Mr. Geo. Miller, of Lindsay, called at the home of Dr. Thompson last week.

Another Pioneer of Omemee Gone to His Rest.

A dark gloom was cast over the community when it was learned on Saturday morning that Mr. Robert Grandy had passed away. He had been ailing for quite a while, though only a short time ago he was confined to bed. On Saturday morning at 9.30 the sunbeam came to him by his Lord and he died peacefully, joining the Church triumphant. No man will be more missed than Mr. Grandy, who, since 1857 was a citizen of Omemee. He had endeared himself to all, ready ready to help and to sympathize, never weary in well-doing.

The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon and was the largest ever witnessed here before. It testified to the high esteem and veneration the departed was held in. At 3.30 p.m. the service began at the house. The Rev. E. A. Langfeldt officiated and spoke on the words of the Apostle, "To be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord." He assured the bereaved ones of the meeting again beyond and of the great blessing death is to those who believe. Though the vacant chair could not be occupied again, though the heart was sore of the wound inflicted, yet the Lord Jesus Christ would soothe and heal and would be more to the bereaved ones than any earthly being could ever be. Langfeldt appealed to those who had not accepted Christ yet, to accept Him to-day or to-morrow might be too late.

At the grave the last service which the Church could render to its members, was administered by Mr. Langfeldt, and the remains of one of the most loyal and faithful members of the Church of England were laid to rest in the family lot.

Mr. Robert Grandy was born in Ireland, the exact year is not known, but he must have been about 90 or 92 years of age when he died. He came to Emily in the year 1837. Before that he had been clerk in a store in Cavan and while there taught school occasionally. In 1840 he came to Omemee as clerk in the store of John Knowlson. Here he remained till 1843 when he changed his position and became clerk in the store of Josiah Hughes, who at the same time was in charge of the post office. While here, Mr. Grandy served his apprenticeship in the post office, of which he finally took charge in the year 1845 when Mr. Hughes gave up the business and office and left Omemee.

On Feb. 8th, 1848, Mr. Grandy was joined in matrimony to Miss Sarah Jones, the Rev. Mr. Harding, then Rector of Christ Church, officiating.

In the year 1849 Mr. Grandy was appointed Post Master and Township Clerk. Both offices he held very creditably till four and two years ago respectively, when his youngest son, Mr. R. J. Grandy took charge of them.

But though he gave up the offices of officially, nevertheless he kept up his interest in the work and assisted his son in the keeping of the Township rolls, etc., till about 14 days ago.

Mr. Grandy, though he is dead, will never be forgotten. There is a memorial of him in the hearts of everyone. Statues may not be erected to commemorate him, but there is a better statue, than any marble could produce, in the affection and esteem of the people, and that will pass on from generation to generation.

The sympathy of the whole community is most heartily extended to the widow and the sons, and the Mirror joins in this most sincerely.

Mr. G. W. McKim sold another McCormick Binder last week.

Mr. Roland Hart who has been engaged as an apprentice with Mr. Jas. Spear blacksmith, Franklin, for two years, is now engaged with Mr. R. Morton Omemee.

Master Bruce Whittington of Millbrook and back Sunday.

Edi or A. Sherin, of Watertown, S. Dakota, was here last week visiting his brother, Mr. J. W. Sherin, and other friends. Mr. Sherin is also a prominent solicitor of that town.

Miss E. Spence, of Moore's Delaware, Pa., is visiting her Omemee and Emily friends.

Miss Item and Master Willie McKim spent Sunday with Millbrook friends.

There was no service in St. James' Church last Sunday on account of Mr. Grandy's funeral. Mr. Langfeldt not being able to get a supply. The Sunday School next Sunday will be at 2 and service at 3 p.m.

To the Editor of the Mirror.

Sir.—A petition was presented to the citizens some time since for a grant of $25, by Wm. Adams and J. D. Thornton, which was passed for to provide open-air concerts by our village band, on Saturday evenings, only to prove a failure, and what has been done with the funds.

RATEPAYER

The Rev. E. A. Langfeldt pre-chched a sermon last Sunday to a large congregation in Christ Church, that should have a telling effect on the authorities of the town, in the way of using their power in stopping the rowdiness that has been rampant on our streets of late, especially on Saturday evenings, when the streets at certain parts of the town are blocked with loafers, so that a lady in passing must either take the road or go between a crowd of young fellows, some of whom think it very clever to use foul language in the presence of ladies who cannot protect themselves from their insulting language. We hope that this will be the last time we will have cause to refer to this matter.

How "Titus" Was Written.
"Of 'Titus' it must be said that it was the result of the belief of my mother in me," said Mrs. Florence Morse Langfeldt, telling in The Ladies' Home Journal how she came to write "Titus, a Comrade of the Cross." "A favorite uncle wrote to me that such a book was wanted and said: 'Write you can do it.' I did not believe that I could, but my mother insisted. 'You can. It is in you. Write the book. It will be a success.' That year I was a very busy woman, for I had a young son, and 'Titus' was written with many interruptions. I would sit down to write, be interrupted by a baby voice down my pen, rush down stairs to see whether there had been an accident of any sort or whether my little folk were having some special good time in which they wished me to join."

"While writing 'Titus' I forgot all about the possibility of its being a success or failure; only I grew to love the story. The hours were filled with fun, but seemed to have no time to think, but I had always been in the habit of waking early, and when the sun was just rising those lovely summer mornings it seemed as though the story of 'Titus' came to me in a dream and as if I were compelled to write it."

Discreet Silence.

An excellent piece of advice was that once given to George Gray, a young Methodist preacher, who was in the habit when he began his work. Within a few days of the time he was 15½ years old his name was given to the records of an annual conference as a traveling preacher—the youngest candidate ever received in the Methodist Episcopal church. He was sent to the Barre circuit in Vermont.

As he mounted his horse to set out for his appointed field of labor, a jaunt of more than 200 miles, his uncle, a Methodist deacon, shrewd and humor, gave him a parting address which he never forgot and to which he often referred in later years.

"Never pretend that you know much George," said he, looking up at the youthful rider from under his shaggy eyebrows, "for if you do pretend the people will soon find out that you are sadly mistaken, but neither," he added after a moment's pause, "need I tell them how little you know, for this they will find out soon enough."—Youth's Companion.

THOSE QUALITIES

Which make Plymouth Twine indispensable for the Government Farm Service—great strength, perfect evenness, extreme length, freedom from tangles, purity—are absolutely necessary also to the Twine that will do perfect work in every harvest field. The selection of Plymouth for Government service was not made haphazard, but, after the most careful practical test had thoroughly demonstrated it to be the BEST. Plymouth has qualities peculiar to itself, which cause it to work perfectly where other brands fail.
