Toronto, Nov. 26.-A substantial measure of progress in the direction of the Schools of Ontario has been made during this session of the Provincial Normal Schools. The subject of agriculture has always received a good deal of attention from the Education Department from the carly days when three acres of the ground experimental purposes, when Lord Elgin offered prizes to encourage the study of agriculture, and when Dr. Ryerson prepared a text book for the use of teachers on the subject. In 1885 Hon. Geo. W. It is to be feared, however, that trustees have not exercised their powers in this respect with great freedom.

This year a further step has been made, this time in the direction of so equipping the teachers of the Normal School by a to a better knowledge of agriculture as make the early introduction of the subject way of increasing the interest of the teach-Normal School students to the Agricultural College at Guelph, and the visit, with ances used by the faculty and the experiments carried on at the college, has, it is understood, been productive of much good. In addition lectures have been delivered by Profs. Day and Harrison of the Agri-School, with the result of greatly quickenstudy. Similar work has been done at the Ottawa Normal School, where weekly visits have been made to the Experimental Farm for about ten weeks of the session, in order to study the experiments carried on under the direction of the Dominion Government and to receive instruction from members of the staff. few criminal cases to be tried by the court, one of which, however, was a most serious one-a young lad stands accused of murder, and it was for dence brought before them, disabusing their minds of all newspaper reports and other discussions they may have had, and be guided strictly by the evidence. He said there was no direct evidence that the boy struck the blow that killed Mrs. Orr. On the morning of the murder Mr. Orr and his young son left the farm at an early hour, leaving Allison, Mrs. Crr and two small children at home. Prisoner was given a duty to perform necessitating his going to a neighbor's a short distance away during his (Mr. Orr's) absence. When Mr. Orr returned he was informed of his wife's disappearance. A few day's later the woman was found buried. It is the purpose of the Crown to try and show that the boy was at the house when Mrs. Orr was killed. The Crown will also endeavor to show a motive on the part of the accused. He asked the grand jury to carefully weigh the evidence pro and con. True Bill Against Allison.

The grand jury then retired and at 4 p.m. brought in a true bill against the prisoner, James Allison.
