St. Thomas, April 10 .- When Robert Goodchild, labourer, re turned to his home on Barwick street Saturday night he received a shock. His wife was gone, and a hastily scribbled note told the angry husband that she wes tired need not look for her, as he would not find her.

Goodchild is the bandmaster of the Salvation Army, and his wife played one of the instruments John Moore, who also lived on Barwick street, played another of the instruments. And thereby hangs a tale.

For the past year the attentions paid by Moore to Mrs. Goodchild were so marked as to cause scandal in the ranks of the Army, and about a month ago Capt. focation and aroused her husband, who, 110 seres being cleared.
