Hall, and, headed by the Orillia Brass Band, marched in procession to the wharf, where they embarked, with their friends and acquaintances, on board the Emily May. The weather was delightful, the scenery charming, and all apparently enjoyed the trip in the happiest sense of the word. Dancing was kept up with scarcely any intermission during the journey to and ER next, in the house of Mrs. A. Paterson, from the scene of the day's amusement. On the arrival of the steamer at her destination, quite a number of the excursionists availed themselves of the opportunity of dined at McDonald's and Sheppard's hotels | Brass Band will accompany them in that village. The remainder of the party hastily improvised seats and tables on the green sward, here and there, beneath the grateful shade of the beautiful cedar grove. Tea-kettles and all the paraphernalia necessary for the preparation of the delicacies and substantials requisite for satisfying one of the most important demands of our existence were soon in requisition, and picnicing in true rustic style was enjoyed. Jokes and original witticisms became the order of the day, happiness and contentment reigned supreme, and their absolute sway was willingly acknowledged by all. dent will be quite as well patronised by Much merriment was afforded by the tall lumberman's recipe for the cure of a "sick lant Jack, who was one of the jolliest pre- was engaged, and discoursed some excelsent, and kept the inmates of the only tent | lent music, in the evening. quaint oddities and droll observations. CONFIRMATION, -The Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Toronto administered the r.te of confirmation to thirty-two candidates in St. James's Church. The Bishop addressed to those present, and more particularly those who had received the rite some plain, forcible remarks. He pointed out the antiquity of the rite of confirmation, proving that it was practiced by the Apostles in the early Church; and alluded to the privileges, responsibilities and duties | by law. which the ceremony involved. His Lord ship's voice is somewhat feeble, but cl'a and distinctly audible in all parts of the building. There was a good attendance, and the administration of the rite, with its accompanying address, appeared to leave a lasting impression upon those who witnessel and heard them. The Incumbent, Rev. Rural Dean Stewart, A.M., read the evening service, and the Rev. R. H. Harris also assisted.

A CONTRAST.-It is argued by many well meaning parties that traders who sell liquor are thereby enabled to do more business and sell cheaper than their neighbours. We hold that this is a mistake. Not only has the cost of the liquor given away to induce to heavy purchases to be added to the prices somewhere, but under | Lots 11 and 12, in the 7th Con. this system of forced trade a greater number of bad debts are contracted, and there are other drawbacks, such as the supposi-tion that his customers are virtually at his Salaries, mercy, which induces a greedy man in Printing, &c., contemplates resuming business.
