

ST. VITUS DANCE.

MUST BE TREATED THROUGH THE BLOOD AND NERVES.

One of the Worst Cases on Record Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

St. Vitus dance is a nervous disease chiefly afflicting children. There are a number of signs by which it may be detected such as a twitching of the muscles of the face, shaking hands, or a jerky motion of the arms, a trembling or a dragging of the legs, irritability and restlessness. St. Vitus dance is caused by disordered nerves and blood—that is why it is always cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pills fill the veins with pure, rich red blood, which in turn soothes and braces the nerves, making the sufferer well. Mrs. Luffman, Pouchers Mills, Ont., tells how Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured her daughter, Louise. "I do not think it possible," says Mrs. Luffman, "that anyone could be afflicted with a more severe form of St. Vitus dance than that which attacked my daughter. Her arms and legs would twitch and jerk, her face was drawn, and finally paralyzed. Her speech became thick and indistinct, and she could neither stand still nor sit down. Two doctors attended her but gave her no benefit. The last doctor who attended her told me she would never get better. It was at this discouraging time we decided to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking two boxes we could see an improvement; she could sleep better and the spasms were less severe. From that on she steadily grew better, and as you can see from the picture a girl as you could find anywhere, and she has not had the least symptom of the trouble since."

BRIDEMAN'S DUTIES IN OLDEN TIMES.

He Gave the Bride Away and Passed the Cake and Cups.

It may be a surprise to some people to know, says the London Globe, that the phrase "best man" is the bridegroom's nearest attendant—a Scottish origin. In the North, also, the principal bridesmaid used to be called the "best maid." Neither expression has much to recommend it. It is a great pity, indeed, that "best man," an indecent and in itself meaningless phrase, should have so completely ousted from our common everyday speech the good old English name of "bride-man" or "bridesman." Another old name is "groomsman" and in days gone by the bridegroom was attended, not by one friend, but by several, who were known as the bridesmen or groomsmen. The term "best man" came into use, presumably, to indicate the one of these who took the lead in performing their various duties and was in closest attendance on the bridegroom. In recent years the custom of having groomsmen has been occasionally revived, but it has not become general. At a fashionable wedding, four or five years ago, the bride was content with five bridesmaids and two pages, whereas the bridegroom was supported by no fewer than nine groomsmen. But at the present time such an array has by no means the same meaning, nor are those attendant friends of so much use, as in days of old. The forerunner of the bridesman or the bridesmaid, whose duty it was to bring the bride to the bridegroom, in most countries where the real or pretended capture of the bride was an essential part of the ceremony, and wherever traces of the very ancient custom of bride capture existed, the friend or friends of the bridegroom had the important office of capturing the lady and bringing her to her lord. In one of Dryden's plays there is the line—"Betwixt her guards she seemed by bridesmen led," and Brand tells us that at many old English weddings the bride was led to the church by two young men, holding her by the arms as if unwilling. This was evidently a survival of the idea of capture. The same idea, somewhat more disguised, can be traced in the custom of the bride being escorted by bridesmen led, and Brand tells us that at many old English weddings the bride was led to the church by two young men, holding her by the arms as if unwilling. This was evidently a survival of the idea of capture. FASTNESS OF LONDON.

There are about 6,000 miles of railway in Greater London, and it is estimated that something like 600,000,000 separate journeys are made by passengers annually. The number of journeys on an average week-day is over 1,500,000. An idea of the vehicular traffic in the streets may be gathered from the statement that in twelve hours 16,654 vehicles of all kinds passed a particular spot in Piccadilly, and a full service of 690 buses passes the Bank of England in an hour. The number of passengers carried by the London trams in a year is over 360,000,000. A census taken of the London Brides on a certain day showed that there totalled 116,902, and in nineteen and a half hours during a day in April last year 248,015 people crossed the roadways at the Bank.

TOWN OF BIRDS' SCALES.

A basket recently changed hands in California which took the owner who made it three years to complete. It was in the form of a fancy work basket, entirely covered with the down of woodpeckers' scalps, among which were a number of hanging loops of strung beads, and around the rim an upright row of little black quails' plumes. Altogether there were eighty plumes, which quailed the sacrifice of as many quails, and at least 150 woodpeckers' tails were needed to furnish the beautiful scalps for the outside. It was originally purchased for $25, yet it was sold not very long ago for $462.

BUNCH TOGETHER.

Coffee has a Curious Way of Finally Attacking Some Organ. Ails that come from coffee are cumulative, that is, unless the coffee is taken away new troubles are continually appearing and the old ones get worse. "To begin with," says a Kansan, "I was a slave to coffee just as thousands of others to-day; thought I could not live without drinking strong coffee every morning for breakfast and I had sick headaches every month. I could hardly keep my food on my stomach, but would vomit as long as I threw anything up and when I could get hot coffee to stay on my stomach I thought I was better. Well, two years ago this Spring I could not use my right arm to do anything, had heart trouble, was nervous. My nerves were all unstrung and my fingers and tips were blue as if I had a chill all the time and my face and hands shone as a pumpkin. My doctor said it was heart disease and rheumatism and my neighbors said I had Bright's Disease and was going to die. Well, I did not know what on earth was the matter and every morning would drag myself out of bed and go to breakfast, not to eat anything, but to force down some more coffee. Then in a little while I would be so nervous, my heart would beat like everything. Finally one morning I told my husband I believed coffee was the cause of this trouble and that I thought I would try Postum and that I had seen advertised. He said 'All right' so we got Postum and although I did not like it at first I made it right down to business and then it was according to directions, and it was using it and the whole family got to using it and I tell you it has worked wonders for me. Thanks to Postum in place of coffee, I have no more heart trouble, my nerves are now strong and I have no trouble from my heart or from the rheumatism. I consider Postum a necessary article of food on my table. My friends who come here and taste my Postum say it is delicious. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. ORIGIN OF "BEST MAN"

AN INFORMAL CALL.

That a certain degree of formality is desirable is suggested by the following amusing story of a neighborly call. "Good evening," said the elderly woman, approaching the steps. "I see you are enjoying the fresh air. It's a luxury to be able to sit out again, isn't it?" "It is pleasant," responded the woman who was sitting in the porch. "I don't believe you know me. I am Mrs. Baxter, your neighbor, two doors off. No, don't get up. Don't just sit down here beside you. Don't say a word now. I have intended to call ever since you moved in, but you know how it is. There's always something. And when I saw you come out and sit down I said to my husband, 'I don't believe it! How could she?' Dick—'Why, she has to, you know; she's a telephone girl.' For inflammation of the Eyes—Painful, itchy, and watering. Use Parmentier's Vegetable Pills which regulate the digestive organs, is of the eye. It has cured inflammation of the eye, and has cured many who were afflicted with the complaint and found a cure in the pills. It is a surprising remedy, and the blood in the eye is immediately seen. "He says his wife is largely responsible for his business success. "Well, she has certainly made it absolutely necessary for him to earn more money!"

LUCKY OMFEN.

A still more curious thing is that it is considered lucky, Miss Burke tells us, for either the best man or the bridesmaid to be already married. "I have really seen," she writes, "a married woman acting as 'bridesmaid!' Less than twenty years ago a Newport newspaper, describing a village wedding, said that Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so, of a certain village, were accompanied by their bridesmaid and bridesmaid respectively. Another old function of the bridesmen, or bridesmaids, as they were sometimes called, was to carry the cake and the bride. The bride, in a bowl, or cup, was handed round at a wedding, so that the friends might drink the health of the newly-married pair—a kind of loving-cup ceremony. But before the proceedings had reached this pleasant point, it had been the duty of the bridesmen to lead the bride over the threshold. This is an ancient and widespread custom, the meaning of which has caused much speculation of late. In the North, in his book on the folklore of the house, the threshold is said to be a place of disincantation by certain unctuous perfumes, but as it was considered unlucky for the wife entering her house, she was lifted over it and seated upon a piece of wood, a symbol of domestic industry. The custom is not confined to European peoples, for a somewhat analogous practice exists in China, where the bride is carried into the house by a matron, and at the door is lifted over a pan of charcoal. Apart from marriage, even in this country, there are folk who are careful not to enter a house to step over the threshold. There is a world of lore, indeed, surrounding
