THE OMEMEE MIRROR.
MEMEE, THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1908.
AN APPROVED JUDICE.

In vain the organs of the Liberal party labour to create an interest in free trade. Against that obsolete and condemned issue the hearts of the people are closed. Never had they a more solemn sense of its meaning. It is manifest to the whole country that its adoption would be a prodigious sacrifice, attended by no compensations, followed by no rewards. All who do not wilfully close their eyes to the facts can see that free trade would be deliberate suicide.

There is nothing to point to the contrary but the arguments of the free traders themselves. These are like salt that has lost its savour. Whatever slight original force they ever had is now gone out of them. Most of these arguments are purely theoretic, which came into service when protection was in its experimental stage. The chief bugbears by which it was sought to frighten the country into abandoning that policy were combines, monopolies, extortionate prices. These, all fanciful enough even when the duties were highest, were made impossible by the last revision of the tariff. When our industries had outlived the protection that their earliest requirements called for, some of that protection was taken from them, and they were thrown more on themselves. From time to time the tariff was revised in such a way as to check any tendencies toward combination. The result is that to-day we have very moderate protection; we have a prosperous system of industries, with plenty of competition among them; we have labor for our own town and city populations, which have greatly increased under the National Policy; we have cheap manufactured goods; and we have a home market for our farm produce, better, both in capacity and price, than any other market to which our farmers have access.

We sell agricultural produce to both the United Kingdom and the United States, but the aggregate value of that sold in our home market is greater than that sold in any other market whatsoever. So cheap are the goods sold to our own consumers that even that grumbling against prices which seems to be constitutional in human nature is no more heard. All these old cries of extortion, taken from abstract arguments against protection or from an extravagant example of it in the United States, are false and hollow. They evoke no response from the people. Similarly, the talk about monopolies and combines has an exhausted sound to the ears of Canadians. There are no vast corporations holding the country by the throat. All these things, it is true, were foretold, and now it is sought to be shown that they have come to pass, but all statements to that effect rest on the actual facts. Thus the arguments drawn originally from theory have all been discarded, but still the free traders call for the free traders can find. They therefore continue to use them, recklessly, if not brazenly, but with much effect. They try also to make the farmer believe that the free mission of United States produce is an essential to their understanding, and as covering a cold-blooded purpose to ruin them. Ontario farmers are getting a business more for their wheat than the price ruling in Chicago, and at larger commands a higher price and at larger sale on the British market than that made in the United States. Were our market thrown open to the United States, the wheat would cause a decline of the standard of excellence here as a necessity of self-defense, and not only would our home market be made useless to our farmers, but also the British market would be lost to us forever.

In addition to the exploded arguments against protection drawn from theory our friends the Liberals occasionally intrude some in favor of free trade, drawn from the experience of Great Britain. The less said about the lot of the British farmer under free trade the better. To-day one of the most pressing problems with which the Imperial Government has to deal is how to relieve the British farmer. It has become almost a question of how to preserve him from extinction.—Mail and Empire.

SCHOOL TEACHERS.
A recent editorial in the "Canadian Magazine" laments the possible decadence of the teaching profession in Ontario owing to the reduction of salaries. This is one of the noblest and most useful professions in the nation, and the standard can only be maintained by offering such salaries as shall induce the best men and women to enter and remain in this work. We have long been able to boast of our school system and the teachers, as a body, have been among our best citizens. But the process of reduction has commenced in Manitoba, as in Ontario, and the result will be given charge of schools because others will escape a paperized profession as rapidly as possible. Ignorant people do not fully realize the importance of good teachers to a nation nor appreciate the amount of work that they do. They should be well paid. A common laborer or cheap clerk can earn, in steady employment, from $450 to $500 a year, and no teacher at all competent to have charge of the important task of teaching the young mind, and to give less. If a teacher is worth that salary he is not fit for so important an office. Cheapness is often great waste and folly.

THE KINDLY WORD.
It is Often Withheld Until Too Late to Do Good.
"Tally is better than epitaphy," says some one. It is sometimes difficult amidst the restraint and conventionalities of every-day life to speak our love and interest in the welfare of those near us in the daily life. The opportunity does not seem to come; the heart does not seem to open itself freely. The husband thinks his wife incomparable; but their talk is of business, household expenses and social engagements, and there seems to be no point at which the tender speeches of their courtship can be renewed. The wife believes her husband to be the greatest man in America, but she fears to tell him so lest he will call her "a sentimental little goose." The children are not ungrateful of the debt they owe their parents, but their native and acquired independence keeps them from speaking of it, and their parents wonder sadly if their boys and girls are growing away from them, now that they are growing toward manhood and womanhood. By and by calamity breaks up the loved habit of reserve. The loved one passes out of the daily presence, and then the words of love are spoken. They are not insincere words; but they are fruitless, for the moment of their opportunity is past.

We understand A. Lang to have his brick estate neatly completed. Will Rutherford, is the carpenter and we congratulate him on his excellent workmanship.

WESTWOOD'S SINGING CLASS.
Remember Their Teacher, Mr. Mulligan—An Entertainment.
The pupils of Mr. G. W. Mulligan at Westwood remembered their teacher, who closed his eyes in quietude last Friday night last, by presenting him with the following complimentary address:
DEAR MR. MULLIGAN—As you are about leaving us for the present, we, the pupils of your singing class, in order to show our appreciation of your service as teacher during the last three months, wish to say, that it is with feelings of deepest gratitude we extend to you our most sincere thanks for the great interest you have taken in us, and for the extreme kindness with which you have always treated us. We have always found you cheerful, patient and trust worthy teacher, and your ways had the best interest of your pupils at heart. Since your stay with us you have formed ties of friendship and love with your pupils, and people in and around Westwood, which we hope and trust will be permanent and lasting. We all unite in hoping you may be successful in all your future undertakings, and that in your life may be long and useful, and that in the near future we may again have the pleasure of having you in our midst.
Signed by the entire class:
