FENELON.

(Correspondence of The Post.) Presentation and Address.—Miss Tena Smith, teacher of S. S. No. 9, Fenelon, was taken by surprise on Thursday last on severing her connection with the school, when her pupils presented her with a beautiful Ladies' Companion and a copy of Tennyson's poems, handsomely bound. The following is the address: To Miss Smith, teacher S. S. No. 9, Fenelon. Dear teacher, the hour has at last arrived for us to say farewell, and we do so with mingled feelings of sadness and regret—sadness at parting with one who has striven so hard during the two years to teach us lessons intended for our benefit, mentally and morally; regret for the many neglected opportunities, the many mis-spent hours, and the meagre attention so frequently given to those faithful and earnest teachings of yours.
