A short time since, a number of laborers were induced to go to the United States, to work on some new lines of railway. They were promised high wages, steady employment, and easy times generally. Some of them took their families with them, though the majority were wise enough not to do so until they had learned whether or not the representations made to them were correct. Most of those who pursued the latter course have returned, and the others would do so, had they sufficient money to pay their way. A short experience in the States has fully convinced them that Canada is the better place. Though the wages paid there are a trifle higher than here, all the necessaries of life are immensely dearer; so that it is almost impossible for a poor man to keep the wolf from the door. Other labouring men in Canada will do w." to be guided by the experience of these men, and not allow themselves to be led away by the promises of agents of American contractors.-Tele-

ORILLIA AGRICULTURAL SHOW. - The Orillia Fall Show was held in that village on the 8th inst. The Northern Light says the show as a whole was considered good. There was a fine turn out of farm horses and working oxen; milch cows were good, but deficient in numbers; some of the young cattle were very fine, particularly the yearling heifers. There was close competition in sheep. Pigs were also good, principally Berks. In the grain department, the samples brought forward were good, but the entries of fall wheat came far short of former shows. The supply of roots, the show, the members of the Society, with their friends, dined at the "Orillia House."
