Give me a high tariff on the goods that I sell and take the duties off all the goods that I have to buy. Make the laws to fit my interest, and give it to all others "in the neck."-The Tariff Hog's Petition.

The one thing established beyond all doubt by the tariff enquiry is that the existing tariff pleases no one. It is too low for some and too high for others. The witnesses who think it just what it ought to be are very hard to find.

Last Saturday's edition of the Daily Globe contained no less than fifty-two pages of printed matter, and far eclipsed any effort of the kind ever made in Cana-da. The Globe has forged ahead of all competitors, and has long occupied the position of being the best conducted and edited daily in Canada.

> The grand sovereign of the Orangemen, Mr. Clarke Wallace, does not agree with that portion of the school settlement which allows twenty five Roman Catholics to ask for a teacher of their own faith, instead of leaving the choice to the trustees. But he is also of the opinion that the terms of settlement are generally satisfactory and far preferable to the Remedial bill. The scheme is fair and equitable and gives opportunity for both sides to agree while perhaps, to some extent, disagreeing. It affords a common ground for both sides and removes the school question from the arena of politics. Mr. Laurier has kept his pledge, and the irritating subject will ere long be as little haard of as the New Brunswick or Prince Edward school dispute.

Those people who would leave out heredity as a factor in criminology will find ground for reflection in the statement prepared by Professor Belman, of Bonn, regarding the career of a notorious woman, who was born in 1740 and died in 1800. She had 834 descendants, and youth up. Prof. Belman gives these statistics : Seven were convicted of murdur, 76 of other crimes ; 142 were professional beggars, 64 lived on charity, and 181 women of the family led disreputable lives. The family cost the German government for maintenance and costs in the courts, almahouses and prisons, no less a just a fraction under $1,500 each,
