The Face That Tells.

In the six day bicycle races the pace tells terribly at the end. Man after man falls out exhausted. The victor wobbles wearily over the line. In the business race it's the same. Man after man drops out exhausted. The successful man is often a dyspeptic, unable to enjoy success. When the stomach is diseased there is not enough nutrition assimilated to sustain the body and repair the daily waste of tissues. The result is weakness, tending to collapse.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect assimilation of food by which the body is built up with sound, healthy flesh.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure sick headaches.

Another Orange Protest.

The Loyal Orange District Lodge of Emily has issued the following open letter to the members of the Ontario Legislature:

Gentlemen: We, the members of the Loyal Orange District Lodge of Emily, numbering fully three hundred, and representing four different constituencies, have met in a special indignation meeting to protest again your action in passing the legislation familiarly known as the Sturgeon Falls School Bill. Our protest is unanimous, and unless satisfactory explanation is given our united influence will be felt through the ballot box.

We protest against this action of the Legislature because: First—Our beloved Order stands for Principle rather than Party, and we believe and keenly feel that a Principle has been trampled ignominiously and in a cowardly way, under foot.

Second—The question at issue is one not Protestant and Separate or Roman Catholic School Boards.

Third—The legislation just passed was the answer to a petition or memorial from the Separate School Board of Sturgeon Falls. A contra petition from the Public School Board was in the hands of members, but, while the Separate School people received their request, the petition from the Public School Board never saw the light of the Legislative Halls.

Fourth—It is contrary to the grand Principle of Orangism, of which we are justly proud. Equal rights to all, special privileges to none. Equal rights by all means to even the Separate School Board of Sturgeon Falls, if its very existence be not a special privilege.

Fifth—It is legalizing an illegal transaction, which has long since been repudiated by the proper parties. When a thing is wrong, the proper course is to have it cancelled as soon as possible, which the Public School Board did, and not to legalize it, as the Ontario Legislature did.

W. D. STINSON, D. M. JOHN J. WILLIAMS, Dis. Rec. Sec. Omemee, Ont. 20th April, 1904.

Prominent features of the May number of the New Idea Woman's Magazine are adapted to that month. "How to Grow Parsnips" and "The Cultivation of the Strawberry" will appeal to those who are interested in gardening. "Bird Enemies," is a protest against the wholesale destruction of the feathered warblers, and presents the subject in a way that reproaches the vanity of woman. "When Housecleaning Time is Here" will suggest many new ideas for the saving of the housewife's strength, and in Fashion's realm there is a whole gallery of new models that will attract the home dresser. In fact, the table of contents both invites and satisfies.

Mr. W. A. SHERWOOD PAINTER AND POET.

The Montreal Witness, one of the most influential of Canadian publications has recently given biographical sketches of a few of the well known Canadian artists, with a critical analysis of their works. One of its most recent sketches is that of our well known Toronto artist, Mr. Sherwood, and is as follows: "Among the Toronto artists who are exhibiting unusually good work at the Canadian Academy Exhibition this year is Mr. W. A. Sherwood. Mr. Sherwood may almost be said to have been born an artist, as he has painted pictures and written verse since his childhood. Born at Omemee (River of the Dove) a little over forty years ago, he has for the past twenty years had a studio in Toronto, where he has painted many portraits of distinction. Among his most successful portraits is that of the Hon. G. W. Ross, the Premier of Ontario. Mr. Sherwood is also a successful painter of genre. The picture represents two boys negotiating the sale of a little dog; one has the dog and the other has ten cents. The boy with ten cents wants to purchase the dog and the boy with the dog would like to have the ten cents, but loves his puppy and hates to part with it. That is the story in a nutshell. Another story-telling piece of the painter is called "The Entomologist," which is in the possession of Captain Harry, Bate, Ottawa. A reminiscent old gentleman is at the edge of the forest, where there is sunlight and insect life. In the summertime Mr. Sherwood spends his holidays in the fascinating pastime of sketching from nature, and his quiet but truthful studies include charming bits of landscape and marines, from Halifax to Vancouver. As a poet Mr. Sherwood is best known, perhaps, by his "Couching," an idyl of the lake by that name, which is included in "Songs of the Great Dominion," and by the "Martyrdom of the Jesuit Fathers," which was published some years ago in the Globe. In his portrait work there is much to commend, especially refinement and quiet strength. In the present exhibition Mr. Sherwood has three very good things, "His Canadian Backwoodsman," a type of a wild sort of man admirably shown to us on canvas; his "Portrait of Dr. Scadding," in which the sense of gentle movement is pleasingly suggested. In the light and shade are very well managed, the subject of which is charming, and which has good tone. It is stuck into a corner as is all this artist's work, for some reason or other, or the want of it, and it suffers in lighting and in other ways from that cause. Mr. Sherwood loves his art, and we hope to see him make even greater advances in the future."

AN APPEAL TO THE FASHIONABLE SET IN CANADA.

"Lally Bernard," the well-known Toronto Journalist, writes from England of the Battle Against Consumption in Muskoka. Lally Bernard, of the editorial staff of the Toronto Globe, writing to that paper from London, England, where she is now a resident, shows most clearly that the battle against the great white plague is one that should interest all classes of the community. It will be remembered that this writer entered hospital as a patient in the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, and afterwards in the Globe told of real life in that institution. In her present article she says: "Today I have found a letter at the club which nearly mis-led me, having been addressed 'Lally Bernard.' May I express to my many correspondents my warmest thanks for the kindly appreciation for the little I have been able to do in the battle being waged against tuberculosis in Canada. The need of sympathy and interest is a tremendous one, and I am always puzzled when I find really well educated and intelligent people in Canada so criminally ignorant of the extent of the danger, and the means which are being taken to combat it. "It may be of some interest to those who feel as I do in regard to the responsibility which rests upon each and all to aid in this fight against a most insidious foe, when I tell them, if I were in London, where I have been for only a few days, I have already come across the dead enemy four times. First of all, in the back garden of one of my quarters in Kensington I espied, when morning dawned, a tent with two beds in it. I enquired of our landlady why the tent was there, and was told a long story about the occupation and quarters for some boys coming up from the country, and that the landlady had subsequently found it more agreeable to sleep in the tent than in the basement bedroom he had formerly occupied. A little later, in conversation with the lady who secured the lodgings, I learned that the landlady's son was obliged to sleep in a tent! Comment was needless. "In looking for quarters I found a charming home of a young doctor and his wife, where extra-ordinarily moderate terms were asked for really exceptionally good accommodation. The doctor in question had been 'ordered north,' and his wife had to keep the house 'open' by accepting 'paying guests.' "Yet again, in the third place, I found that the lady who was at the head of the establishment had not only lost her husband from the dread disease, but had managed one of the most fashionable sanitariums in England, and her knowledge of the treatment and the extent of the problem in England showed me how tremendous was the host for care and watchfulness in our own country. "May I ask my correspondent to use all possible influence to make the question of combating tuberculosis one of interest in the 'national set' to which she evidently belongs. I know full well, from the little experience I have had, how tremendously a little genuine interest and help might lighten the burden now resting on the shoulders of the authorities of the Free Hospital for Consumptives at Gravenhurst. It is, of course, far away from wealthy centres, and out of sight is to be out of mind. "I am quite understand that until people have seen forty or fifty patients together in different stages of consumption they do not realize what an immense amount of aid might be given by those who are fortunate enough to be free from the disease and by those who have little else to do than to invent or learn some new form of recreation. "Mrs. Torrington has kindly promised me to try and get musical societies and people interested in music to provide a piano for the hospital, and I feel sure it will be of immense benefit to the patients. Surely my correspondent who evinces such sympathy with the cause could make that sympathy take a practical form and organize a hospital library where books worth reading might be supplied, with some system similar to that of the Aberdeen Association, which has done such excellent work. [Note.—Readers—and may their number be many—who desire to assist in the work of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives may send their gifts to Sir Wm. B. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President, National Sanitarium Association, Toronto, or Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee.]
