEARCE, Box 232, Lindsay. Sept. 14, 1892.—36-tf.
