KYMRY'S PROPHECIES.

"Kymry" is one of the popular astrologists of England, and he has lately issued a batch of prophecies for the next few years.

THE AVERAGE BABY.

The average baby is a good baby—cheerful, smiling and bright. When he is cross and fretful it is because he is unwell and he is taking the only means he has to let everybody know he does not feel right.

HE THOUGHT IT.

A guardian of the law was relating to a small audience how, after arresting a misdemeanant, he was obstructed by another person, whereupon he also arrested the obstructionist.

"What would you have done," queried a bystander, "if instead of actually interfering, he had simply spoken his mind and said, 'I am an impertinent, officious, loathing scoundrel, who only loitered around and hid violent hands on his betters—adding that he considered you a vagabond and the policeman, 'I would have arrested him all the same for inciting others to commit a breach of the peace.'"

Scientists Agree That Monstrous Cachalot is Fully Equal to the Task.

Did the whale swallow Jonah? The question, which has been the subject of so much dispute, has been revived among government scientists...

Science, with the data now at hand, has been able to sift the matter to some extent, and as one might say, to boil down the evidence. As a result the fact may be considered as definitely established...

What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for others they will surely do for you, but you should be careful to get the genuine, with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Curate figures in regard to the capacity of a whale—the first published, and endorsed by the highest scientific authority—will be given presently. But meanwhile it is desirable to mention the fact that the Smithsonian expedition was organized and directed by Dr. Frederick W. True, who has seen P. A. Lucas, a famous expert, to Balena Station...

CASTING WHALE IN PLASTER.

Mr. Lucas is now on the spot, and having secured the whale, is engaged in making a mold of it. Having about 20 barrels of plaster of Paris, he is mixing the stuff with water in a sort of big tub, such as masons use for bucketfuls over a hole in the wall...

HAS SMALL GULLET.

The "right" or Greenland whale is the next biggest whale. It attains a length of 70 feet, and its principal source of both whale oil and whalebone. But, of a certainty, it was not the whale that ate Jonah, inasmuch as it feeds, like the finback, upon tiny pelagic animals, and could not possibly swallow a man's leg, much less his whole body.

There are several other species of whales, most of them much smaller, but all the available evidence points to the conclusion that the particular creature which took in Jonah, and speared him up subsequently upon the sperm whale—an animal 60 feet long when full grown, of a pre-bent inclination, with a throat capable of holding him. Such, in fact, is the "cachalot" (commonly so called), which, under ordinary circumstances, feeds upon cuttlefish.

PLENTY OF ROOM INSIDE.

Once down the throat of the whale Jonah found himself in a sort of spherical chamber, which a German anatomist has called the "crop," and from which he passed on to the stomach proper, a fairly roomy place, cylindrical in shape and about seven feet long by three feet in diameter. Of course he could not stand up, but he was able to lie down comfortably, and it may be supposed that he did not experience any painful inconvenience so long as his host chose to refrain from eating other things.

Poor old duffer! I wonder if he is as stupid as he looks! This is not the first time that Lord Salisbury has failed to recognize the best known and most popular divines in England.

For the close of this talk the then Prime Minister of Great Britain went to the hostess and asked her what the intelligent young ecclesiastic was with whom he had just been talking.
