The Home Fireside.

The Penitent's Prayer.
Almighty God, I come to Thee,
With only sin and misery;
Nought can I bring Thy grace to claim,
But simply come through Jesus' name.

Like the poor publican I stand,
My sinful breast smite with my hand,
And cry amidst my agony,
O God be merciful to me.

O take away my every sin,
And come Thyself and dwell within;
Take Thou my heart and make it Thine.
Then mine Thou art, and I am Thine.

The Convert's Song.
Now I can praise my God,
For what He's done for me;
He's paid my debt with His own blood,
And set my spirit free.

Now I can sing His praise,
And bless His holy name;
My feeble voice I now will raise,
In praises to the Lamb.

I'll praise Him while I live,
That when I come to die,
I may a blood-bought crown receive,
And reign with Him on high.
JAMES LAWSON, Battersea.

THE MAN WHO KEPT HIMSELF IN REPAIR.
(From the "British Workman.")
'Tis my wife's temper that troubles me,' said Jack Thatch—'she's wonderful fretty, and at times fractions, too.'

'Ah,' said the cobbler, 'when this happens, she's out of repair; and you should set to work and put her to rights as soon as ever you can. I take just as much pains to keep my good woman's temper right as anything else.'

'Why, to look at Mrs. Flicker,' interrupted Jack Thatch, 'no one would think that her temper was ever out.'

'Jack Thatch,' said the cobbler, 'a little quietly, my wife is only a woman. She's flesh and blood; and what worries flesh and blood will worry her. Women have often a great deal more to worry them than men; and what's more, they can't get away from their worries as we can. The wonder to me is, that any woman that brings up a large family of children has any temper left; yes! that there is any of her left at all; and I act accordingly.
I believe I have told you already,
that there are ways above this world of keeping us up in our troubles, and repairing us when we are wearing out; but I know 'tis my duty to do all I can, and use whatever means I have; and so I pray and work too.'

'What kind of things do you do?'
asked Jack Thatch, who, although he understood by this time how the body was to be kept in repair, could not, for the life of him, imagine how this desirable result was to be obtained in the matter of the temper.

'Well,' answered the cobbler, 'sometimes I gather all the children, and have them out in the garden for a play, and leave Mrs. Flicker, believe me, house all to herself. Believe me, 'tis very soothing to have a little quiet now and again, and be able to move about without looking to see that you don't tread on some one.
I say that you don't tread on that.
And I generally manage so as to have five or six shillings in my pocket, for an occasion, whenever one comes; and though we can't go for change of air long together, as gentle-folk do, still we can have a little turn now and again; and I take her off for a jaunt. Sometimes we go by rail, and sometimes in one of the neighbour's spring carts; but, however we go, I always find she's the better for it for weeks after she comes back. In my opinion, Jack, we're all likely to become seedy, if we don't get a little change from time to time; it gives one something new to think about; and it gets rid of a great many gloomy thoughts that the mind is likely to brood upon;
and without being able exactly to explain what this is, it means a good deal: it seems to me that all the little troubles of life keep gathering, gathering, until they come to a head, and they must then be got rid of somehow; and we find that the fresh air often blows them away.

'Then, about that little present that you saw me make Mrs. Flicker, or at any rate that you heard, when the sovereign fell smack in her hand
'twas but a trifle, still it showed her that I had been thinking of her;
and women like well to be thought about. And now, Jack Thatch, if you take my advice, you'll do as I do, and set about repairing Mrs.
Thatch abito. Poor woman! toseh old, broken shoes, and battered bonnet, and ragged gown—she needs and. And never you mind if you can't do it a great deal at all once;
just do a little at a time; only, begin at once—that's the great thing; and if you begin repairing her, you'll see she'll go on repairing herself; for

NEVER do evil that good may come.
An unusual amount of snow has fallen this winter. Every few days there has been a change in the atmosphere, and when it was not too cold it snowed, and when it was too warm to snow it rained.

THE County Council of the County of Ontario felt so happy over the success of the Gibbes that they passed a resolution
congratulating the Government on the satisfactory conclusion of the Pacific Railway arrangements.

MANY readers have no doubt been
puzzled to understand what Tennyson
meant by the word "spate," occurring
in his last idyl—
The last tall son of Lot and Balladine,
And tallest, Gareth, in a showerly spring,
Stared at the spate.
Spate is an old Saxon word, meaning the
flooding of a stream by heavy rains.

satisfactory conclusion of the Pacific Railway arrangements.

MANY readers have no doubt been
puzzled to understand what Tennyson
meant by the word "spate," occurring
in his last idyl—
The last tall son of Lot and Balladine,
And tallest, Gareth, in a showerly spring,
Stared at the spate.
Spate is an old Saxon word, meaning the
flooding of a stream by heavy rains.

NEVER do evil that good may come.
An unusual amount of snow has fallen
this winter. Every few days there has been a change in the atmosphere, and
when it was not too cold it snowed, and
when it was too warm to snow it rained.

THE County Council of the County of Ontario felt so happy over the success of
the Gibbes that they passed a resolution
congratulating the Government on the
satisfactory conclusion of the Pacific Railway arrangements.

OUR DAILY BREAD.

(Written for THE EXPOSITOR, by Jas. Lawson.)
FEBRUARY 5.
And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and showed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God, having the glory of God; and her light was like unto a stone most precious, even like jasper stone, clear as crystal.—Rev. xxi, 10 and 11.

Beyond the reach of mortal sight,
Beyond the starry sky,
There is a glorious world of light,
Where Jesus reigns on high.

In glorious majesty arrayed
He sits upon His throne,
A crown of glory on His head,
Bright shining as the sun.

FEBRUARY 6.
And I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne, and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands; saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honor, and glory, and blessing.—Rev. v, 11, 12.

Thousands of holy angels all
Surround the dazzling throne,
And at His Sovereign footstool fall,
And worship God alone.

In sweet and rapturous strains they sing,
And thus the shining throng
Praise and adore their heavenly King,
With one unceasing song.

FEBRUARY 7.
Power belongeth unto God. Also unto Thee, O Lord, belongeth mercy.—Ps. lxxii, 11, 12.

Thus high exalted evermore
He reigns enthroned above;
But though He is a God of Power,
He is a God of Love.

FEBRUARY 8.
The blessed and only Potentate, the King of kings, and Lord of lords.—1
Tim. vi, 15.

Yes, listen to the joyful news—
The King from Heaven comes down;
He comes to earth to die for us,
He lays aside His crown.

FEBRUARY 9.
For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, that ye through His poverty might be rich.—II Cor., viii, 9.

He leaves His glorious throne above,
His power and majesty;
He leaves the all (O wondrous love!)
For sinful man to die.

FEBRUARY 10.
Let all the people praise Thee.—Ps.
lxxvii, 3.

Let all the world unite and sing
The condescending love,
That brought their Saviour and their King,
Down from His throne above.

FEBRUARY 11.
While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.—Rom. v, 8.

Come, guilty sinners, come and see
Your Saviour and your God;
See how He suffers on the tree,
And sheds for you His blood!

FEBRUARY 12.
Who will have all men to be saved. He ever liveth to make intercession for them.
1 Tim., ii, 4. Heb. viii, 25.

He now stands waiting to receive
You to His open side;
No one need perish,—all may live,
For Jesus Christ hath died.

FEBRUARY 13.
Let us draw near with a true heart, in full assurance of faith.—Heb. x, 22.

Then let us each accept the grace
To us so freely given,
And while on earth secure a place
At God's right hand—in heaven.
