The Durham-st, Fire.

[To the Editor of THE POST.] SIR,-I have been reading the correspondence between some of our townsmen and our reeve, about the fire on Durhamst., also the proceedings in the council room between Mr. B gbie and the reeve. As a signer of a petition that was presented to our council about the beginning of make a few remarks.

The reeve, I understand, is the chairman of the fire and water committee. By the statements that he has made over his own signature, and what he is reported as saying at the last council meeting, I would think he is either jesting or is not familiar with the branch of work he superintends

If Mr. Kylie will call out his fire brigade and lay 1,000 ft. of hose, taking the stand--The teachers in training finished their pipe pressure only, he will find at the if there was a fire in progress he would ether have to get the pumps started or form a bucket brigade. The fire pressure in the mains would give him nearly 40 lbs. at the end of 1,000 ft. of hose-this, you know, would be of very little use at a fire of any magnitude.

Mr. Kylie, after distinctly promising to aid the signers of the petition mentioned above, advised against us as chairman ci committee, giving as one of his reasons for not wishing a hydrant in the south ward that other unprotected partions of the town would at once demand hydrants. In the course of a conversation held about that time, Mr. Begoie said that, -Mr. J. J. Nelson, of Teronto, organi- judging from the number and location of zer for the Select Knights of Canada, went | those citizens who were talking hydrants, of $240 on the part of the town to give us this much needed protection—an outlay that would be far more profitable than some that have been made this summer. Thanking you for space in your valuable JAS. STORER. paper, I am, yours,

Reeve Kylie's Stand in Council.

[To the Editor of THE POST.] MR. EDITOR,-I wish to make a few remarks in reply to Mr. Storer's communication of the 7th re hydrants in the south ward. At the time Mr. Storer's petition was presented in the council we, in the centre of the north ward, felt that we were about on an equal footing with friend Storer, and we sat to work at once to get up a petition for a hydrapt, and I have no doubt that other parts of the town were just in the same fix. Reeve Kylie, the chairman of the fire department, I suppose, felt that if he complied with the request of Mr. Storer he could not consistently cial condition of the town he did the proper thing and refused them all, and I feel, Mr. Editor, that every right-minded ratepayer will say that he adopted the proper course, and should be commended and not condemned for the manly stand friend of Mr. Kylle, still, I admire the course he has taken in the council, fighting hard to curtail expenses, and if he refused Mr. S. a hydrant he also refused the Rathbun Co, which was a very unpopular thing for him to do. The ratepayers may thank Reeve Kylle for defeating the erection of an isolation hospital at a cost of about $3,000, which cannot be said to be a necessity in a town like this; Mr. K. also fought hard sgainst submitting the by-law asking the ratepayers to mortgage their homes to pay off a floating debt incurred by the votes of a useless lot to the striking of the rate they are afraid to offend the people by striking it high enough to pay their way. It appears to be the rule in Lindsay—and in Lindsay only that men like Resve Kylie, having the courage of their convictions, men who do their share of the work in an honest, manly way, doing what is right for the corporation regardless of whom they may please or offend-these men, I repeat it, in Liedsay, and in Lindsay only-are hounded out of the council, and worthless creatures are allowed to sit there year CENTRE NORTH WARD. after year.

Protection Wanted.

[To the Editor of THE POST.] DEAR SIR,-The question that has been in my mind for some time is: "Does protection protect?" That has been suggested, no doubt, by the report of some of our working classes who have received some pretty hard usage from the hands of their neighbors, as reported by you in your issue of the 15th inst. When we look at the party in power, and listen to their speeches on protection, we feel like asking "whom does protection protect?" The government that forgets the claims of the laboring classes and protects the few manufacturers at the expense of the many, is pursuing a most suicidal policy and will ultimately end in disaster. For instance, Haliburton hotel keeper, was in town last | Powassan, and instructions have been | there is at present in force in the United this side of the lake can get work.
