INTERESTING NOTES BY A LINDSAY CITIZEN.

A TRIP TO ENGLAND.

A Visit to Kentiworth Castle-Sunday at a Farm House-Dinners Prepared by the Village Baker-On to Coventry-Litchfield Cathedral - " Burton-on-Trent," the Browers' City - On the Road

On the following morning we rose in good time and prepared for another day's wheeling. Taking the Southam road we ride about twenty miles into the city of Leamington, a favorite resort, noted for its waters, supposed to be a cure for various diseases. We pass a large number of carriers' carts, which are so conspicuous in this country, and by the means of which the "carrier" does a good deal of shopping for the village folk; the trip to the town . Is saide daily, or every few days, as the bu lasss may require, and on market day several hundred of these covered carts may be seen lined along the streets.

The signs over the saloons, or public houses, as they are called in England, are strikingly poculiar to Canadians, and among others we noticed "The Shoulder of H. m," "The Leg of Mutton," "The Case is Altered," "The First and Last," and many others which to us seemed strange; and by-the-way, there was no scarcity of them in any part we were in, and no man need be thirsty so long as he has three

After a lunch at Leamington we rode on to Cubbington, and from there to Kenilworth, where the castle so famed in history is still worth a visit although the greater part is in ruins; an hour later we take the Warwick road and pass through Stoneleigh Park, where a large number of volunteers and militia camp yearly. The ground here is full of burrows made by the rabbits, and scores skip across our track as we wheel along. The next point of interest is Guy's Cliffe, which is an architectural structure of great beauty standing very picturesquely at the end of an avenue of trees leading from the roadway; although this is now the residence of a titled lady, visitors are allowed to inspect the surroundings and some parts of the building. Cells and dungeons of the dreamest character form a striking contrast to the beautiful exterior of the place. Partly hidden by bashes is the open ng to an underground passage said to have been made by Guy Earl of Warwick, as a place of security, and by which to escape, as the guide told us it ex ended some seven miles and the exit was made in Kenilworth; all of which we were assured was "quoite

The next day, being Sunday, we decided to spend it in a village, and take a quiet rest. In the morning we were awakened by our host (a farmer), and managed to get down in time to do justice to some 'ome cured 'am, which was a genuine treat to us, but the like of which is hard to get in Canada. There being no service in the little village church, we walked with our friend to a church (or chapel) some three miles distant. The walk was taken through the fields where regular footpaths had been made, and we passed along through wheat, barley, oats and pastures which formed a pleasing variety, and the peacefulness of nature was delightfully refreshing after the town and city sightseeing. Returning home by one o'clock we see the villagers going to the baker's-shop for their dinners, the small sum of one penny being charged for the baking and attention to whatsver dish is entrusted to him. The favorite Sunday dinner seemed to be a reast of meat under which a Yorkshire pudding was baked, and this dish was one which we always enjoyed, but especially after our six mile walk, and undoubtedly the lady of the house agreed with us when we said the walk had given us an appetite. The service in the village chapel in the afternoon at 3 o'clock was addressed by the village blacksmith, who said many good things in his rough way, and we enjoyed all but the singing, which was the slowest drawl we ever heard. After service, as we sat in our host's home, we saw a little funeral passing down the road; in the lead was the old nurse carrying the tiay coffia containing a month old baby, while behind followed four mourners, which made a mournful looking little procession. Public funerals are unknown here, and in all classes of society none but those invited would think of attending, and only black is allowed in horses and

Our next stopping place is the great brewing centre of England-Burton-on-Trent, of which we will write of in our mext letter.

The following morning finds us wheeling abead, and by 10 o'clock we are in the city of Coventry, where the bicycle factories employ a large portion of the citizens. Many varieties of wheels are seen here, and quite frequently on our frip we saw the high ones being ridden, from which a fall is no small matter; combinations accommodating from two to fourteen rider; are made in this city, and although the latest improvements on American wheels are not equalled here, yet for substantiality and variety England appears

Oa through the mining districts of Warwickshire and Derbyshire, we pass through Litchfield, where stands one of the most beautiful of England's cathedrals; the exterior is a wonder of sculpturat beauty, with its scores of figures and designs, while the interior is corresponding magnificent.

The cyclist has no difficulty in finding the proper road to take here, as at every crossing or turn a board is erected pointing in the direction and telling how far to the villages and towns for perhaps the next sixty miles, and in some cases giving them Agents. as far distant as 125 miles, while mile-stores are placed on all main roads. A great deal of transportation is done by the barges on the canals, and frequer by We pass over bridges, and see the donkey, mile or horse, wearlly tugging a loaded boat. A sigh of relief escapes when, late in the afternoon, we read on a mile-stone "One mile to Burton-on-Trent," and a few miou'es later we are meeting friends whom we have not seen for years.

No one would need to be told that this is a brewing centre unless their sense of smell, was gone; saloous at the rate of about 20 to the block adorn (?) this city. and it seemed to us, as we walked along the streets, that about one-half the people were drunk, Over twenty breweries are doing a thriving business, employing from fifty to 2,000 hands, and a bank manager told us that the excise duty on one quarter's manufacture for the firm of Bass & C. frequently amounted to $450,-000. Truly this traffic is a curse to England, and yet it is defended and upheld by all classes. We were told of a temperance lacturer who ventured here, and narrowly escaped with his life, as that kind of a lecture wasn't appreciated by the people. So strong a hold has the liquor business here that the Christian Endeavourers have changed their topic when it has been on temperance. On election day one brewer who was elected gave to each of his 1,800

Two days were spent here in sight-seeing and boating on the beautiful river Trent, and then a trip southward is arranged. The distance to Leighton Buzzard being about 100 miles, we start off in good time, and the morning being bright and fine, good progress is made. A few minutes for dinner at a quiet country hotel, and we come out feeling as though we could ride twice the distance we have to, but after climbing a hill two miles in length our feelings change a little. At 8 o'clock we reach our destination, having passed through seven counties during the day's tour, and we are glad to partake of the supper provided for us. From here our next stop will be the centre of all tourists' interest-London-of which our next letter will give a little of our experiences in that wonderful city.

Newspapers and Magazites.

-No pariedical in Canada ever collected between one set of covers as many coatri. butions from as many of Canada's best writers as has the Canadian Magazine in its Christmas number. And these same writers have surpassed themselves. J. H. Long, of Hamilton, writes of "The First Cacadian Christmas;" the history of the eastle St. Louis, Quebec, is told by J. M. LeMoine; that of the U. E. Loyalists is rendered charming by the facile pen of Chas. G. D. Roberts; J. G. Bourinot treats of "A Gentlemen-Adventurer of the old Regime," in a delightful paper. W. W. Campbell's poem entitled "Ode to Silence" is a most perfect place of work. Au article which will interest every patriot is one on "Canada's National Song; Its Author and Origin," by the editor, John A. Cooper. The story, "Adele Berthier," illustrated by F. A. Brigden, is also worthy of special notice. While the Canadian Magazine has thus distinguished itself with a high-class Christmas number, it announces better things to follow. The January number will contain the first half of a story by C. C. by far surpasses, both in literature and artistic excellence, any previous issue of that popular magazine. Conspicuous among the contributors are ex-President Harrison, who gives the introductory paper of the series he is preparing upon "This Country of Oars"; Mrs. Mary Anderson de Navarro, who most interestingly tells of "My First Appearance on the Stage"; and Mary E. Wilkins, who gives the first of Neighborhood Types" papers; Radyard Kipling's latest and best romance, "William the Conqueror" (cichly illustrated by W. L. Taylor,) is begun in the Christmas Journal, as is Julia Magruder's new novelette, "The Violet," which Chas. Dana Gibson has illustrated, while Mrs. Barton Harrison's fascinating story, "The Holiday dance at Worrosquoyacke" (pictures by W. T. Samdley), is delightfully concluded. James Whitcomb Riley's tenderly reminiscent poem, "At the Gate," (superbly illustrated by A. B. Frost), and Kate Greenaway's winsome dainty little paople, are two page features of the December Journal. Dr. Parkburst talks strongly in condemnation of "The Passion o! Money getting"; Hezekiah Butterworth talls "How Longfellow Wrote his Best-Kuown Poems," and Robert J. Burdette humorously and pointedly treats of "Wasting Other People's Time." Aside from the usual departments and talks about fashions in feminine attire, there is a daintily illustrated article- "Attractiva Dinner Cards," which outlines the art of dinner-giving. The artists represented in the Christmas Journal are among the most notable illustrators, and include A. B. Frost, Kate Greenaway, W. L. Taylor, C. D. Gibson, Alice Barber Stephens, W. T. Smedley, E. Grivaz, E. M. Hallowell, Abby E. Underwood, Miss E. S. Green, W. S. Rice. By the Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. One dollar per year; ten

Reasons Why Said Pasha Fled to the British Consulate-Feared He Would be Made a Prisoner - Revolver Scare in the French Chamber-General Cable News. London, Dec. 6 .- A despatch to The Central News says that the Sultan has decided to consent to each of the powers having a second guardship at Constantinople.

THE CONCERT BROKEN.

Russia and France Said to Have Cut Loose From the Other Powers.

London Dec. 6.-A despatch from Rome to The Pall Mall Gazette says: It is freely stated in diplomatic circles here that Russia and France have withdrawn from the concert of the powers in the European policy toward Turkey and efforts are now being made to convene a conference of the European powers in Vienna.

It's Not True. London, Dec. 7.—Official information has been received stating that the report that France and Russia had withdrawn from the European concert relative to Turkey is wholly unfounded.

The Sultan Demands Said. Constantinople, Dec. 6.-The Porte has made a demand upon the British Embassy for the surrender of Said Pasha, President of the Council of State and formerly Grand Vizier, who has taken refuge in the embassy because he feared arrest, if nothing worse, if he complied with the Sultan's The demand has been refused by Sir Philip Currie, British Ambassador, and Said Pasha is still under the protection of the embassy. The former Governor of Hadjin, who while occupying that post a few weeks ago threatened to burn the Christian corvent at that place, has been promoted to the more important post of Governor of Tarsus.

British Embassy Surrounded. London, Dec. 6 .- The Standard will ing refuge in the Embassy and the lately invited to resume the Grand Vizierate and that on his refusal he was imprisoned for a week in a tower within the precincts of the Yildiz Palace. It is obvious that the reasons inby seeking foreign protection he renders his life worthless should he quit the Embassy, except with an English escort, for the purpose of embarking on a foreign ship. The fact that the favorite of the whole Turkish nation as opposed to the palace clique has chosen the British Embassy for a refuge, gives Sir Philip Currie an advantage that he would be foolish to let slip without fully profiting thereby. The nearest parallel to the present incident was when Sir A. Layard, Madrid, dressed Marshal Serrano a lacquey and drove with him in his own carriage. If the present incident is adroitly turned it may end once for all the miserable palace regime.

Said Pasha's Flight London, Dec. 6.-The representative of the United Press in Constantinople, telegraphing under yesterday's date, gives some details of the flight of Said Pasha from the Yildiz Palace and his seeking refuge at the British Embassy. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning Tewfik Pasha, who was formerly Turkish Ambassador to Germany, but who is now Minister of Foreign Affairs, a post held a short time ago by Said Pasha, called on Sir Philip Currie, the British Ambassador, and sought to prevail upon him to refuse Said Pasha the hospitality of the Embassy. It was evident that the Sultan was anxious to have Said Pasha driven from his compelled by force, if necessary, to take up his residence in the Yildiz Palace, which, it is generally believed even by Said Pasha himself, would be simply a preliminary to his imprisonment or something worse. Tew-Philip Currie that it was the proper thing to place Said Pasha in a position where the Sultan, if he were so disposed, could wreak vengeance upon him, but he diplomatically refrained from giving a flat refusal to Tewfik's request. He told the Foreign Minister that Said Pasha was not willing to leave the Embassy at present, and as he was his guest it would be against every rule of hospitality and courtesy to ask him to leave. Tewfik Pasha then retired to convey to his royal master the answer of the British Ambas-

The representative of the United Press says that the Ambassadors of the several powers, at a meeting held by them Thursday afternoon, lengthily discussed the position of affairs. What decision, if any, was arrived at, is not known, but after the meeting the opinion was freely expressed by officials of all the Embassies that the climax the crisis was near, and that decisive action by the powers might soon be looked for. None of the officials would commit himself to a definite statement as to what form this action

CHINA'S INTERNAL STRIFE.

Report That Russia Would be Willing to Help Her Out if Requested. Paris, Dec. 6 .- A despatch from St. Petersburg to The Eclair says it is reported there that China has asked Russia whether the Russian Government would be willing, if requested to do, to send an army corps to help suppress the rebellion in North China. It is represented that the rebellion is spreading daily. The rebels have already overrun the province of Kan Su and captured its capital, Lan Chu Fu, taking 2000 prisoners and seizing 30 guns, together with a large quantity of provisions, ammunition, etc.

British Steamer Lost at Sea and Most of Her Crew Went Down. London, Dec. 9 .- A report has been received here that the British steamer Principia, Capt. Stannard, from Shields, via Dundee, Nov. 16, for New York, has been lost at sea, and 27 of her crew drowned. The Principia was a three-masted topsail schooner rigged steamer of 2749 tons gross and 1790 tons net burthen. She was built in Newcastle in 1881, and was owned by the Arrow Shipping Co.

Canadian Dead From Drink. Buffalo, Dec. 5.-Joseph Steele, aged 21, well connected and educated, an hotel clerk by occupation, ruined by drink, died at the penitentiary to-day. He was a native of Canada.

TOWN JOTTINGS.

A Sudden Call. At an early hour last Friday Mrs. Hicks, wife of Mr. Wm. Hicks, of Ops, died very suddenly of heart disease at her home, about two miles south of the town. For some time past she had been unwell at intervals, but during the last few days she had been apparently in good health, and her sudden collapse was a great shock to her husband and friends. Mr. Hicks is well-known in town, having been employed fer many years in Curtin's brickyard. The deceased lady was a sister of Mrs. Thos. Reid, of West Ops.

A Close Call. While Mr. Harry Bryans was repairing the sky-light in Warner & Co's dry goods store last Thursday, his ladder, which rested on a packing case, slipped and struck the cash carriers, pulling them to the floor along with an electric light globe, smashing it to smithereens. Harry narrowly missed falling into the show case, and had another narrow escape from taking a header into the cellar, the door being open. No bones were broken and Mr. Webster, the clever repairer, had the line in working order in a short time.

Last Saturday's Market, The market last Saturday was one of the best attended of the season, and Clerk Callaghan had more business to attend to than he could well handle, though his capacity is great. Beef was lying about everywhere, fully 100 quarters being offered, and many sales were made at from $3 50 to $5, according to quality. Hogs sold $3.50 to $4.50 per 100 lbs. dressed, mutton, hind quarter, 5c per lb.; lard, which sold on Wednesday at Sc, brought to-day 10c and 11c per lb ; potatoes, 25c to 30c per bag; Talman Sweet apples, 60c per bag; hay, $9.25, poor, to $12, good; wood, tamarac, $2 to $2.25; hard, sawed, $3.50; cedar, $1 25; butter, 14c to 17c; geese, 40c 6.c and 60c each, or 5c to 6c per lb; turkey, 7c to 8c per lb; chickens per pair, 25c, 30c and 35c; eggs, 16c to 18c.

"Sidey" Young Again in Trouble. Lase Tuesday County M g'strate Deacon, Inspector Short and Crown Attorney several cases of infraction of the liquor law brought against Mrs. Young, of Bolsover, and family. One complaint against Chas. Young was enlarged for a week; Mrs. McArthur, daughter of Mrs. Young, was found guilty of having sold liquor on Nov. 13th and 14th, and on the two charges was fixed $100 and $13 costs, or three months' imprisonment for each offence; a third charge against Mrs. Me-Arthur was not preceded with. As it was represented that "Biddy" was lying seriously ill, and was not able to appear the case against her was remanded perding her recovers. The defendants were represented by Mr. Chapple, M P.P., Uxbridge, and Mr. Reid, of Cannington; the crown business was carefully looked after by Mr. A. P. Devlin, Lindsay.

A Big Lumber Camp Near Lindsay. In last week's issue we noticed the arrival in town of Mr. Thos. Callaghar, of Campbellford, "walking-boss" for the Rathbun Co., and Contractor McGregor, of Peterboro. To-day they leave with a gang of men to establish a large camp twelve miles east of Lindsay, in Dorgan's swamp, purchased by the Rathbun firm some years The swamp comprises cedar, tamarack, basswood, and spruce, and every stick of fair size will be taken off and hauled to Pigeon creek, where it will be boomed up in the spring and floated to Campbellford to be cut up. As soon as a suitable shanty has been erected a force ci 65 or 70 men will be engaged and given constant employment throughout the winter. The farmers in that section will no doubt benefit largely by the establishment of such a large camp, as in addition to affording lucrative employment to their spare teams in hauling the cut to the water's edge, a large market will be created for their surplus produce. The men will be in charge of Foreman R. Kennedy.

Scribner's for Christmas

Frank R Stockton has a Christmas love story, which bears a characteristic title, - The Staying Power of Sir Rohan, It's illustrations are quaint and exactly suitable A thrilling Detective Story by C. E. Carryll, entitled "The River Syndicate," perhaps equalling Sherlock Holmes' best work. Joel Chandler Harr's' characteristic tale of a faithful slave-

' The Colonel's Nigger Dog." Other Christmas stories are "A Wnite Blot," by Henry Van Dyke, a poetic and imaginative tale of a picture (illustrated) ; "Heroism of Landers" by A S. Pier (illustrated); and "Hopper's Old Man," by R. C. V. Mayers,

Sentimental Tommy

By J. M. Barrie,

Those who have read (and who have not ?) "The Little Minister" and "A Window in Thrums' can anticipate what Mr. Barrie's Sentimental Tommy" will be.
It is to be the chief serial in SCRIBNER'S for 1896, beginning in the January number.

Two Years for $4.50

Scribner's Magazine costs $3.00 a year, but new subscribers can have all the numbers for 1895 and a year's subscription for Scribner's Magazine is going to be better next year than ever. It is going to have new features. Its publishers are not satisfied with past successes. It purposes to more thoroughly deserve the confidence of the reading public.

The History Serial—"Last Quarter Century in the United States" - will be continued, Just now it is approaching a period of absorbing interest to the present generation—the first administration of President Cleveland. Scribner's Magazine ought to get careful consideration as a Christmas gift. The $4,50 offer ought to get double consideration.
