LINDSAY, FRIDAY, DEC. 25, 1896 THE COMPLIMENTS OF THE SEASON.

We extend to our readers and friends the compliments of the season, and wish them all a Merry Christmas. We trust the good will and happiness that should prevail at this season of year will be present in every home into which THE Post enters.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The dead horse, known as the Manito ba school question, which Caron and Foster tried to wake up in Stormont, kicked the conservative candidate over five hundred feet outside the constituency on Saturday.

So far every constituency opened has been carried by the Dominion government. There is no reaction against the new order of things shown in that. All moderate men are willing that the new ministers should have a fair opportunity to carry out their program.

The Warder frequently makes the assertion that the conservative electors of Canada are doing a good deal of thinking for themselves. It would appear so. Just look at the tory stronghold of Stormont giving over five hundred of a majority for the liberal candidate.

The Carnegie Company has cut the price of steel ralls $1 per ton. As the price is still $6 above what it was when the English bacon dealer in every parthe combine began to "regulate" things "in the consumer's interest' there seems to be no fear of the pool men's generosity bringing them to the poor house.

The Christ nas number of the Canada Presbyterian is a very fine one, both in letter press and illustrations. To the older readers of the paper the illustrated article, "Our Staff, Past and Present," will prove interesting. It seens to be renewing its youth as it enters on its 26th | Don't buy your teas or other groceries

An Appeal to Charitable People. SALVATION ARMY, LINDSAY,

As you are well aware, the present season is a time for showing our friendship and good will by giving of presents as tokens of such friendship.

for the work of the S. A. in Lindsay. Through sickness and many other unfortunate occurrences over which we had no control we find ourselves in debt considerably over $100, including the debt for fixing quarters in the barracks. Now, all our friends and soldiers by a special Christmas or New Year offering could easily sweep this amount off. May I ask you to do the level best to bely us? I see that on your level best to help us? I see that on previous occasions liberal rasponses have fore encouraged to ask you to help us in through our instrumentality.

May God bless you and reward you for His kingdom. - Yours sincerely, WM. ANDREWS, adjutant.

Hog Raising for Export. [To the Editor of THE POST.]

SIR,-There appeared in your excellent report of the farmers' institute held in Lindsay on 11th inst., a paper on "Selection and Breeding of Swine," by Mr. Dennis Hawkins, of Woodville. Six years ago I should have seconded all Mr. Hawkins says in his article about the Berkshire hog, for at that time they were great favorites with the trade. Plump in body, and light in bone, the Berkshire hog was very desirable for my business, which was at that time confined to Canada. But the last six years have witnessed a very great increase in the production of hogs, especially in Ontario, and the packers have kets for the disposition of their meats, and have found the English market desirable, hand. if the requirements of the trade there can be met. are, briefly, a long lean side, with a light shoulder and light back. The fat on the inches, and should be of a uniform thickness from head to tail, with a thick flank. The Berkshire hog does not comply with these important conditions, and is not, therefore, as acceptable for export pur-poses as other breeds. Their shoulders are thick, and when cut, if the fat on the loin is, say, 11 inches thiek, the shoulder will often show 21 inches of fat. The sides also are short and thick, and on this account the English buyers have decided objections to them.
