HE DOM QUIXOTE OF THE PERIOD.

ORILLIA, 17th APRIL, 187

"I could not better vindicate the fair ame of the Riding, than by joining with EXPOSITOR of April 3rd.

Mr. Ardagh has a poetic fervour pecuiarly his own. It is "childlike and bland. lis utterances are sometimes of that coniding cha acter which bespeaks "an Ismelite without guile." At other timeshe s strangely suspicious. Of course all this s indicative of a poetic temperament. In act, judging from the famous "petition," we would imagine that he keeps his poliics and his poetry for his law documents, and preserves his "Coke upon Lyttleton to illumine the electric columns of the Adrance. His last freak of poetry since the petition," is the impersonification of the Riding into a something or somebody whose "fair fame" has been tarnished by these unbaptised infidels and Grits, who have, at the same time, seated Mr. Cook so firmly as to defy all the assaults of flood and field dawn on his heroic brain. He mounts his Rosinante and prepares to his soul. It is very pretty in a dramatic point of view. But mishap befalleth. The said Rosinante stumbles and "ye golden locks of ye Knight so bold is hurled into ye dust." "Fraud and bribery!" We would ask in a tone gentle as the descent of the midnight dew, if it is really a fact that the Tories never under any circumstances bribed. If they did not use the public had it all their own way, and when those "tricks that are vain" were practised by the elect on an unsuspecting community. But these Tory tactics have been successfully unmasked by the patriotic exertions of the Reformers of North Simcoe, and the iron entered his soul when he found that neither he, nor D'Alton McCarthy, nor Rugby, though called upon mexpectedly Sir John, had enough money in their coffers to buy a constituency that announced to them in unmistakeable terms that it was "not for sale." should be confined exclusively to the home circle, still it should begin there. And in charity to his slandered friends, who have borne the odium of an uncontradicted stigma, we think that William Davis Ardanh should clear their "fair fame" and make it white as snow, before he looks too curiously into the records of other people. Whatever may have been done since, it is an undeniable fact that it was the political friends of Mr. Ardagh who introduced the law, the younger McCarthy, who has very little indeed to recommend him ex-"so corrupt that it ought to be disfranchised," when his party have from time to time put forth such gigantic efforts to ruin the political principles of the electors. Having expressed his great personal interest, as a man, a minister, and a Christian, in the cause of Temperance, he gave some interesting statistics of the Order of the Sons of Temperance. This Order was first instituted in the City of New York, on the 29th of September, 1842, by thirteen Washingtonians. In 1849 the first Division in Canada was formed in the town of Brockville, with eighteer members. In 1850 the membership had increased to 2,000. The Order was not only succe-sful in the beginning, its progress has been steady until the present time. The last annual report showed in this Province 241 Divior an average of 8939, a little more than thirty-seven members to each Division. About the beginning of the present month, news reached the outlying settlement of Parry Sound, that a man, named Fisher, an Indian trader, had been foully murdered on South River, in the vicinity of Lake Nipissing. Plander was evidently the object of the perpetrator, or perpetrators, of the crime, as Fisher was known to have had sufficient money about him to tempt the unscrupulous. Suspicion fast ned upon two trappers of the name of Tyron, who hail from the vicinity of Barrie. The authorities have shown considerable activity in the matter, and no time was lost in arresting these two men, evidently father and son, the one being about sixty years of age, and the other thirty. Mr. Editor,-I observed in your issue of last week a communication from Morrison as to cheap living, which if not corrected will evidently be taken for granted and considered bona fide. Whether your correspondent is wishing to hurt the feelings of some private individual, or write the consciousness that crime meets its rein a sa irical strain I do not venture to say; but if the party had little to do, I would advise him or them to spare a littic more time and fish for facts. The sum paid was $25.00-time, something less than ten weeks, instead of $10.50 in three months, and from the first sickness "Green" was liberally supplied with soup and grael, gratuituously, by a neighbour, who was assiduous in attention, and know of soap, coal oil, pork, tobacco, &c., being supplied independent of a daily cadging or begging by the boy, until a place was procured for him. I don't mean to say the living was cheap, for instance paying for pork 12 cents-Orillia price at the time 8 cents-I say they lived well; and lastly, the individual who attended to the wants of Busted Green, alias Green Hamlin, was indefatigable in his exertions, night and day I may say, both for body and soul, and has the approbation and good wishes of a christian public. .
