YOUSOUF WON THE MATCH. Yousouf, "the Terrible Turk,"

had no trouble in winning the w:estling bout Graco-Roman style, from "Cob" Harrison in two straight falls at the Island on S. turday night. The first fall went to Yousouf after five minutes 15 seconds, and he won the second and decisive fall in 16 minutes. From the beginning the representative of the far East was the aggressor, and in less than two minutes he had Harrison on the ground, though Bob was quickly on his feet again. During the last fall Harrison was frequently applauded for his agility in eluding the bruin-like embraces if his younger adversary, and he deserves credit for making the bout last as long as it did He was, howver, outclassed, and though he put up a game struggle, had no chance of winning. Alderman Hanlan acted as referee. -Mail and Empire.

The death is announced of Mrs. Tinning wife of Mr. Thos. Tinning, of Harbord street, Toronto, the well-known promoter of the Sons of England life boat, and the saver of many lives. Deceased was also the mother of W. K. S. l'inning of her Majesty's Customs.

The Kingston News says:-Something should be done to preent small boys from smoking cigarettes. It is bad enough for young men to injure their constitutions by the habit, but mere children should not be allowed to.

There are hundreds of lads between ten and sixteen who continually smoke cigarettes. If they cannot get money to buy them, hey pick up stubs on the street.

WHENCE THE CAT

Probably Adopted by Man Subsequent to the Hunting Age.

It is impossible to trace the origin of the domestic cas with certainty to any existing species or variety of wildcat. Indeed the time at which the cat was first domesticated and introduced to human society is simply a matter of conjecture. Professor Shaler expresses the opinion that the domestication of the cat must have been much later than that of the dog, while naturalists give reasons for believing to the

and for this reason: That dogs were probably first domesticated in order to assist in hunting, and therefore probably in what is called the hunting age of human society; whereas the cat has nowhere been generally used as a l unting animal. The dog is essentially gregarious. He loves to hunt in packs, and when introduced to a human family he regards the family as his pack and hunts accordingly, so that he is easily made serviceable by the human hunter. The cat, on the contrary, is unsocial. It lives alone and hunt alone, so that it could not be expected to be easily trained to hunt, either with men or for men. In fact, the only member of the cat family that is known to have been trained to hunt is the cheetah, though an ancient Egyptian painting, which may be seen in the British museum, represens a cat which is apparently assisting a hunter to catch birds.

cat's wonderful attachment to localities. Animals like the wolf, with which the dog is most closely allied, follow their prey over vast tracts of country and seem to be entirely destitute of local attachment. The wildcat, on the contrary, settles down in a particular spot and waits for its prey to come. When removed from its accustomed habitat, it seems to lose its skill, and therefore would be useless to men in a hunting age, because in that age men seldom had fixed habitations, but roamed abroad wherever game was to be found. Of course much of this is con jecture. Whether the cat or the dog was first adopted by man cannot now be certainly known, but the cat was well known as a domestic animal at an early period of human history.—Boston Journal.

The sort of evidence I can give goes only to prove what no one denies, viz. that intemperance is the greatest curse ples were strictly teetotal, dined and the most potent cause of misery from which this nation suffers. Twenty years of judical life, and 46 of constant attendance in the criminal courts as an advocate or judge, are enough to enable any man to form an opinion as to the extent of the mischief caused by drunkenness. Not a day passes in the criminal court without some evidence of it. I suppose that between 1872 and 1893 I must have tried many thousands of cases of violence and cruelty-murderers, manslanghters, murderous and savage woundings, kickings, and assaults. Of those, I am sure, I speak Admiral Camara's fleet arrived well within the mark when I say more at Port Said yesterday morning, than one half were connected with exsays " Woe unto man that giveth ! cessive drinking. But beyond this I have painful recollections of ruined homes, bankruptcies, frauds, quarrels troops says the navy assisted him husbands and wives, constituting to its aid he could not have landed in tribunals, all arising from indulgence in drink and consequent demoralisation. I can recall miserable histories without number of men and women who have, by yellding to temptation in this respect, lost everything that was worth keeping-character, health, money, and even life itself; old schoolfellows ruined and disgraced, clergy mendriven from their parishes, soldiers and sailors degraded and dismissed after having | Cheese & Butter " Brands. served their Queen and country for a

Some people agree with Professor Shaler

There is another reason for thinking that the cat must have been adopted by man after the hunting ago-namely, the
