Battersea, 24th Dec., 1872.

Editor of THE EXPOSITOR: SIR,-In your issue last week I saw a short piece on the nomination in Thorah, against which I feel with many of my fellow-townsmen inclined to take a different view. That Chas. Robinson must be Reeve of Thorah for the coming year is a question settled, but that feelings of acrimony are extinct is a mistake. If any man attempts to oppose Robinson, all the Grants, Guns, and McKays from Eldon. Mariposa, and the four winds, would rush to the rescue, five or six of them voting on one hundred acres, like a true Highland Clan four hundred years ago. Now, sir, C. Robinson is President and N. F. Paterson Secretary and Treasurer, of the Agricultural Society. Sometime in September last, the Secretary called a meeting of the Directors to arrange for a Show. When the Directors met in Beaverton as ed, enquiry was made for the chiefs. Where were they? N. F. Paterson in T

ronto, and C. Robinson in Lindsay-I su pose on better paying business than a fail n Beaverton. On their return home those two men went to work and made up the prize list, got it printed, and the directors knew no more of it until they saw the list published. Again, another meeting was called to arrange for a show ground. Officials none. At last Paterson arrived from of Odd-Fellows at Bracebridge are day afternoon, at half-past two, Rev. John Orillia, looked in at the Directors, then Gray will deliver the usual annual address | pulling out some old newspapers from his pecket, said "You must do the business yourselves," and left. Now, the proverb says "in the multitude of councillors thera a set of blockheads, as our two limbs of the law seem to think they are, the wisest man can learn a lesson from a child at times, if he is not a proud, despotic bigot. We now leave agricultural at present, and go to municipal matters. During the summer it was thought necessary by the faction Robinson, Ross and Cameron, to have a sidewalk to Church. No tender was asked for, neither was the work offered by auction, as it ought to have been, and let the contracting parties find the material where they pleased; but Robinson gave the work to his friends by the day, and bought the plank from Ross, at his own price. See how they work to each other. Ross works a saw mill here, and the public must patronise him. Again, the bridge on the Examination of the Public School in | Centre or Whitby road, better known as Morrison's bridge, gave way last spring, and so it lay all summer. After harvest Ross was appointed commissioner to repair the bridge. (no plank needed.) But such repair! Any old woman in the township would have made a better job. The bridge was better as it lay than it is now. Ross is a broad guage man, but I assure you he was narrow enough guaged on this bridge, as it is not now safe to pass over. Sir, we leave them these little traits of reform, and stump them to their defence Such acts are like those of four hundred vears ago.

The good old law-the simple plan-That they should take who have the power; And they should keep who can." JUSTICE WATCHMAN. Thorah, Dec., 1872.

question, thoroughly acquainting himself with the law upon the subject, and advising action which, while securing all the advantages that the Corporation could possibly have extorted by law, conciliated a Company which might otherwise have given fewer favours and great trouble. It must have surprised Mr. Quinn's supporters to hear that gentleman acknowledge, before the close of the meeting, that the provisions of the law, and the critical position in which hisownignorance thereof-if not wilfully selfish blindness-had placed the Corporation, and from which Mr. Sutherland had guided them, were before unknown to him, and he expressed himself as being glad that some one had taken pains to ascertain what they ought to do. ing over the public interest. Mr. Sutherland's opponents, una ble to find fault with his record as a public man, have entered upon a course of personal villification. But as usual, their evil chickens have gone home to roost amongst those from whence they came. We have nothing to say about Mr. Quinn, as a private individual-as a journalist it is none of our business to meddle with him in that matter. But we believe they are few indeed who will demur to the assertion that in this respect Mr. Sutherland is at least equally as eligible as Mr. Quinn. To the position to which he seeks election Mr. Sutherland will bring the qualifications of experience in municipal affairs, tact, energy, enterprise, prudence and diligence hoiseduti
